SENATE PASSES 5 RELIEF BILLS; UP TO GOVERNOR

Vote on Program for Aid Is 38 to 8.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The Chicago poor relief program—$20,000,000 state credit plan—passed the senate late today, thus insuring that aid to stricken families will continue. The vote was 38 to 8, with two others registering themselves as present, but not voting.

Thirty-four votes were needed for emergency passage. A dozen downstate senators, caucusing at the last minute, came forward with support.

The bills passed the house Wednesday night with more than the necessary 102 votes.

The bills were taken to the executive mansion within an hour after they had passed the senate and had been signed by Speaker Shanahan and Lieut. Gov. Sterling. Gov. Emmerson is ill and he preferred to keep the bills on his desk overnight for a thorough reading. He said that he would sign them tomorrow morning.

There was much rejoicing among officials of the Joint Emergency Relief fund and others here from Chicago to push the bills.

Means Work Will Continue.

"Instead of being forced to close our relief stations the first of next week we are now assured that the relief work will go on," said Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the fund. "Our deepest thanks go to the members of the legislature who supported the program, particularly to those who, though they feared it might add to the tax burdens of their people, gave it their vote. They may be assured that the organizations composing the Joint Emergency Relief fund will support the $20,000,000 bond issue referendum which will be before the people in the fall to fund the tax warrants."

Enactment of the program this week constitutes one of the most rapid series of legislative moves in the history of the assembly, members say.

The bills were brought to Springfield Monday afternoon and sent to second reading in both houses. Tuesday Minority Leader Igoe, in the house, pushed them to third reading and a deep seated animosity among many of the downstaters began to manifest itself. All of Wednesday and almost to 10 o'clock in the evening was consumed in the debate and subsequent roll call—the hardest fight in the experience of many old timers. The vote was 106 to 23. Speaker Shanahan and Mr. Igoe were given large shares of the credit for this vote.

Resistance Shows Self.

James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] was the senate sponsor. The house bills came over to the upper chamber late Wednesday night and a handful of senators waited with Lieut. Gov. Sterling to send them to second reading. Yesterday they went to third reading without comment, but the same sort of downstate resistance had already come to the surface and this flared widely today.

This morning the senate met at 9 o'clock, for a number of the Chicago members hoped to complete the job in a hurry and catch the noon train home. This was a vain hope, for the debate was delayed by a caucus of downstate members until 10 o'clock and when it did begin it ran for four hours without a stop. The roll call consumed two hours more and then without taking time out for a belated lunch the members started consideration of other bills.

Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, the president pro tempore, shared the honors with Barbour and Minority Leader Thomas J. Courtney for the final passage of the program.

Senate Hears Appeals.

The day opened with short appeals from James Nicholsen of the American Red Cross and Lorin Corliss of the Salvation Army, both of long experience in relief work. Mr. Nichol

CONVICTED WITH TWO OTHERS OF SANITARY GRAFT

Jail for Edelstein and J. T. Miller.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Timothy J. Crowe, until recently the chieftain in the Democratic party, and Frank J. Link, leader in the Deneen faction of the Republican party, who were found guilty yesterday in the so-called $6,500,000 sanitary district graft conspiracy case and ordered to serve maximum sentences of one to five years in the penitentiary, will fight to the last ditch through the appeal courts before they serve their sentences. John T. Miller and Martin Edelstein, minor officials, who received Bridewell sentences, did not definitely indicate their plans.

Crowe, Link, and the others, if they avail themselves of all sources of appeal allowed by law, will not see the inside of prison walls for two or maybe three years. Conspiracy, being a misdemeano', is first taken on appeal to the Appellate court and thence the Supreme court.

Judges' Decision Unanimous.

The finding of guilty and the infliction of the punishment was by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, himself a Democrat. Judge James J. Kelly and Judge John Prystalski, both Democrats, who sat with Judge Fisher throughout the two months of the trial, concurred in the decision to give the political leaders the maximum sentence minus the possible $2,000 fi-

J. T. Miller, who was assistant superintendent of the permanent plants and structures department, a job specially created for him, will have to serve six months in the Bridewell and pay a fine of $2,000 and the costs of the trial. No estimate could be made on the costs. Edelstein, who was a former real estate agent, was sentenced to three months in the Bridewell, fined, a ordered to pay costs.

Three Defendants Acquitted.

Trustees John J. Touhy and James Whalen, who are still serving on the drainage board, and August W. Miller, former trustee, were acquitted. This was agreeable to First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who had charge of the prosecution. Northup said he was especially pleased with the acquittal of Touhy and that had an adverse verdict been rendered against him he would have asked that it be set aside.

His action, Northup said, would have been based on a statement of Timothy J. Connolly, also a defendant in the case, but who was not tried, to the effect that Touhy was the only one to protest against the orgy of graft.

Two of Defendants Dead.

Connolly, who fled to California after the start of the investigation three years ago, is to be tried later, John K. Lawler and Lawrence King, other defendants in the indictment, died, Lawler during the progress of the trial and King before it started.

The judicial decision, which was rendered extemporaneously by Judge Fisher, was heard by a courtroom packed to the doors. Politicians from all factions jammed the room and stood for forty-five minutes while Judge Fisher gave his decision, which contained a verbal lashing of both Crowe and Link.

The judge characterized the situation as it existed under the Crowe whopee régime of 1927-28 as "despicable" and said that the judges had no difficulty in all at concluding promptly that a "huge" conspiracy to rob the public treasury existed. He called attention to the fact that Crowe, former president of the district board, and the others made no effort at defense to the prosecution charges.

No Mitigation Found.

"We find nothing in the record that would in any way mitigate the enormity of the offense committed by those who have been elected to administer the affairs of the sanitary district.

"For the betrayal of their trust, for the corruption which they made possible, we feel that the penalty ought to be as severe as the law allows, and for that reason Crowe and Link will each be sentenced to the penitentiary."

The decision was originally sched-

DYNAMITE BOMB DAMAGES STORE OF GENEROS' KIN

A dynamite bomb wrecked the front interior of Frank Annerino's fruit store at 539 West 31st street early this morning, strewing fruit all over the street and smashing windows within a block's radius. Damage was estimated at $1,500. Annerino, his wife Anna, and their eight children were asleep in their home on the second floor and were severely shaken. No one was hurt.

Annerino said he was mystified by the bombing. He has no enemies, he said. Police said Annerino is a brother of Pepi and Johnny Genero, alleged 20th ward hoodlums. Their real name is Annerino.

The Lambert Service station, a gasoline filling place, at 5767 Higgins road, was bombed early this morning with a loss of $300. William Lambert, one of the owners, said he could furnish no reason for the outrage.

CONDEMN 60 WHO BEAT TO DEATH AFRICAN 'WITCH'

NAIROBI, Kenya, British East Africa, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Sixty natives heard themselves sentenced to death today for killing a woman they called "witch." Ten others, under 16, were ordered detained.

The leader of the accused group explained that the woman was a "witch" who had brought severe illness on his wife by casting a spell on her. He said a crowd dragged the "witch" to the sick woman's hut and was told to remove the spell. She agreed to do so, but according to the husband's statement, took off only "half the spell," then ran away. A mob, mostly young men, chased her and beat her to death.

Policeman Martin Knudson of the Austin station was shot and fatally wounded last night in a desperate revolver battle with three bandits in a newspaper circulation garage in the rear of 856 North Trumbull avenue.

Despite the odds against him, Knudson evidently evened the score, for less than two hours after the battle the body of a youth who had been shot to death was found in an abandoned automobile which witnesses said resembled the machine used by the bandits in their getaway.

The body found in the car was later identified as that of James J. Stewart, 18, 2713 Lexington street, by his father, Joseph Stewart. The boy was employed recently as a helper on the Red Star line, a trucking concern, the father said.

Policeman on Regular Duty.

The garage where the shooting occurred is used by the Chicago Evening American as a distributing and collection center where newsboys procure papers and turn in their receipts in the evening. The garage was part of Policeman Knudson's patrol.

Shortly before 7 o'clock a maroon colored car containing four men drew up in front of the Iowa street entrance of the garage. Warren Strouts, 4600 North Karlov avenue, the manager, was talking to Stephen Broda, 13 years old, of 1002 North Avers avenue, when three of the four men alighted from th machine and dashed into the garage.

"Up with your hands," they commanded. The order was overheard by Policeman Knudson, who was sitting on a bench nearby, just out of sight of the intruders. He rose and ran forward, tugging at his revolver.

Gunmen Open Fire.

Two of the gunmen saw him. They whirled around and fired point blank at him. Knudson unloosened his revolver. In the face of the fire he blazed away. One of the robbers staggered. All turned and fled, with the policeman emptying his gun at them. He collapsed as the gunmen escaped. He was taken to the Franklin Boulevard hospital, where, before dying, he repeated again and again, "I shot one of them. I shot one of them."

A dozen squads reached the scene in response to radio calls and sought the maroon colored bandit car. Shortly afterward such a machine was found in an alley in the rear of 3714 West Polk street. On the back seat lay the body of young Stewart.

The machine, police learned, was stolen in the afternoon from Wolfgang Seidenadel, 3433 Franklin boulevard.

Bullets Are Tested.

On orders of Coroner Frank J. Walsh, Policeman A. J. Mulvaney, ballistic expert, examined the bullets which killed Stewart and Knudson, and two revolvers, one Knudson's and the other a weapon which had been tossed away by the bandits in front of 857 North St. Louis avenue. Mulvaney said that a bullet from the policeman's revolver killed Stewart and that bullets from the abandoned gun killed him.

Sergt. Joseph Mooney took Miss Catherine Sterrett, 17 years old, of 2723 Lexington street, a friend of Stewart, into custody for questioning. She was ordered held later at the juvenile detention home. Carlo Bullaro, 18 years old, 2727 Lexington street, also was held for questioning. Later Capt. Martin O'Malley of the Austin station ordered the arrest of Eddie Freemuth, Frank Ingo, a brother of Bullaro, and Harry Salvino.

Policeman Knudson was 45 years old and lived at 4820 Kamerling avenue. He had been on the force since 1918. Surviving him are his widow, Sophie, a teacher in the Schubert school, and two children, Marian, 10, and Martin Jr., 5.

Peers Warn Japan

TOKIO, Feb. 6.—[Saturday.]—[U. P.]—A statement, attributed to two leading members of the house of peers, that "any recklessness at present might lead Japan to destruction," was published in the newspaper Nichi Nichi today. It was understood the two peers referred to are Baron Kijiro Shidehara, former foreign minister, and Hikoichi Motoyama.

The statement, as printed by Nichi Nichi read in part:

"Japan must proceed carefully in China proper because of pending questions regarding Manchuria and the general international welfare. It must be remembered that Shanghai is an international community where international interests center.

"We believe our movements in Shanghai should be most cautious. It is unnecessary to talk of our national dignity in connection with China, because China is not really a nation in the western sense of the word."

The statement concluded with a plea that Japan preserve an understanding with Great Britain and the United States, and warned against recklessness.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—The Japanese cabinet has successfully weathered serious differences which threatened to scrap plans for dispatching army units to Shanghai and probably would have caused the downfall of the government, it was learned today.

A military force of unrevealed strength will be sent to the Chinese port, but the government censors withheld information about the sailing date and the route to be taken.

Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, explained censorship had been made necessary because the Chinese at Shanghai might make a mass attack on the Japanese bluejackets there in the hope of beating them back to their warships before reinforcements arrived.

Will Outline Policy.

The government intends shortly to publish a statement of its Shanghai policy. It was said this probably would be done tomorrow.

Details of the cabinet differences were withheld, but it was learned the war and naval ministers certainly would have resigned if the plan to dispatch troops had been reversed, and that probably would have caused the fall of the government.

Japanese official quarters indicated that if there are to be any further negotiations over the peace proposals made by the United States and other great powers the next move is up to the powers themselves. Doubt was expressed that anything more would be done.

News of the cabinet differences was considered in Tokio to be of great significance. Throughout the conquest of Manchuria the nation, devoutly patriotic and deeply convinced of the ultimate justice of Japan's case, gave the government and the army almost unanimous support. But the Shanghai conflict is being appraised in a different spirit.

Doubts Exist Over Move.

Not that there is widespread articulate opposition to or dissatisfaction with the course the government is following. Newspaper approval has been almost unanimous and whatever doubts exist about the justification and wisdom of what has been done crop out only in private conversations with business men, professional men, educators, liberal publicists, and journalists.

The public appears to have accepted official Japanese versions of the issues involved in the Shanghai conflict and, as a distinguished Japanese editor remarked, they are hurt and bewildered to find Japan "the world's most unpopular nation."

Partisan politics are unimportant in the present situation. Although a general election is scheduled for Feb. 20, the campaign is regarded almost apathetically, and the public is engrossed in the developments abroad, which hardly figure as a campaign issue. Facing the outside world there is little difference between the Minseito [opposition] and the Seiyukai [government] parties.

Explaining the government's decision to send forces to Shanghai, Admiral Mineo Osumi, minister of the navy, said they were to replace bluejackets who have been worn down by Air Fighting Above City Is Resumed; Chinese Bombed.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6 (Saturday.)—(AP)—Japanese bluejackets forcibly entered and ransacked the American Presbyterian mission and press on North Szechuen road this afternoon in spite of an official notice of the American consul on the entrance to the property.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6.—(Saturday.)—Japanese planes sighted Chinese bombers at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Two Japanese bombing planes and six fighting planes pursued the Chinese ships and a clash resulted above North station. An air battle also was under way over Chenju and at Hongjao, where the Chinese have their air base.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7 (Saturday).—Japanese bombers, flying over the outskirts of the international settlement this morning, drew the fire of Chinese anti-aircraft guns, causing a number of shells to fall within the settlement. Eight shells dropped in the sector guarded by United States marines. There were no casualties. An exchange of artillery fire continued this morning in the Chapei area.

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 6.—(Saturday.)—(U.P.)—The first of the Japanese army reinforcements arrived here late yesterday and began unloading big guns, moving them into the battle area north of the international settlement. More troops are due before morning.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6.—[Saturday.]—Men of the American 31st infantry, 1,168 of them, came into Shanghai today to the strains of martial music from a Filipino band, led by picturesque Indian sikhs on white horses and Shanghai motorcycle police. They marched from the transport Chaumont, on which they came, to barracks within the heart of the international settlement.

Shortly after the landing of the American troops a new artillery duel was opened between the Chinese and Japanese forces. Fourteen Japanese airplanes soared over the area west of Chapei in an air vibrant with machine gun and rifle fire, while eight planes reconnoitered over Chapei proper, indicating that a new air attack would be made on Chinese headquarters at Chenju, fifteen miles west of Shanghai.

Explosions Shake City.

Artillery fire between the two forces, meanwhile, grew more intense. As heavy explosions shook the city, two yellow winged Chinese airplanes appeared in the air over Chapei. The Japanese planes were bombing a nearby area, but there were no indications of a battle between the rival flyers.

A telephone message from Soochow, 60 miles west of Shanghai, said three airplanes believed to be Japanese passed over that place at dawn, flying westward, then returned easterward.

The landing of the American troops today was spectacular. A long column of soldiers swung from the waterfront where the transport was tied up on its arrival yesterday and along the bund into the famous Nanking road. Although it was early in the morning, thousands watched America's regular soldiers, who were seen here for the first time.

In High Spirits.

The men were in high spirits. The Filipino band stirred them and the onlookers alike to enthusiasm when it crashed into the song "Parley Vous." The soldiers burst into song with a roar as they passed through Shanghai's famous thoroughfare, which in recent years has seen many foreign military parades, growing out of the city's precarious times. Under the command of Col. L. D. Gasser and 68 officers, everything seemed fine as the troops swung along in the snappy morning air.

"We are not cold, but raring to go," they said, although they had just come from the balmy breezes of the Philippines into a cold climate.

The soldiers wore winter field uniforms, having donned them two days out of Manila. The uniforms showed they had just been unpacked, as did the overcoats, which had not yet lost their wrinkles.

Chinese Cheer U. S. Flag.

Traffic stopped as the men stepped along and the onlookers, principally Chinese, cheered when the Stars and Stripes passed under a guard of color-bearers.

In addition to the Shanghai police and the sikhs who piloted the Americans to their quarters in an immense hall, formerly a Chinese amusement place known as "The New World," a detachment of mounted British municipal officers rode alongside. They cleared traffic and held the crowd back.

The soldiers went to the Shanghai race track, which is alongside the Americans' barracks. Here they enjoyed a breathing spell. Then by single companies they marched into their new quarters.

Unless an emergency arose today, Col. Gasser said, his outfit would spend the day "getting settled." They would police the building, making repairs necessary for their convenience.

Tomorrow the American newcomers are scheduled to take up positions along the settlement defense lines, shoulder to shoulder with United States marines who already are holding a long sector. British "Tommies" will be alongside the American infantrymen.

The new troops lacked adequate transportation facilities. Col. Gasser said they were unable to bring a sufficient number of motor trucks, therefore they would use United States marine trucks temporarily until more equipment arrived from Manila.

Japanese Lines "Dented."

The Chinese reopened the fighting today—New Year's day, the most important holiday in the Chinese calendar—from somewhat better positions. Foreign military observers agreed that during yesterday's hard fighting they succeeded in making a few dents in the line of Japanese strongholds.

On the other side of the ledger, the Japanese chalked down a successful bombing raid. Their airplanes, circling high above the ruins of Chapei, spotted a troop train at Chenju, west of Shanghai, filled with reinforcements for the Chinese.

Bombs were rained on it. A direct hit was scored on one car, shattering it to pieces and causing many deaths. Sixteen bodies were counted about the wreckage of the car.

Chinese Planes Enter War.

The air has belonged to the Japanese since the start of the Chapei battle, but the Chinese were ready to dispute it today. A few Chinese planes tried out their wings over Shanghai yesterday. They did not engage any of the Japanese airmen, but they looked over the lines, it was said, in preparation for real action today.

Modern China has discarded the old calendar which makes today New Year's day, but the Chinese still cling to their traditions. Ordinarily the day is heralded by the popping of firecrackers. Field guns and machine guns produced the noise this morning.

Estimate 350 Japanese Dead.

Intense fighting was going on in the Hongkew section of the international settlement, which has been taken over by the Japanese. Armed Chinese in mufti were held responsible for this phase of the action. Japanese authorities declared that a thousand Chinese snipers have set themselves up in Hongkew during the last few days, taking a heavy toll of Japanese lives. The Japanese dead was estimated at 350 and it was said that an equal number of snipers had been slain.

Much appeared to depend today upon the speed with which Japanese reinforcements are brought in from the homeland. The Chinese were reported to have added to their man power during the night.

Fear Defeat of Japanese.

If the Japanese reinforcements were slow, military observers said, it was possible the Japanese line would collapse. With sufficient reinforcements it was considered probable they would be able to drive the Chinese toward Hangchow. Lines of trenches and fortifications have been dug along the Chinese rear in preparation for a withdrawal.

Japanese naval officials denied today that Japanese troops have been landed at Woosung to occupy the Chinese forts there.

The North China Daily News had said that 3,000 soldiers of the Japanese regular army and 800 marines were landed at Woosung during the night and occupied the forts.

Plans to Resume Attack.

Commander Yamataka, chief of staff, said the Japanese had not landed forces of any kind. He said the forts still were in the hands of the Chinese and that the Japanese planned to resume their bombardment momentarily.

The Japanese command wished to capture Woosung as soon as possible, Commander Yamataka said; therefore it would resume operations today with at least one cruiser, six destroyers, and ten bombing airplanes.

He estimated the Chinese occupying the fort at 1,000 men. Their armament consisted mainly of artillery.

Harbor Crowded with Warships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6 (Saturday).—The landing today of 1,200 men of the 31st United States infantry and the arrival of a Japanese transport with 4,000 Japanese troops added materially to the bristling armament of this oriental port.

The harbor is now crowded with fighting ships of the five leading naval powers. While the Japanese, with more than thirty war craft, have the greatest numerical strength, the British easily lead with four first class cruisers—the flagship Kent, the Cornwall, Berwick, and Suffolk, all 10,000 ton post-Washington conference type of fighting ships.

The United States has some twelve warships in the harbor, including the flagship Houston, a 10,000 ton cruiser, with Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor in command. The personnel includes marines, bluejackets, and the 31st infantry, totaling 6,000 men.

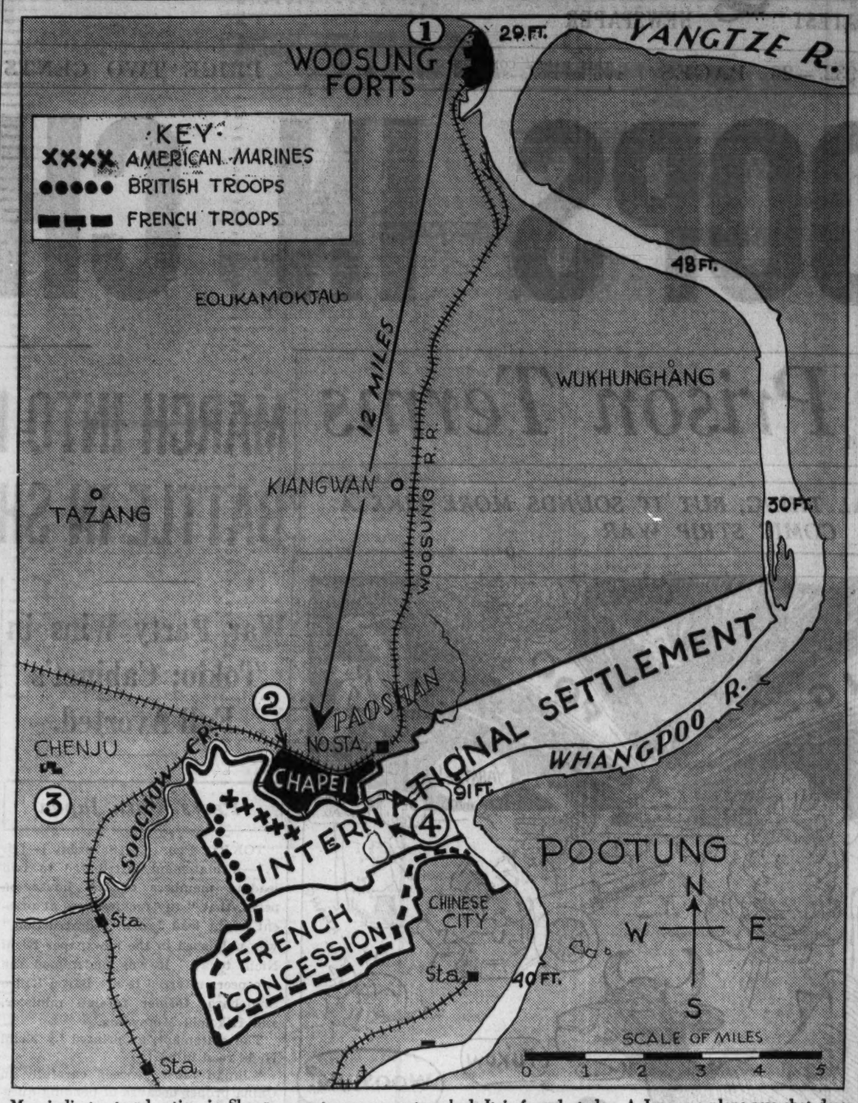
Japan Guards Movements.

The British have a considerably larger personnel, since in addition to gunboats carry a large complement of sailors and landing parties.

The Japanese, maintaining strict secrecy over their military and naval activities, today threw a strong guard about the wharves where their transport is docked, but it is known that 4,000 men are aboard and that they constitute the first contingent of a full division of regular troops expected here in the next few days.

In addition to these forces, France has a cruiser here and a considerable number of men ashore guarding the French concession, while reinforcements are on the way from Indo-China. Italy also has a destroyer here and marines ashore on guard duty. The Italian cruiser Trento and the destroyer Espero left Italy for Shanghai last night, carrying 200 crack landing troops with full campaign equipment.

U. S. TROOPS TAKE UP POSITIONS IN SHANGHAI



Map indicates trend action in Shanghai is expected to take with the arrival of a division of troops from Japan.

No. 1 indicates Chinese forts at Woosung, which are now under attack by Japanese warships and planes. Japanese troops are expected to land here and move down the railway to the North station of Shanghai (No. 2) where Chinese troops are entrenched. It is feared the Chinese, attacked from the rear, will stampede into the foreign settlement just across from their positions, periling American and other foreign residents.

No. 3 indicates the Chinese military headquarters at Chenju, which Japanese airplanes bombed yesterday and today. A Japanese plane was shot down there yesterday.

No. 4 indicates where troops of the American 31st infantry, which were landed today, are stationed in a huge building at Nanking and Thibet roads, and the positions of American, British, and French defenders of international settlement.

U. S. IS NOTIFIED JAPAN MOBILIZES MORE DIVISIONS

Sends Reinforcements to China.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The Japanese emperor has authorized a general mobilization of all army and naval forces necessary for prosecuting the Chinese and Manchurian campaign, according to advices from official sources reaching the Washington government today.

Simultaneously it was learned that the Japanese government will send a second division to the Shanghai battle front as soon as the first one has been landed at the focal point. Information reaching Washington officials is that a total of approximately 30,000 army troops, corresponding to two war strength divisions or three peace divisions, has been ordered to the Shanghai front.

Belated confirmation of Japan's intention to send an army division to Shanghai was communicated to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson late this afternoon by Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi of Japan.

Delay General Mobilization.

The Japanese emperor's decision authorizing the general staff to mobilize needed troops was reached during a momentous cabinet meeting held last night in Tokio. So far as could be learned here no order for a general mobilization has been issued by the general staff as yet. The final decision is expected to rest upon the resistance shown by Chinese troops and later developments.

Military opinion here is that the Japanese campaign plan provides for driving all Chinese troops outside Shanghai and the use of this port as a basis for operations in event a decision is reached to occupy the Yangtze valley to Hankow.

So far as could be learned tonight no new American army troops are to be sent to the far east at this time, although a regiment may go from Honolulu to Manila after the war games. Additional marines almost certainly will be sent to the orient from the United States within the near future to reënforce American forces now protecting the lives and property of United States citizens at Chinese ports.

U. S. Diplomats in Quandary.

The arrival of the disquieting reports of increased Japanese military activities, coupled with the rejection by Japan of the British-American peace offer, left state department officials somewhat in a quandary as to their next step. It was learned late today, however, that a new communication is to be sent to Tokio, but just when it is to go remained problematical.

Secretary of State Stimson will begin conferences with diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and other interested powers shortly to determine whether a new peace gesture is to be made.

The Japanese government left the door slightly ajar to permit the entrance of new peace suggestions, which apparently will be made at some future date.

In some quarters reports were circulated that the United States was planning to invoke the nine power open door treaty if coöperation was promised by the other powers. Officially, however, all state department officials would say was they are bending every effort to insure the protection of American lives and property in the various danger zones. Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, senior American admiral at Shanghai, has been directed to coöperate fully with other powers in protecting American lives.

ALL U. S. CITIZENS IN NANKING ADVISED BY ENVOY TO LEAVE

NANKING, Feb. 6.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—American authorities today advised all Americans in Nanking to leave the city, with the result that virtually all began to depart.

Willis Peck, United States consul general, said officials were apprehensive that communications around Nanking might become more difficult. Therefore he advised all women and children and men not engaged in vital occupations to depart. He said he was apprehensive "lest it become daily more difficult to leave Nanking should emergencies require such measures."

U. S. Refugees Reach Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A group of American residents of Nanking, who left there yesterday after the United States consul general recommended evacuation of women and children from the city, arrived here tonight aboard the British steamer Tuckwo.

Mussolini's Daughter Chats While Guns Boom in Shanghai

[Copyright: 1932: By the United Press.]

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 5.—[U. P.]—Booming guns on the Chapei battle-front have not driven Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Premier Benito Mussolini, from her gray and green home here, because she "wants to see what will happen."

"I'm not alarmed. I can hear it, but I'm not nervous. And I have no idea of leaving," the Italian countess told this correspondent while she fed her four months old son, Fabrizio, who "looks like papa."

"And I'm not worrying," she continued. "I am leaving the worries to my husband."

Talks While Guns Boom.

The countess, whose attitude is typical of that of most foreigners in Shanghai, talked happily of her family even as a terrific bombardment was under way.

Her boy, she said, has the brown eyes and broad brow of his Italian dictator father, whose photograph, signed "Affectionately from papa" stood on the grand piano.

Husband Is Busy.

"I have seen little of my husband recently because of international negotiations," she said. He is head of the Shanghai inquiry commission of the league of nations.

"Of course, we are happy that the government is sending reinforcements," she said, "but I have a great liking for Shanghai. I have many friends here. I hope my friends in Italy are reassured that we are safe.

"The most annoying thing about conditions here is the curfew law. It keeps us from visiting friends and attending the movies or concerts."

JAPAN TO SEND ARMY TO CHINA BY SECRET ROUTE

Hush Sailing Date to Avoid Attack.

"We are sincerely anxious to remove the misunderstandings and suspicions which unfortunately appear to have been aroused in the United States," the admiral said. "Japan has absolutely no intention of carrying out anything in the nature of occupation at Shanghai, nor of menacing American interests in the Yangtze valley. We will withdraw our troops as quickly as possible when the immediate task is complete.

"If America only would recognize that Japan regards the trouble at Shanghai in an entirely different light from the Manchurian situation, she would realize that it is unnecessary to question Japan's intentions.

"Only a Passing Incident."

"Manchuria is a matter of life and death for Japan. Shanghai is only a passing incident which we are anxious to close as soon as possible so that we may withdraw our troops."

Admiral Osumi frankly admitted anxiety lest the Japanese action in sending troops to Shanghai be misinterpreted abroad and expressed the hopes that with the arrival of these reinforcements the Chinese would withdraw without further fighting.

Even if the fight goes on, he said, the United States may rest assured that the area of Japanese operations will be strictly limited. He intimated that those operations might spread over possibly twenty or thirty miles, but would go no further than that.

Want Neutral Zone.

The admiral expressed the hope that future troubles might be eliminated by an international agreement for a neutral zone around Shanghai and by a regulation preventing Chinese troops from approaching beyond a specified limit.

He said the appointment of Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, former naval attaché at Washington, as commander of the newly organized third fleet in Shanghai waters ought to insure better coöperation and understanding, as the vice admiral has a reputation as a statesman as well as a sailor.

The general who will command the Japanese expedition to Shanghai, the naval minister said, also will be a man with a sympathetic understanding of foreign viewpoints.

A foreign office spokesman said that Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi had made assurances to Secretary of State Stimson at Washington regarding Japan's military plans in Shanghai, explaining that these were made in good faith, as the ambassador at that time was ignorant of what was afoot in his homeland.

The government today instructed Naotake Sato, spokesman at the league of nations council at Geneva, to oppose to the utmost the application of Article XV. of the league of nations covenant against Japan, as requested by the Chinese representative.

CHINESE CUT OUT HEARTS OF SLAIN JAPANESE PILOTS

Bombing Plane Shot Down with Rifle Fire.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHENJU, Feb. 5.—This little village, about fifteen miles west of Shanghai on a railway running to Nanking, and the location of the headquarters of Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the 19th Chinese army, was bombed by Japanese airplanes shortly before noon today.

While the Japanese planes did considerable damage, wrecking two cars in a troop train, killing sixteen soldiers, wounding ten, and killing eight cavalry horses, the Chinese, nevertheless are elated because for the first time they succeeded in bringing down a Japanese seaplane bomber. Three Japanese aviators, a captain and two flight lieutenants, were killed.

Cut Out Hearts of Slain Foe.

The ruins of the plane were still smoking when I arrived on the scene, but Chinese soldiers had already wreaked vengeance on the fallen Japanese aviators by cutting out their hearts. This is an ancient oriental war custom followed by both the Chinese and Japanese. The theory is that the victor thereby gains strength and courage from the vanquished.

The captain's body was lying across an unexploded bomb. Several hundred Chinese, civilians and soldiers, had gathered at the scene of the crash, exulting over the humbling of one of the Japanese bombing planes which had been responsible for the destruction wrought in Shanghai in the last several days.

Hit By Rifle Bullet.

The wrecked plane had just dropped three bombs on a troop train standing at the station when it was struck either by rifle fire or anti-aircraft gun bullets and went into a tail spin, dropping onto a plot of vacant ground 200 feet from the headquarters of Gen. Tsai.

Twelve Japanese bombers and pursuit planes were observed shortly afterward to take off from the Japanese plane carrier Kaga and the tender Notoro in Shanghai harbor and start toward Chenju.

According to Chinese officers, twelve Japanese planes flew over Chenju at 7 o'clock this morning to reconoiter. They returned at 10:30 o'clock. Four circled over and bombed the Chinese military headquarters, while the others proceeded to the town of Nanziang, about six miles further inland.

Civilians Killed in Bombing.

Four bombs dropped at the Chenju station demolished two cars of a troop train, killing men and horses. Four others were dropped on the campus adjoining Chinan university, demolishing a corner of the administration building. No students, however, were killed. Twelve more bombs were dropped on the village and an undetermined number of civilian residents were killed and wounded. Neither Gen. Tsai nor members of his staff were injured, according to the military report.

The bomb which struck the troop car did the most damage. Bodies were seared black and clothing was scattered about the station platform among the bodies of horses, one of which was still alive and neighing, although mortally wounded.

Battle in Air Denied.

The report of the bombing and the crashing of the Japanese plane gave rise to rumors in Shanghai that the Japanese plane was shot down by two Chinese planes, but the evidence of dozens of witnesses indicated that the Japanese plane was downed either by rifle fire or by a Chinese anti-aircraft gun concealed in the neighborhood.

Chinese planes which suddenly appeared from the base established by the Chinese at Soochow, north of Shanghai, dropped bombs near the Japanese naval headquarters, but the Japanese claim no damage was done.

The Japanese military press service tonight denied the loss of a plane but promised to make further investigation when informed that I had inspected the wreckage.

HITLER AIMS ONLY AT CABINET POST, HIS AIDS STATE

Ernst Hanfstaengl, press chief for the Austrian born Nazi chieftain, admitted the first aim of the Fascists is to drive a wedge between President Hindenburg and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

To that end he said his party welcomes a suggestion made by a Berlin newspaper that the president grant German citizenship to Hitler. This, he said, would probably cause the Nazi party to back Hindenburg for reelection. Gen. Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense, would then be acceptable as chancellor, Hanfstaengl indicated.

HUNDREDS FLEE AS NEW QUAKES ROCK SANTIAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 5.—Three earth shocks early this morning and four more this afternoon added to the terror of quake torn Santiago. Hundreds fled as the temblors menaced buildings weakened by Tuesday's earthquake. The death toll has risen to 13 and workers are digging in the wreckage to establish definitely the number of dead.

Reports from Santiago tonight said temblors are felt almost periodically every two hours. Pico Turquino, Cuba's largest mountain peak of the Sierra Maestra chain partly surrounding Santiago, cracked open this afternoon. A crevice 100 feet was opened.

Seventy-five per cent of Santiago must be rebuilt. Eighty-five per cent of the buildings are in ruins. The United States marines and warcraft left Santiago for Guantanamo today. Business in the city is still paralyzed.

GUIDE TO ORIENTAL NAMES

Here is a pronouncing guide that will help you in reading the war news from the far east. The information used in preparation of the guide was given by Masao Morikawa, a Japanese student in the University of Chicago divinity school, and Tiehshan Chin, a Chinese student in the Chicago Theological seminary.

Mr. Morikawa pointed out that in the Japanese language all "A's" are pronounced like the English "A" in arm; all "E's" like the "E" in best; all "I's" like the "I" in kiss; all "O's" like the "O" in rope, and all "U's" the most difficult for American pronounciation, like the "U" in "uh." In general no syllables are accented. Some of these rules have exceptions.

Mr. Chin said that as a rule no syllables are accented in Chinese. There is a slight rising inflection on the last syllable.

Following is a list of Japanese and Chinese leaders and the places mentioned in the news, with the pronunciation translated as nearly as possible into English sounds:

JAPANESE LEADERS.

Emperor Hirohito (Hih-roe-hih-toe).

Y. Shimizu (Shih-Mih-tzuh), consul at Tsitsihar, Manchuria.

CHINESE LEADERS.

JAPANESE POINTS.

Osaka (Oh-sah-kah).

Kobe (Koe-beh).

Nagasaki (Nah-gah-sah-kih).

Sasebo (Sah-seh-boe), Japanese naval base.

Kure (Kuh-reh), Japanese naval base.

CHINESE POINTS.

Shanghai (Shahng-high).

Chapei (Chah-pay), native settlement of Shanghai.

Woosung (Woo-soong), forts near Shanghai.

Soochow (Soo-joe), canal in Shanghai.

Nanking (Nahn-cheen).

MANCHURIAN POINTS.

Kirin (Chee-lin).

Tsitsihar (Tsee-tsee-hah-er).

Harbin (Hah-er bin).

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 5.—A serious new difficulty has appeared in Shanghai in the outbreak of several forms of disease in the overcrowded buildings of the safety zone in the international settlement.

In virtually every building—warehouses, offices, and flats—the curfew hour finds hall floors, stairways, landings, and every other available foot of space filled with sleeping Chinese.

Even in apartment buildings occupied by foreigners the same condition prevails, for servants are permitted to bring their countless relatives there for safety.

BANDITS CAPTURE U. S. REPORTER IN MANCHURIA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The state department today instructed its consuls at Peiping and Harbin to do all possible to effect the release of Edward Hunter, American newspaper correspondent, reported captured by Chinese troops in Manchuria. Department officials explained that the action was taken on the basis of press reports telling of Hunter's capture.

Hunter, correspondent at Peiping for International News Service, is 30 years old and a native of New York. He worked on several newspapers in the United States, France, Cuba, and Japan. He went to China in 1928.

Japan Orders Hunt.

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Japanese war office today telegraphed Gen. Honjo's headquarters at Mukden to push a search for Edward Hunter captured by bandits in Manchuria.

GREEKS BLAMED FOR EXPRESSION "SINO-JAPANESE"

The Greeks, who had a word for almost everything, may take the credit or the blame for that interesting combination "Sino-Japanese," which has appeared in print so often during the last few months. In the old Greek, Sinai meant Chinese. In the new English the old word has been lifted and, changed somewhat in form, hitched to another for the sake of convenience. You can still call it Chinese-Japanese if you want to.

Chinese Seek to Broadcast Shanghai War at Geneva

GENEVA, Feb. 5.—[U.P.]—The Chinese delegation will ask authority of the Swiss government to install a radio loud speaker in the world disarmament conference building to broadcast the sounds of battle at Shanghai, the Jornal de Geneve said today. The loud speaker would be set up in some spot where the delegates could hear the fighting in China between sessions.

BIG WAR GAME ON TODAY; IT'S IN THE PACIFIC

U. S. Forces Will "Battle" for Hawaii.

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 5.—Mimic warfare between American army and navy forces will open at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. The "blue" fleet which is approaching the Hawaiian islands will attempt to dislodge the "black" forces which are assumed to have captured the islands last fall.

The Hawaiian division on Oahu is in position in three sectors, known as North, Ewa, and Honolulu. The air corps has perfected defenses on the other islands.

Plant Anti-Aircraft Guns.

The coast artillery has placed anti-aircraft guns and searchlights about the islands, and the black fleet, comprising mine craft, submarines, and naval aircraft, will go to sea to attempt to intercept the attacking fleet which is bringing a theoretical expeditionary force of 40,000 troops.

Prospective landing places are at Haleiwa, Waianae, Nanakulo, Waimanalo, and on Oahu. The sector commanders have stationed troops at these points. They are supported by field artillery and aircraft from Wheeler and Luke fields.

The invaders have 61 warships and aircraft from the carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

One Week to Capture Isle.

The blue attacking force has one week to capture the islands. The capture involves problems of communication, provisioning and tactics for both sides. The equipment here has been hauled over precipitous mountain trails and through cane fields and heavy undergrowth.

Thousands of men occupy positions almost invisible from the air. Even the large guns are cleverly hidden. Thousands of miles of telephone and telegraph lines are in operation while the outposts will report enemy movements by wireless, and air patrols will circle far out at sea.

The umpires of the invasion today explained that the problems involved will require a prolonged study after the actual maneuvers are completed.

ZERO HOUR NEAR

BY CAPT. C. M. AUSTIN.
[Assistant Chief of Staff, U. S. N.]

ABOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Somewhere-at-Sea, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The zero hour will soon be upon us.

The terms of our military-naval exercises set the two forces down well apart in the beginning and also drew a deadline between them that may not be crossed until the zero hour.

Admiral Richard Leigh's blue forces, ships of the battle force plus army and marines under Maj. Gen. Craig, put to sea from the ports of southern California Feb. 1.

Maj. Gen. Briant Wells, commanding the black army and navy defending the Hawaiian islands against our attack, is informed fully of the speed of our ships and knows to the hour when we can reach the deadline, 1,778 miles from our starting point, cross it, and, traversing the intervening 500 miles, deliver the first blow of our campaign. Acts of hostility are in order tomorrow, but the physical limitations of the two forces still serve to keep them apart.

Lives Lost as Storm Rocks Isle; Ship Sunk in Collision

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Word from Mauritius today said practically the whole reunion island has been badly damaged by a terrific storm. It is thought some lives were lost.

Japanese Airplanes Bomb Fleeing Chinese Near Harbin

HARBIN, Manchuria, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Heavy casualties were inflicted by Japanese air bombers today on the fleeing troops of Gen. Ting Chao, who headed for the southeast, leaving Harbin in the hands of the Japanese.

The occupation was effected after a devastating bombardment. Several Japanese shells went off near the headquarters building of the Chinese Eastern railway, jointly owned by Russia and China, and soviet officials of the road held an emergency meeting to consider the situation.

Try to Embroil Russia.

The Chinese had put two field guns in action in the open space in front of the railroad headquarters, and Japanese authorities said they thought this had been done in the hope of causing trouble between Japan and Russia.

Harbin, an important railroad center, is second only to Mukden among the cities of Manchuria. It is the hub of Russian influence of the province.

Thousands of Japanese residents cheered the troops of Gen. Jiro Tamon as they occupied all public offices and strategic defensive points. Gen. Ting Chao and his staff fled toward Acheng, 26 miles southeast of Harbin.

Martial Law Declared.

HARBIN, Feb. 5.—[U. P.]—The Japanese army declared martial law in the Harbin area tonight, extending its control around the city and pursuing the shattered Chinese army of Gen. Ting Chao after severe fighting in which Chinese casualties were high.

Gen. Jiro Tamon, in immediate command of the Japanese troops under Gen. Hasebe, set up a temporary government at Harbin, which is within the sphere of influence of soviet Russia.

Soviet officials in the city remained secluded in their homes while Gen. Tamon had the city plastered with placards promising "fair play" to all residents. Additional Japanese airplanes and troops are en route here from Changchun.

The pursuit and destruction of Ting Chao's army, last of the Chinese forces to defend any part of Manchuria, probably will require considerable time, the Japanese indicated. A detachment was sent against Pinhsien to destroy the Ting Chao government, which had opposed the pro-Japanese government of Kirin province, and other troops pursued the defeated Chinese.

Russia Still Sits Tight.

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—(AP)—News that the Japanese had occupied Harbin, strategic point of the Chinese eastern railway, reached here tonight, but it was expected that no change would be made in the Soviet government's hands-off policy in the Sino-Japanese dispute. The Chinese eastern is jointly owned by Russia and China. An official denial was issued that Soviet troops had been sent to Manchuria.

FIND TWO OUTER DOORS OPEN ON SUBMARINE M-2

PORTLAND, England, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Almost at the same hour the navy was holding impressive services over the channel grave of the submarine M-2 today, divers 100 feet below the surface found the submersible's outer seaplane hangar door and upper conning tower hatch open. While the discovery did not completely clear up the mystery of the M-2's fatal plunge with the loss of 61 lives on Jan. 26, naval experts believe it might throw a strong light on the causes of the disaster.

The fact that the door and hatch were open, might have meant that the submarine was flooded sufficiently for water to reach her chloride batteries. Thus poison gas might have been given off which would have suffocated the crew within a few moments. Efforts to raise the hapless craft proceeded, divers concentrated their efforts to discover if the inner hangar door and the lower conning tower hatch were open or closed.

Impressive ceremonies were held aboard the submarine mothership Adamant today over the spot where the M-2 made her last dive.

CHINESE BANDITS TO RELEASE YANK HELD 16 MONTHS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 5. — (AP) — The American consulate at Hangkow received word today that the Rev. Bert N. Nelson, held for ransom by Chinese bandits since October, 1930, will be released within two months. Nelson, an American missionary, for whom ransom at one time of $300,000 in silver had been demanded, was reported in good health and well fed and clothed. He was believed to be on good terms with his captors, whose ransom demands have melted in recent months to $2,100.

Urge Dutch to Forbid Arms and Loans to China, Japan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Feb. 5.—The reported decision of New York bankers to refuse further loans to China and Japan had its reaction in the Dutch parliament today. Leaders of the Social Democrats urged the government to forbid Dutch and Dutch East Indian banks to finance Japan and China, and also to forbid the export to them of arms and ammunition.

FRENCH PROPOSE TO ARM LEAGUE TO STOP WARS

Scheme Envisages World Police Force.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 5.—France sprang suddenly on the offensive today less than thirty seconds after the world disarmament conference was declared ready for business with a series of proposals to turn the league of nations into a real armed super-state.

Then with security assured by "fundamental guarantees of peace," the intimation is that disarmament would be in a practical position.

Finding herself very much entrenched behind the draft of a disarmament treaty, France abandoned her lonely pose and established a new position away out in front.

Tardieu Introduces Plan.

France says that the plan deftly introduced ahead of all others by Andre Tardieu, minister of war, and chief of the French delegation, "presents proposals for placing civil aviation, bombing aircraft and also certain material of the land and naval forces at the disposal of the league, for creating a punitive international police force, for political conditions upon which such measures depend, and finally for new rules providing for the protection of civil populations."

How far out in front France moved herself is clear when it is seen that she wants the league armed, particularly with airplanes, and to possess not only bombing planes but to be able to call for use all others with military potentialities.

She wants the league, moreover, to be allowed to ask for the use of all capital ships left in existence, with this as the condition of their existence, and all submarines over a certain tonnage.

Proposes Police Force.

She wants the league endowed with an international police force to avoid war and to form the ground work of punitive forces to which planes and capital ships would be added to protect a state which had been a victim of aggression. She announced just what in the way of troops, ships and planes she is ready to offer.

The first army and navy to fly the league flag, it appears, would be a mixed brigade, light naval division and a mixed group of aircraft.

"The present conference," Tardieu said, "offers the best opportunity ever to make a definite choice between a league possessing executive authority and a league paralyzed by intransigeant sovereignties. France has made her choice. She suggests that others make theirs."

Many of them seem to have done so already although all find the proposal "very interesting."

Tardieu brought the French taste for drama into a day of few dramatic possibilities. There had been a tedious vote to elect fourteen vice presidents of the conference when weary Arthur Henderson, conference chairman, arose and said:

"Tardieu wants to say a few words."

Tardieu Stirs Delegates.

Tardieu, a long cigaret holder in his hand, strode up and said simply that the French in answer to the chair's appeal for early action were handing in their proposals.

There was a great stir, as Tardieu was not expected to speak his mind until Monday. It was obvious that the French had anticipated Italy's drive for a draft treaty with the proposal for an armaments truce which, combined with other factors, would put the French on the defensive.

Tardieu said France wanted to go further than a draft treaty.

"We are here to work with good will and want to prove our good will by acting," he said after skimming through the proposal.

The new war rules propose a ban on incendiary and poison gases and bacteria projectiles and limit the bombardment of the innocent.

Internationalization of all military airplanes and dirigibles above a certain tonnage was one of the first proposals. Construction of commercial planes capable of military use would be forbidden. Large planes for international service would be under the auspices of the league.

Only those signatories agreeing to put aircraft at the disposal of the league would be entitled to have long range artillery, capital ships carrying guns exceeding eight inches or of more than 10,000 tons, or submarines over a tonnage yet to be decided.

Borah Denounces Plan.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The French proposals for the establishment of an international police force to guarantee the security of the world, as presented formally to the general disarmament conference at Geneva today by Andre Tardieu, chief of the French delegation, was received here without discernible approbation. The reaction in congressional circles was not favorable.

Members of the foreign relations committee were almost unanimously opposed to the plan. Senator Borah, radical Republican of Idaho, chairman of the committee, voiced his opposition by asserting that the proposal was a "logical product of the Versailles treaty," and declaring that it would mean the people of Europe were "to live in the straitjacket fastened upon them in the hour of war passion and bitterness."

GETS AERIAL THRILL

Mother Pays

Agnes Wolthuis, 3 years old, daughter of Lieut. Joseph Wolthuis of the Oak Park police, gazed up at the cluster of 36 gas-filled balloons in the hand of Joe Lacardo, licensed vender, standing in North Oak Park avenue in the suburb's business district, yesterday. A mail plane overhead drew Lacardo's attention. Agnes broke away from her uncle, John McClelland, 5241 West Adams street, snatched the balloons and dashed down the street. Running in pursuit, Lacardo was within a foot of the girl when she stumbled and let go of the strings. The balloons floated away. Mrs. Wolthuis, 949 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, the girl's mother, paid Locardo 10 cents for each balloon, a total of $3.60.

FORMER JOLIET MAN KIDNAPED IN WEST; FOUND

Banker Rescued by Plane Pursuers.

BULLETIN.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 5.—(AP)—A twenty year old girl, Billy Adkins, was arrested late today and her rancher father was sought for questioning in connection with the abduction of Gordon H. Sawyer, Tucson banker. The girl denied knowledge of the kidnaping. She said she did not know her father's whereabouts.

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gordon Sawyer, vice president of the Southern Arizona National bank, was kidnaped from his garage as he returned to his home from a Masonic meeting last night. Sawyer formerly lived in Joliet, Ill.

The biggest man hunt in the history of Tucson was on an hour after the banker was reported missing. The search was at a standstill until daylight broke, when six local planes took to the air and located the kidnaped man's car several miles from the city.

Several hundred citizens took part in the hunt as the news was broadcast, autos taking to the desert and hills in an endeavor to locate the banker.

About two hours after daylight a pair of deputy sheriffs ran into the kidnapers as they were endeavoring to sweep out the tracks of their car which the deputies were following. With rifles, they opened fire on the officers, which was returned by the deputies with six guns. No one was injured, but the deputies ran out of ammunition and, reaching a phone, spread the alarm that they had found the kidnapers.

Upon the return of the officers, reinforced, they found the kidnapers gone, but located Sawyer in a 30 foot well, bound hand and foot. He was uninjured, but suffering from exposure and shock. He said the kidnapers had demanded $60,000. The desert was the scene of a broad hunt as police, sheriff's deputies, townspeople, and planes tried again to locate the kidnapers.

MRS. FORTESCUE AND SON-IN-LAW PLEAD NOT GUILTY

HONOLULU, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Granville Fortescue and the three naval men charged with second degree murder in connection with the lynching last month of a native, pleaded not guilty at their arraignment today.

The other defendants are her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men, A. O. Jones and E. J. Lord. They are accused of slaying Joseph Kahahawai, accused of raping Mrs. Massie. Their trial was again delayed to await information as to when Maj. Fortescue, husband of the defendant, will arrive here.

Detectives today investigated a purported attempt to attack E. E. Howard, 45, of the submarine base at Pearl Harbor, who is a friend of Jones. Howard told the detectives that when he drove into Honolulu yesterday his car was followed by a machine containing five men. When he stopped, Howard said, the other car drew up in front of him and the men surrounded his car. He said he frightened them off by pretending to reach for a gun.

LEAGUE TO MEET TODAY TO HEAR SHANGHAI REPORT

Tokio Reply to U. S. Puzzles Geneva.

GENEVA, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A call was issued tonight for a meeting of the league of nations council tomorrow afternoon in the expectation that by that time the first report of the league's investigators in Shanghai would have been received.

League authorities forecast that the session would be brief and without debate. It was indicated that if the great powers were not ready to take a definite step to settle the conflict they at least hoped the Chinese and Japanese would be quiet at the council meeting and would not aggravate the diplomatic situation.

League Is Puzzled.

It was learned that some league officials had declared they could not understand why Japan had objected to the fifth point in the peace program submitted by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy. This point covered participation by neutral parties in Sino-Japanese negotiations.

These league officials were of the opinion that such negotiations had been provided for in the council's resolution of Dec. 10 and that the Japanese had recognized that principle.

China Plans Sterner Action.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, said China was ready to ask for action under Article XVI of the league covenant—the article that provides for economic and military measures against an aggressor—but "we do not wish to do this unless there is a chance of accomplishing some good."

Latvia Signs Pact with Russia for Nonaggression

Safe Pleasant Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take Kruschen every morning—don't worry—it's the SAFE way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

JOHN R. VOORHIS, TAMMANY HALL'S PATRIARCH, DEAD

"Too Many Years" Ends Career at 103.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The body of John R. Voorhis, New York's most colorful centenarian, will lie in state tomorrow in Tammany Hall, where he long has been revered as Tammany's grand old man. Monday the body will be taken to Pompton, N. J., after services in the Greenwich Presbyterian church, and interred in the great vault near his boyhood home that he ordered built soon after his one hundredth birthday.

Tammany's patriarch, who gave fifty-eight of his years to public service as an office holder, died early today at the age of 102, more than half way through his 103d year. A heart attack ended the life that Mr. Voorhis said on his last birthday had "run long enough."

Monday Mr. Voorhis was up and about and was seen on the street. Tuesday he became ill and death came to him at last this morning in the little red brick house on Greenwich street in the shadow of the Ninth avenue "L."

With him when he died was Miss Anne Voorhis, his eighty year old daughter. Another daughter, Mrs. Clara Newell of Mount Vernon, N. Y., survives.

"Too many years," said his physician, as death came quietly to claim Mr. Voorhis, who welcomed it. On his last birthday, July 27, Tammany's aged brave told his newspaper friends that life had "become a tedious round of milk and eggs six times a day."

Saw Wonders Spread.

Mr. Voorhis had seen this city grow and spread from the Battery to the hills of Westchester. He saw the great fire of 1835, the draft riots of 1861, the Tweed scandals, and the Lexow investigations when he was a commissioner of police, and, finally, the Seabury inquiry. He saw the great bridges built, and inventions such as the telegraph, telephone, electric light perfected. The war between the states, the Spanish-American war, and the world war came during his lifetime. He saw great apartments replace the city's homes and skyscrapers rise and fall and rise again.

Newspapers rose to prominence and folded or were merged during his years. Horace Greely was the town's great editor during his youth and Mr. Voorhis was an aged man when the Flatiron building first "towered" above Madison Square.

In his fifty-eight years as a public servant Mr. Voorhis was excise commissioner, commissioner of the police board, police justice, commissioner of docks, commissioner of elections, president of the board of elections, superintendent of buildings, and state superintendent of elections. There is no record of any city official having given such varied or lengthy service.

Moderation Keynote of Life.

New York's extraordinary old gentleman had a philosophy of life and it was his persistent advice to young men not to assume obligations they could not fulfill.

"I eat what I want," he used to say. "I'm fond of candy, a good cigar and a wee drop of liquor. I sleep eight hours, read or think eight hours and work eight hours. On Sundays I go to church and rest."

Moderation was the keynote of Mr. Voorhis long life. He ascribed his years to a naturally sound constitution and to the fact that he was temperate.

Both the paternal and maternal ancestors of John Voorhis came from Holland. He was born near Pompton Plains, N. J., on July 27, 1829.

COMPLETE STEEL WORK ON UNIT OF FIELD BUILDING

The erection of the steel work on the first unit of the Field building at La Salle and Adams street has been completed in forty working days of eight hours, according to an announcement made yesterday. This unit is twenty-six stories.

The average time taken for such a task would be seventy-five days, said Adolph Hanson, in charge of the steel work. A total of 5,800 tons of steel were used and 145 tons was delivered daily. The number of rivets required was 195,000.

Between 600 and 700 men have been employed in the construction since Jan. 1. Exterior stone work has been laid up to the eighth floor.

BROKER QUITS AS HEAD OF STATE FREE JOB OFFICE

John Keane, head of Keane & Co., La Salle street securities house, tendered his resignation yesterday as superintendent of the state free employment bureau. His immediate superior, Barney Cohen, director of the state department of labor, immediately accepted the resignation on behalf of Gov. Emmerson.

The governor had instructed Mr. Cohen last Tuesday to investigate reports that Mr. Keane was using his state position to enhance his prestige as an investment counselor. The governor's move followed publication in THE TRIBUNE of excerpts of the sales literature issued by Keane & Co.

In a letter announcing his resignation, Mr. Keane declared he had resided in Evanston for thirty years without ever having had his reputation as a business man and citizen assailed. He declared that he had not sought the free employment post and had accepted it reluctantly, at a sacrifice to his personal business.

Mr. Cohen said he had as yet given no consideration as to Mr. Keane's successor. He declared that Keane's supervision of the employment bureau had been entirely satisfactory but that his mention of his state job in the Keane & Co. literature had been "a mistake."

APPOINTMENT OF MELLON RUSHED THROUGH SENATE

No Debate Despite Some Opposition.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Andrew W. Mellon, for eleven years secretary of the treasury, became officially ambassador of the United States to Great Britain today with the confirmation of his appointment by the senate.

SENATOR M'KELLAR. [A. P. Photo.]

The President immediately thereafter sent to the senate the nominations of Ogden L. Mills, former undersecretary, to be secretary of the treasury, and Arthur A. Ballantine, assistant secretary, to be undersecretary.

Act Without Debate.

There was no debate as the senate took up consideration of Gen. Charles G. Dawes' successor. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], long a critic of the administration's fiscal policies, announced that while he intended to vote against Mr. Mellon, he would refrain from speech making.

Senator Reed [Rep. Pa.] called the nomination up and asked for its immediate consideration. It had been hurried through the foreign relations committee at a morning session. The vote was viva voce, only two or three others besides Senator McKellar calling out "No."

Hoover Is Notified.

In view of the fact that Mr. Mellon's resignation of the secretaryship means his automatic retirement as ex-officio director of the reconstruction finance corporation with Mr. Mills succeeding to the place, Senator Reed asked that the president be notified of the confirmation immediately. This was done.

The Mills and Ballantine appointments probably will be taken up by the senate next Monday.

Britain Also Approves.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—British approval of Andrew W. Mellon as ambassador to the court of St. James became unanimous today. This was made certain when formal diplomatic approval of the American banker was conveyed from the foreign office to the American embassy this afternoon. Universal satisfaction had been previously expressed.

Convicted Murderess Sent to Prison Isle at Own Wish

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Eva Martinez, an American nurse from Los Angeles, Cal., has been taken to Mexico's penal colony on the Tres Marias islands off the west coast at her own request to serve out a ten year sentence for the slaying of Dr. Narciso Cosio Aguilar here three years ago. The nurse was reported to have asked transfer from the local penitentiary to the island colony because she wishes to see her mother, and the visit could not be made in Mexico City because of the high altitude affecting her mother's heart.

SHOT TO SCARE SEDUCER, SAYS ALLEN ON STAND

Youth Describes Slaying of Donaldson.

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Applause, laughter and hisses filled the Montgomery county courtroom this afternoon as Edward H. B. Allen, 23, steeplechase rider, told how and why he killed Francis A. Donaldson III., his sister's seducer, on the night of last Nov. 9.

The applause, which came from a crowd in which were many sportsmen and others prominent in Philadelphia society, was an expression of sympathy and encouragement for the defendant as he replied to questions from District Attorney Stewart Nase during cross-examination. The hisses and guffaws were for the prosecutor.

In response to Nase's question as to why he shot Donaldson "in the legs," Allen said:

"I never meant to shoot him at all."

Judge Checks Applause.

A clapping of hands started throughout the courtroom, while attendants called for order. The applause at this juncture increased in volume and swept the courtroom from end to end. When order was finally restored Judge Harold Knight, shouting angrily that "this is no show," reprimanded the crowd and threatened to clear the courtroom if such a demonstration were repeated.

Earlier in the day the feelings of the spectators had been moved by a dramatic plea for the defendant by his attorney, William T. Connor, in opening the defense case. Allen's father, Horace Allen, a retired wool manufacturer, followed him to the stand and from then until the defense closed its case this evening 15 character witnesses were heard. Judge Knight informed the jury of ten men and two women that he expected the trial to end in time for them to spend the week-end at their homes.

Allen Begins His Story.

The defendant, with a pat of encouragement from his attorney, who advised him to "keep your voice up—every one here is going to be kindly to you," took the witness stand at 2:12 o'clock and began speaking in a low, wavering voice that enlisted sympathy. His sunken eyes shifted nervously over hollow cheek bones, between his counsel and the jury.

Allen went to get this shotgun on the fatal night to "scare" Donaldson and his friend, Albert G. H. Lucas, out of the Allen apartment, he testified. He pulled the trigger without aiming, because he thought Donaldson "was going to kill me," but "I didn't mean to shoot him."

That was his explanation of the killing, and it was accepted sympathetically by the crowd.

Seduced Her, Father Charges.

Donaldson and Lucas, as previous witnesses had testified, had gone to the Allen apartment to discuss the relations of Rose Allen, 18 year old sister of the defendant, with her family and with Donaldson. Earlier on Nov. 9 she had left the apartment after quarreling with her father and brother, and had taken a room at a Philadelphia hotel. Donaldson, the elder Allen has asserted since, seduced Miss Allen several months before the shooting.

On the stand the younger Allen declared he was beaten by Donaldson and threatened by Lucas when the two paid their visit to discuss his sister's affairs. Hotel men, he said, had been unable to eject them.

"Finally," the defendant continued, "I thought I'd get my gun. That was the only thing left for me to scare them with. I came in through the kitchen into the living room. I didn't hear anything but father crying. He was sitting in a chair saying, 'O God! O God!'"

Says Donaldson Rushed Him.

Gun in hand, Allen moved into the foyer of the apartment where Donaldson and Lucas were preparing to leave, he related. Donaldson, he declared, uttered an oath and rushed toward him.

"I thought he was going to kill me," the defendant testified. "I lifted the gun. I did not aim it; I pulled the trigger. I didn't mean to shoot him."

Allen had driven to Villanova to get the gun and District Attorney Nase attempted to show he had parked his automobile in an "unusual place" on his return, in order to enter the apartment secretly through a tunnel and a kitchen entrance. During his testimony Allen had held that during the drive for his gun he had thought only of the welfare of his father whom he had left behind.

Quizzed on Auto Parking.

"But you parked your car where you did for your own convenience," the district attorney insisted.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Then you were thinking more of yourself than your father?"

A ripple of derisive laughter went through the court room in which were mingled some hisses. A moment later came the question which led to the defendant's statement that he "never meant to shoot him at all," and brought the storm of applause that aroused the judge's ire.

Allen occupied the stand an hour and three-quarters and during his testimony his sister Rose, who had accused him of berating Donaldson and threatening to "blow his head off," sat unmoved in the courtroom.

Called "Misguided Girl."

She was referred to by Defense Attorney Connor as "that poor, misguided girl." Miss Allen on the stand had said she and Donaldson became engaged last July.

Horace Allen in his testimony told of threats by Donaldson and Lucas as they allegedly manhandled him and virtually held him a prisoner in his own home. The testimony of character witnesses closed the defense case.

Berlin Police Scatter 1,000 Rioting Reds with a Hose

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—One thousand communists, who were staging a demonstration in north Berlin against the "danger of war in the far east," clashed with police tonight. To avoid bloodshed the police turned a hose on them and dispersed the demonstrators.

ENGAGEMENT IS REPORTED

ROSZIKA DOLLY.

IRVING NETCHER.

May Wed in France

Dispatches from Paris yesterday carried the announcement of Jennie Dolly, of the famous sister dance team, that Roszika Dolly would be married early in March to Irving Netcher, vice president of the Boston store. Netcher's brother, Townsend, is the husband of Constance Talmadge, former moving picture star. Jennie Dolly said the ceremony would be held at her home at Fontainebleau. Roszika is now at St. Moritz.

At his office in the department store yesterday it was said that Irving Netcher was now in Paris, where he spends a part of his time, although he is almost constantly on the move. When he was asked last November about the engagement, which was announced then by Jennie Dolly, he declared that he was not ready either to confirm or deny it, as "neither of us has decided." Some time this year, he said, he would hunt big game in Africa.

FORT SHERIDAN UNIT WILL GET TROPHY TODAY

The Knox trophy, awarded annually to the battery of regular army field artillery showing the highest state of efficiency, will be presented to Battery D, 2d battalion, 3d field artillery, at Fort Sheridan this afternoon. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the 6th corps area, will make the presentation.

SERGT C. J. PIERCE

Eighty batteries were represented in the tests which determined that Battery D was first of the army units. The trophy is named for Gen. Henry Knox, first chief of the American army's field artillery and secretary of war under President Washington. The donor is the Massachusetts Society of Sons of the Revolution.

At the same ceremony the 1931 Knox medal, given to the outstanding student at the army's field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla., will be presented to Sergt. Clifton J. Pierce of Headquarters battery, 2d battalion, 3d field artillery. Sergt. Pierce's home is at 354 West 26th street, Chicago. He formerly attended the Drake public school.

DRUGGAN ILL; GETS PRISON STAY OF WEEK

Lake Starts Journey to Leavenworth.

A plea of illness won a stay of one week for Terry Druggan, beer baron, on his sentence of two and a half years in the penitentiary for income tax fraud when he appeared before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday. Frankie Lake, Druggan's erstwhile partner, climbed on the train a few hours later and was bound for Leavenworth penitentiary last night to start a sentence of 18 months on similar charges.

When Druggan and Lake appeared before Judge Wilkerson, Dr. Louis Schmidt told the court that Druggan needed a week's rest to avoid an operation.

"What hospital are you with?" Judge Wilkerson asked.

"I am the head of the genito-urinary department at St. Luke's, chief genito urinary professor at Northwestern university, where I have been for 35 years, and secretary of the board of health," Dr. Schmidt replied.

"That's enough," Judge Wilkerson ruled.

Then Dr. Schmidt testified that he had made an examination of Druggan on Thursday night and found him ill.

Druggan Makes Plea.

Then Druggan, wearing a heavy overcoat and with a drawn face, stepped forward. "Judge, may I talk, please?" he asked. "Judge, I'd rather take a licking than ask for another delay," Druggan continued. "When I came in for sentence Wednesday I was ready to start serving. But now I am sick and I don't want an operation."

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Peter Sissman, Druggan's attorney, held a conference with Judge Wilkerson and the week's stay was agreed upon. Druggan will stay in St. Luke's hospital during the week in the technical custody of a deputy marshal. Government physicians will examine him.

Lake Smiles, Ready to Go.

Lake smiled when Druggan's departure for the penitentiary was postponed. "I'm ready to go right now," he said. "I want to get it over with. Druggan can do as he pleases."

Lake's train mates for his ride to Leavenworth were fourteen other federal prisoners, several defendants found guilty in the midwest liquor conspiracy trial, and several drug addicts.

GIRL OF 16 DETAINED AFTER HER VISIT TO YALE DORMITORIES

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Edith Nassella, a 16 year old girl who is wanted by the Court of Morals in Philadelphia, will be committed tomorrow to the House of the Good Shepherd in Hartford on the charge of "being in danger of falling into habits of vice."

Her arrest today ended two weeks' investigation of articles which have appeared in the Yale Daily News asserting that, first, a young woman entered dormitory apartments of the undergraduates and threatened to scream if she was not given money, and, second, statements that a young girl was being detained in a Yale apartment which she had entered begging for food and shelter.

The girl is believed to have been brought here from Philadelphia by an older man, to have been deserted here, and to have begged for food and shelter from Yale undergraduates.

Dean Charles H. Warren of the Sheffield Scientific school said tonight that an investigation of the case had been begun, and it is expected that disciplinary action will be taken in case any undergraduates are found involved.

BUILDING TRADE WORKERS DISCUSS PAY CUT ISSUES

Representatives of contracting builders and of building trades unions were engaged yesterday in negotiations for a proposed cut in the union wage scales, which the employers believe would stimulate construction in Chicago.

The employers are said to have demanded a reduction of 25 per cent. Although the unions would not admit they offered any concessions from the present scale, it was understood they were willing to accept a 10 per cent wage slash. This was not acceptable to the employers, it was said, and they may submit a compromise figure between the upper and lower limits discussed.

A first step toward the reduction was taken last month, when the Illinois Society of Architects and the Allied Construction council recommended a 35 per cent cut in wages.

According to union representatives, they have no delegated power to accept any proposed changes. They will have to get the best offer of the employers and then present it to their individual unions for discussion. Edward M. Craig, executive secretary of the National Association of Building Trade Employers, said that further meetings of the two groups would be held in the hope of reaching an agreed settlement.

SIFT HONEYMOON TRIP OF CANADIAN PREMIER'S SISTER

Probe Charges Cost Was Met by Dominion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 5.—A special committee of the Canadian parliament will investigate a charge that the European honeymoon expenses of Maj. William D. Herridge, Canadian minister to the United States, who married Premier R. B. Bennet's sister, were met out of the dominion treasury.

W. D. HERRIDGE. [Acme Photo.]

George Gordon of Peterboro, who was deputy speaker in the house under the Mackenzie King government, allegedly made the charge at Hamilton, Ontario, in January. The newspaper report on which the investigation is to be based was published as follows:

"He [Gordon] criticized Premier Bennett for having appointed his brother-in-law as Canada's envoy at Washington and then charged that the cost of Mrs. Herridge's honeymoon trip to Europe had been paid for by Premier Bennett out of the Canadian treasury."

Another charge attributed to Gordon is that Premier Bennett "had obtained a new private railway car for his own use at a cost to Canada of $125,000." This charge will also be investigated.

The allegations have been denied and Premier Bennett has insisted that Gordon be brought before the committee and make a public apology. Hugh Guthrie, minister of justice, moved today for the investigation.

SHOWDOWN NEAR ON 2,866 JOBS IN SCHOOL SERVICE

Trustees Answer Kelly on School Waste.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A showdown is expected in the next few days on whether the school board will eliminate 680 out of the 2,866 jobs in the school janitor service at an estimated annual saving of $1,000,000.

Ten days ago the D. F. Kelly committee which is pushing the sale of tax warrants for the relief of the local governments, submitted information to the school trustees which indicated there is a large surplus of jobs in the operation of the school plants. The Kelly committee said that if the information in its hands is correct, there should be a reduction in jobs of 25 per cent. It also urged $8,950,000 additional cuts in the 1932 appropriations.

Complete Reply to Kelly.

The trustees, in a private session yesterday, completed their written reply to Mr. Kelly. This reply will tell of the cuts in the 1932 estimates, which it is understood the trustees will claim is about $20,000,000, on the basis of the original 1932 estimates. However, the 1932 budget is only $7,598,501 below the budget of last year. Without the accumulated unpaid obligations of $134,111,194 of former years, the budget totals $93,820,140.

The Kelly committee suggested that the useless jobs be eliminated. School Auditor H. H. Brackett has prepared a list of the jobs heretofore utilized in the operation of the schools. It shows the number of jobs, at the different rates of pay, and the estimated annual cost of each group. That information follows:

32	Engineer-custodians.	$5,640	$ 175,780
22	Engineer-custodians.	5,340	117,480
16	Engineer-custodians.	4,980	79,680
99	Engineer-custodians.	4,680	463,320
127	Engineer-custodians.	4,200	533,400
44	Engineer-custodians.	3,960	174,240
29	Engineer-custodians.	3,780	100,620
11	Engineer-custodians.	3,600	39,600
6	Assist. Eng.-cust. ..	3,960	23,760
24	Assist. Eng.-cust...	3,780	87,570
96	Assist. Eng.-cust. ..	3,600	311,400
202	Firemen "A"	2,700	438,068
319	Firemen "B"	2,220	490,467
1,274	Janitors	1,680	2,020,140
511	Janitresses	1,500	707,875
38	Matrons	1,100	42,103
6	Watchmen	1,620	9,720
5	Scrubwomen	1,140	5,700
1	Laundryman	1,500	1,500
1	Farm hand	1,020	1,020
3	Farm hands	840	2,520
2,866			$5,834,963

From this list the trustees have eliminated 25 per cent of the assistant engineers and overtime and decided to close the schools on Saturdays. They estimate a saving thereby of $634,000. Thus, it is claimed, the number of employés has been reduced to 2,834.

510 Unnecessary Jobs.

According to the Kelly committee, comparison with the St. Louis standard of service indicates there are 510 unnecessary janitors in the elementary schools alone.

In the open sessions of the board no information has been produced to explain that discrepancy, or the further charge of the Kelly committee that there is one employé in the operation of the school plants in Chicago as compared with 4.8 teachers, while Detroit has one for each 9.1 teachers.

For many years, Chicago contracted for the cleaning and care of its schools. Then came a plea that the system be abolished. The matter was taken to the state Supreme court on the plea of the firemen. The present system was inaugurated in September, 1927.

Under the old system one man fired the furnace, swept the floors, washed the windows and generally cared for a building. Under the new system the work is divided among engineers, firemen and janitors. The system is now completely unionized.

BOGAN PLEADS FOR DOCTORS TO EXAMINE PUPILS

Superintendent of Schools Bogan, President Bundesen of the board of health, and a committee of physicians, dentists, and representatives of Parent-Teacher associations called yesterday on Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, to urge that the city appropriate approximately $84,000 for the services of twenty-four physicians and an equal number of nurses who examine the health of school children.

The health examiners were formerly carried on the budget of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, but the positions have been eliminated in its 1932 budget. The examiners are still working, however, under the annual continuation ordinance.

Ald. Clark agreed that the appropriation will be considered in budget sessions, and the committee was advised to return with its plea at that time. The tuberculosis sanitarium sought for several years to transfer the expense of the health inspections to the school board, but was never successful.

HELD ON OBSCENITY CHARGE.

Inspectors from the postal department yesterday arrested O. R. Vrana, 28 years old, 2960 West Jackson boulevard, and Nat Epstein, 32 years old, 4754 North Albany avenue, on a federal charge of sending obscene literature through the mails.

SENATE PASSES 5 RELIEF BILLS; UP TO GOVERNOR

Vote on Aid Program Is 38 to 8.

son said he had never seen a situation so "terrifying" as that existing in Chicago. Mr. Corliss championed the rights of the poor "to humanitarian treatment." Then Senator Barbour rose to ask the passage of senate bill No. 1, the first measure on the program which creates the emergency relief commission and appropriates $20,000,000 for its use. He asked the downstaters to "vote it for your own people."

N. M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby] opened the arguments for the opposition declaring that the senators were being "stampeded" into voting an additional 30 cent tax upon their constituents. He was met by a dozen indignant counter statements, from Chicagoans and downstaters alike.

The rural dissention centered on the fear that the bond issue would not pass at the referendum in November and that the "paper increase" in the tax rate, necessitated by the program and described as a matter of bookkeeping, would be spread upon the taxpayers of the state.

Pledge Referendum Backing.

Senators with this view were told time after time, with great patience, that this would not come about if the referendum passed and Lieut. Gov. Sterling declared from the rostrum that he had been informed the large newspapers of Chicago would throw their strength behind it at election.

The hours of debate seemed ended with the start of the roll call but the cessation was only momentary for a dozen or more members took time explaining their votes. When his name was called, Senator Barr reminded the opposition that Chicago had willingly voted aid when downstate suffered from floods, tornadoes, cyclones and mine disasters in the past.

Votes to Aid "Humanity."

Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline] said that the senate was "facing the test of state government in Illinois and I vote for this plan." Harold Kessinger of Aurora voted aye "in behalf of suffering humanity, economic sanity, governmental stability and Christian charity."

By the time the roll had been called all the way through, 29 aye votes were counted for the bill and seven nays. A dozen or more had not voted. Richard R. Meents, [Rep., Ashkum] then asked for a ten minute recess so that downstate members not convinced of the right of the program might caucus once more. The recess spread to thirty minutes but when it adjourned and the absentees were called, the aye votes rolled in until 38 had been tallied when it concluded. On Barr's motion the same roll call was applied to all five bills.

Gets Extortion Letters

Two extortion letters have been received by Rosa Raisa, Chicago Civic opera soprano, it was revealed yesterday. The letters, which came in August and November, demanded the payment of $500 in threat of kidnaping her baby, Rosa Giulietta, 7 months old. Government secret service agents have been working on the case. Madame Raisa and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, also an opera singer, plan to leave for Italy soon.

HOW FIVE NEW LAWS RAISE $20,000,000 FOR RELIEF OF POOR

The five relief bills passed by the senate at Springfield yesterday, and already passed by the house of representatives, are summarized as follows:

No. 1—Creates the Illinois emergency relief commission, composed of seven members from various parts of the state, who are to serve without compensation.

No. 2—Levies a state wide ad valorem tax of $25,000,000 to provide funds for the commission. (This authorizes an increase in the state tax rate, but advocates of the five measures maintain that this levy will never have to be put into effect.) Notes may be issued against 75 per cent of this levy.

No. 3—Amends the present statute to permit the anticipation of the $25,000,000 tax by issuing notes against the tax, these notes to be issued and sold at once.

No. 4—Amends the gasoline tax law of 1929 so that out of the 1 cent a gallon allotted to counties sufficient money shall be set aside to pay principal and interest of bonds to be issued as below indicated.

No. 5—Authorizes $20,000,000 in state bonds to pay the notes to be issued in anticipation of the $25,000,000 levy. This law, which provides for the levy to pay the bonds and contains a provision for the use of the gasoline tax to pay them, must be submitted to referendum next November.

In effect, the counties' part of the gasoline tax will provide funds to pay interest on and to retire the notes to be issued now. The authorization of the tax increase is regarded as a safeguard that will make the notes acceptable to investors. Interest on the notes will be exempt from federal income tax.

Resists Two Bandits in Holdup; Seriously Shot

Samuel Ptachik, 42 years old, 10632 Avenue O, was shot and seriously wounded last night when he resisted two holdup men at 111th street and 5th avenue, Roby, Ind. He was taken to the Jackson Park hospital, where it was found a bullet had struck him in the left side. His assailants escaped.

TAX PAYMENTS URGED TO REVIVE PUBLIC CREDIT

More Unpaid Levies in Loop Are Listed.

It is the opinion of bankers that the credit of the city, county, schools, and other local governments cannot be restored until there is a disposition on the part of the property owners to resume the payment of taxes.

Many owners of real estate believe they have been asked to pay an unreasonable share of the tax burden and have protested against their taxes in court. Judge Jarecki has declared the 1928 and the 1929 taxes illegal and void and Judge Williams has ordered $15,000,000,000 of personal property added to the assessment roll. These decisions have been appealed to the state Supreme court.

Must Pay Some Time.

Regardless of what the decision of the highest tribunal may be, it is pointed out that the property owners will eventually be called upon to pay taxes. If they overpay they will be permitted by law to recover the excess on subsequent tax assesments.

Appeals have been made to property owners to pay what they deem fair of the taxes assessed. The local governments urgently need cash.

Some of the loop properties on which no part of the taxes for 1929, due May 15 last, has been paid are listed below. The properties are listed by tax volume and item, as the tax books do not contain street addresses. The names presented are those which appear in the collector's warrants. They may or may not be the actual owners or agents. The list follows:

A total of $37,034 taxes for 1929 are listed as unpaid on items 168, 169, 170, 172, 173, 174, 175, and 176 in volume No. 486 in the name of Albert Pick.

In the name of Frances Lee Porter a total of $38,658 taxes are listed as unpaid under items 113, 1, 6, 7, 8, and 9 of volume No. 486, and items 208, 209, and 83 of volume No. 487.

A total of $19,277 is listed as unpaid under items 492, 493, and 496 in volume No. 486 in the name of Nathan William MacChesney.

In a list published yesterday, an unpaid tax of $15,225 was in the name of the Lehmann estate as shown by the tax books. Arthur H. Nixon states that the property listed was sold by the Lehmann estate in May, 1929, and the estate is not responsible for the tax. Mr. Nixon also says the estate has paid all its taxes, except on one minor piece of property which was protested.

SEA ACCIDENTS NEAR U. S. SHORE COST LIVES OF 28

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Two accidents at sea are believed to have taken twenty-eight lives since last night. The fishing schooner Eleanor Nickerson of Boston sank eighty miles east of Cape Race, N. S., about 11 a. m. today after a collision with the steamship Jean Jadot of the Lloyd Belge line and only six of the crew of twenty-seven were rescued. The coast guard headquarters here learned also this afternoon that the tug Lonnie D. Shaw of Philadelphia sank during a gale off Cape May, N. J., last night and its crew of seven was lost.

The coast guard placed the scene of the sinking tug at about three miles south of the McCrea shoals gas buoy at the entrance of Delaware bay. The Shaw was towing two or three barges and because of the cold the men on the barges apparently gathered on the tug and all were lost together.

Seaplanes and half a dozen patrol and speed boats cruised in the neighborhood where the tug went down, looking for survivors.

The Jean Jadot was Brooklyn bound from Antwerp and is due tomorrow night or Sunday morning.

Capt. Lazigne's radio message said: "In collision and sunk Eleanor Nickerson of Boston. Six rescued, twenty-one missing. Collision at 43:05 north latitude, 53:45 west longitude."

Irving Morrissey of Milton, Mass., is captain of the Eleanor Nickerson and since the Jean Jadot did not list him among the rescued it was supposed that he was lost.

STORE MANAGER HELD UP.

A robber entered the National Tea store at 3631 Fullerton avenue yesterday, held up Miss Felicia Bachhuber, the manager, who was alone in the store, and took $35 from the cash drawer.

BOARD CLASHES WITH SWANSON ON $200,000 FUND

Bank Quiz Is Made an Issue.

A stormy session of the county board resulted last evening when State's Attorney Swanson appeared to ask for a $200,000 contingent fund and nine extra jobs for prosecutors for 1932. The commissioners calmed down after the prosecutor warned them that the responsibility for unsuccessful bank prosecutions would be theirs if they caused him to be hampered by lack of funds.

The commissioners, who are attempting to prepare the 1932 budget, indicated that State's Attorney Swanson was to meet opposition in his demands as soon as he appeared.

"Every other office has had to take a cut," said Chairman Maurice A. Kavanagh. "You must follow suit, Mr. Swanson."

Every Penny Needed—Swanson.

The prosecutor had requested $45,000 for court reporting services during the coming year. The board members said this should be cut to $35,000.

"That appropriation was $75,000 yearly when I took office," the prosecutor declared. "I took all the velvet out of it and whittled it down to $45,000. I need exactly what I have asked for."

After some haggling the fund was set at $38,000. Then came the fireworks about the $200,000 contingent fund request.

The records showed that $197,549 had been spent from the contingent fund in 1931 in addition to $47,637 spent for the special police investigation.

"I need every penny of the $200,000 asked for," the prosecutor said. "The bank investigations make the sum necessary. At least $100,000 is needed for the bank cases alone."

Appears Ready to Leave.

Commissioners George A. Miller and William Busse, only Republican members of the board, backed up the state's attorney. J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, and some of the other commissioners demurred.

"You'd be the first, Jacobs, to come to the state's attorney for aid if you came in conflict with criminals," burst out Swanson. "I warn you, gentlemen, that if you hedge on this the responsibility is yours. Is there anything more you wish to discuss?"

The state's attorney made as if to depart and there was a chorus of disapproval. Further discussion finally resulted in the setting of the contingent fund appropriation at $185,000 with the understanding that $85,000 of this would be set aside for the bank investigations.

The commissioners indicated that the request for the extra jobs would not be granted, leaving the matter open for the time.

Jacobs and Fox Clash.

The afternoon session was enlivened when Efficiency Engineer Jacobs made charges of waste and extravagance in the making of the 1931 quadriennial assessment.

Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals for the last seven months, presented an estimate of $1,241,961 for the coming year, an increase of $364,383 over last year. Mr. Jacobs objected, declaring that there had been much waste and extravagance in the money already spent.

"In all fairness to me and to others, those charges should be made in a resolution and presented to the county board with supporting data," said Mr. Fox angrily. "These curbstone opinions are unfair."

"The charges are not curbstone opinions," retorted Jacobs. "Any taxpayer within the last few months without even a careful scrutiny could find them true. Within the last few days I have seen hundreds of employés standing around for hours with nothing to do."

Who Is Scared?

"Why didn't you tell us before about this?" Commissioner Miller inquired of Jacobs.

"I'll tell you," said Jacobs, "and I'm not scared of your shoving, either."

"And I'm not scared, either," Mr. Miller flung back heatedly.

The commissioners finally decided to appropriate for the first three months of the fiscal year and wait until the Kelly plan reorganization is effected.

33 YEARS' TAXES UNPAID; RECEIVER NAMED TO COLLECT

Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel yesterday appointed a receiver for property at 2000 Calumet avenue on which taxes have not been paid since 1898. The suit was brought against the estate of the late Jacob Glos, professional tax buyer who owned the property, by Henry M. Ashton, special county attorney, for interest, penalties and accrued taxes of $67,993. The property, according to Attorney Ashton, is valued at $35,000.

County to Pay Pensions and Jurors Next Week

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday announced that early next week he would pay mothers' and blind pensions and jurors who served county courts during October. Four thousand blind will receive $65,000 for the latter half of December, 16,000 mothers and 4,000 children will receive $48,000 for the last half of November, and the jurors will receive $75,000. The money accrued from fees collected by county offices during the last three months while county employés received no pay checks.

FARMERS MAY STRIKE, WITNESS TELLS SENATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Unless given further federal aid, American farmers may go on strike, the senate committee on agriculture was told today.

The witness was Paul Moore, a farmer from West Branch, Ia., President Hoover's birthplace. He was testifying in behalf of the Thomas bill to abolish the farm board, transfer its functions and its funds to the department of agriculture, and give the secretary of agriculture power to fix the prices of major farm commodities at the cost of production.

"Unless adequate relief legislation is passed," said Moore, "I believe the organized farmers may be led to strike, withholding their food products until the world has been shown that it must have them and is willing to pay for them."

T. E. Howard of Denver, representing the National Farmers' union, advocated passage of the Thomas bill.

While the senate committee was considering the Thomas bill with its provision for ascertainment of cost of production, the department of agriculture suddenly announced that henceforth it would make no public forecasts of the probable course of farm commodity prices.

Another measure to give the federal government regulatory power over agricultural production was introduced in the senate today when Senator Bankhead [Dem., Ala.] amended a former bill by adding a provision to give the secretary of agriculture authority to limit the shipment of cotton grown in 1932 to 50 per cent of that produced in 1931.

MURDER CHARGE DISMISSED.

A charge of murder against Bruno Ferfeckl, watchman at the shelter for unemployed at 1210 South Morgan street conducted by the governor's relief commission, was dismissed yesterday by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy. He was charged with assaulting an unidentified man who died later at the Maxwell street police station.

UNITED NATIONAL CAMPAIGN SEEKS A MILLION JOBS

Knox Is Named Head of Hoarding Drive.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—A drive to supply one million workers with jobs before March 15 will be initiated within the next ten days by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor, and the National Association of Advertisers, representatives of these groups announced today. The newspapers, billboards, and the radio will be utilized during the campaign, Harry L. Stevens Jr., national commander of the American Legion, announced following a conference with President Hoover.

H. L. STEVENS JR. [Harris & Ewing.]

According to White House officials, the Legion campaign will be carried on simultaneously with the administration's efforts to put the hoarded dollar to work. In this connection, President Hoover announced today that Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, will direct the campaign to get more than one billion dollars in hoarded currency into circulation.

Hoarding Conference Today.

Mr. Knox will arrive in Washington tomorrow to attend the President's nation-wide anti-hoarding conference which begins at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Leaders of close to fifty organizations, both civic, business and industrial, have been invited to be represented.

According to information supplied by the White House today the total credit volume has been deflated by about ten billion dollars through the activities of hoarders.

This has resulted, the White House explained, in making it more difficult for small business and industry to obtain credit. Approximately one billion three hundred million dollars is now being hoarded, according to treasury figures.

Stevens Outlines Campaign.

Mr. Stevens said that on Feb. 11 he will make an address over a nation wide hookup in which he will describe fully the campaign for which orders have already been issued to the 10,800 American Legion posts throughout the country.

"Our idea," he explained, "is to get money back into circulation by restoring confidence through actual employment rather than a deluge of propaganda to the effect that the United States is 'all right' and asking everybody to spend."

3 POLICEMEN ARE FOUND GUILTY IN SHAKEDOWN PLOT

Three Chicago policemen were found guilty yesterday by a jury in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court of conspiracy to impersonate federal prohibition agents to extort money from a still operator. The jury deliberated twenty-five and a half hours. The men were found not guilty on two other charges.

The defendants were Policemen John J. Walsh of the Gresham station, William Bresnahan of Woodlawn, and James O'Donnel of Maxwell. They face a maximum penalty of two years in the penitentiary and fines of $10,000 each. A motion for a new trial will be argued today.

Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Fisher presented evidence to show that the three policemen went to the home of Edward Horn in Lansing in October, 1931, and represented themselves as prohibition agents. They flashed badges, according to Prosecutor Fisher, found Horn's still, and demanded payment of $450 to keep quiet.

Horn testified that he paid the $450. According to his story, the men announced that they would come back on the first of each month for the payment of $150 for protection. A few days later real prohibition agents raided Horn's still. "Why, I'm paying for protection," Horn told the agents. The agents were waiting for Walsh, Bresnahan, and O'Donnel when they returned on Nov. 1.

U. S. EXPORTS HIT HARD BY BRITISH HIGH TARIFF RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Great Britain's protectionist tariff rate of 10 per cent ad valorem duty on imports will affect 46 per cent of this country's annual export trade to England, according to the department of commerce.

Under the new dutiable list the department said today, American exports to Great Britain which in 1930 were valued at $324,450,000 and which were admitted duty free, will be placed on the dutiable list at the uniform rate of 10 per cent ad valorem. The total value of our exports to England in 1930, the department said, amounted to $700,666,000, of which commodities valued at $202,761,000,

Exports from the United States that will continue to enter Britain duty free under the new free list, were valued in 1930 at $173,455,000, or 25 per cent of the total. These commodities consist principally of cotton, wheat, and meats, the department stated.

Congressional reaction to the British change from 90 years of free trade to a protectionist tariff policy assumed strict party lines. Republicans either insisted that the Hawley-Smoot tariff act of 1930 had not led to the British measure or that the move was a justification of our protective policy, while Democrats hailed it as the "inevitable consequence of our own tariff policy."

Student Nurses End Strike, but Fail to Win Points

Twenty-nine student nurses at the Oak Park hospital, who went on strike Thursday to obtain permission to get out oftener and stay out longer, went back to work yesterday morning. Sister Timothy, superintendent of nurses, said that they had begged to be reinstated and that the present regulations—the ones they objected to—would be enforced.

CROWE AND LINK GET PRISON FOR SANITARY GRAFT

uled for 11 o'clock, but was postponed until 1 o'clock. The curt announcement of the change of time by a bailiff brought a murmur of disapproval from the anxious crowd. Most of them stayed around the halls for the two hours.

Crowe Appears Worried.

Promptly at 1 o'clock Crowe, dressed in a brown suit, pushed his way into the courtroom. He took the first seat in the rear row of the jury box. He shined up his glasses and smiled nervously at Thomas Garry, a minor Democratic politician, who while on the witness stand had tried to show his hostility to Crowe by calling him a "big loogan," which he explained meant chump. Prosecutor Northup at the time Garry was an unwilling prosecution witness called it a "play" of the defense. Garry handed Crowe a newspaper, which the fallen political leader made a pretext of reading.

Touhy, pale because of a recent illness, came in next and took a seat four away from Crowe. Next came August Miller, the oldest man of the group. He is 70 years old. Edelstein was next to appear and soon after came Whalen, the Beau Brummel of the group and the least nervous. Link shuffled in from the hall at 1:10 o'clock, and as one bailiff put it, "looked like he wanted to die right away." John T. Miller came in just a few minutes before a bailiff knocked for order at 1:20 o'clock.

The door of the judicial chamber swung open as the crowd, which was becoming impatient over the delay, started to offer guesses as to the outcome to hide the nervous tension. Absolute silence reigned as Judge Prystalski, the youngest of the judges, strode to the bench, followed soon by Judge Fisher and Judge Kelly. Judge Fisher sat in the center. It was obvious from his demeanor that he had, as he later said in rendering his decision, "a painful task to perform," but was intent on doing it at any cost.

State Moves to Reopen.

The proceedings were further delayed as Prosecutor Northup moved that the state be allowed to reopen the case and give testimony of the ages of the defendants, a legal requirement which had been forgotten.

The matter was quickly disposed of by stipulation. Judge Fisher then started to speak. He first gave credit to his brother judges, and stressed the difficulties experienced. The judgment about to be rendered, he said, was unanimous. It did not take Judge Fisher long, although he talked in a deliberate manner, to announce that the state had proven a conspiracy of "hideous corruption," and that some defendants were guilty. He reviewed at length the evidence and then dismissed out of the case the defendants not guilty.

Touhy came first, and his face lighted up with a smile as Whalen reached over and offered his hand. Whalen and August Miller were quickly disposed of by the same route.

Crowe Becomes Nervous.

The other defendants, particularly Crowe and Link, seemed to sense the fact that they were to be convicted. Crowe swung the swivel chair around so that he was facing the rear of the courtroom. His lips were set, but his face was flushed. His index finger was held under his chin. Link's face flushed and his lips worked as though he was chewing on something. Miller and Edelstein were apparently jolted when the judge said:

"We find Crowe, Link, John T. Miller, and Edelstein participated in this conspiracy and that they are guilty as charged."

Crowe continued to stare until the judge started to say that he and Link should be given a penalty as "severe as the law allows." He swung his chair around to cast a glance in the direction of the judge and his face went white as the judge said "one to five years in the penitentiary." Link sank back in his chair.

Surrounded by Friends.

The preliminary motions, such as staying the issuance of the mittimus for four months pending filing of appeals and the allowing of the old bond to stand at $10,000 each pending the appeals, were quickly disposed of. Crowe and the others were quickly surrounded by their friends. Those found guilty left the building at once, but those acquitted stayed to receive congratulations.

State's Attorney Swanson appeared in court with his assistants, Northup, Henry Seyfarth, Harold Keele, and Jo Calvin Webb. Their spirit of victory, however, was spoiled by the announcement that a rule to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court had just been filed before Judge Phillip Sullivan. The hearing on the petition filed by Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach as a friend of the court is the outgrowth of the fight over possession of Connolly at the time it appeared that he would turn state's evidence. The petition will be heard Wednesday.

Canal Ruling Finds Conspiracy Existed; Evidence Is Upheld

Judge Fisher prefaced the "painful task" as he called it in rendering the sanitary district decision by expressing his gratitude to his associates, whom he said felt the responsibility of the case just as keenly as he. The decision was rendered without a dissenting vote from any of the three judges, who sat in the place of a jury, which the defendants waived. The decision in part was as follows:

"In the trial of every criminal case the tryer of facts, whether it be a court or jury, has two major questions to answer. The first is, whether or not a crime has in fact been committed; the second is if a crime has been committed, are the defendants guilty as charged in the indictment.

"In the ordinary case the fact that a crime was committed presents little difficulty. It is usually the identity of the perpetrators of the crime that causes difficulty.

Finds Sufficient Proof.

"In the case before us where the indictment charges conspiracy, it was earnestly contended by the defense that on the question of the commission of the crime there has not been sufficient proof. We did not find it difficult, however, to meet that situation. For nearly two months we sat here and listened to more than seven hundred witnesses. I shall not attempt to sum up the evidence at all, but in a general way these witnesses one after the other told stories in which they themselves were implicated of hideous corruption, prevalent in a public office created by the legislature whose main function it is to provide for the sanitation and guard the health of the community.

"From all walks of life these witnesses came: Carpenter and tailor, preacher and lawyer, legislators, male and female, white and black, all telling the same monotonous tale, that without ever rendering one dollar's worth of employment to the community they regularly, week after week, for a period running well nigh one and a half years have been drawing upon the public funds; not satisfied with receiving their checks, a scheme was evolved by which expense moneys which had never been incurred were being paid to them by the district running into vast sums of money.

Cites Money to Legislators.

"Perhaps one of the saddest situations pictured in the trial before us was that phase of it which portrayed a legislative body, in fact, both houses of the legislature, whose duty it was from time to time to pass on legislation affecting this public municipality, receiving from the coffers of that municipality vast sums of money, by themselves going upon the pay roll or by members of the family or favorite friends being put upon it, without ever rendering one dollar's worth of service.

"But that was only a part of the despicable situation that prevailed in that municipality. Dummy corporations were organized for the purpose of dealing solely with the corporation, this municipal corporation; and not satisfied with the advantages they had by being preferred in the letting of contracts or the making of purchases upon which enormous profit might be had, overcharges were made running anywhere from ninety to seven hundred per cent.

Cost of Bridle Path.

"One vast project, the building of a bridle path, the testimony shows, could have been accomplished at the expenditure of from three to four hundred thousand dollars, yet a million and sixty odd thousand dollars was spent for that. Contractors have been paid twice for the performance of the same work. In fact, so much has been shown which remained unanswered and unexplained that there was not a moment's hesitation on our part in reaching the conclusion that there was established by the evidence the existence of a huge conspiracy, as a result of which large sums of money had been corruptly and unlawfully taken out of the treasury of the sanitary district.

"I refer to these items simply because they came to my mind at the moment. So having found that a conspiracy was proven, the next question to be determined was, who was guilty of it.

Difficulties of State.

"We appreciate the difficulty that the state was confronted with in that respect. Most of its testimony had to come from unwilling witnesses, but so far as the court is concerned, it can pass judgment only on the evidence before it, and from that evidence we are forced to the conclusion that out of the 750 odd witnesses who appeared before us, and out of the mass of testimony that we listened to, there has been no testimony connecting sufficiently some of the defendants. Tuohy was the youngest and the least experienced of all of the trustees. He was serving his first term, and this conspiracy was formed during the very first year of his service. The evidence fails to show any direct connection with it.

"Similarly, the evidence with reference to Whalen and August Miller was lacking in that degree of proof that should satisfy the mind of the court beyond a reasonable doubt.

Other Defendants Guilty.

"But we believe that the evidence clearly and unmistakably implicates the other defendants. It would take too much time to attempt to point out in what respect. This, however, ought to be mentioned: That, whereas the state had attempted to show that some of the defendants enriched themselves, no effort was made on the part of the state to bring before us the bank records or any other evidence of enrichment on the part of those defendants that we have found not guilty; but there is such evidence as against the other four, and while standing by itself may not prove any more than the fact that they had enriched themselves in some manner during this time, or not even that, but that monies had been deposited to their accounts, in view of all the testimony before us, and particularly that no effort was made to explain that,

"We are compelled to hold the bank account evidence as a strong circumstance pointing toward guilt and corruption when we see that during the prevalence of this conspiracy these men deposited to their accounts huge sums of money far in excess of anything that we know they could have earned in their official positions.

Defense Theory Not Accepted.

"We have no light throw upon this situation by anything that the defense offered and we cannot yield to the acceptance of the theory advanced by the defense, we cannot believe that the law would condone the bribing of legislators with jobs and money simply because those legislators have the power to enact favorable legislation or even legislation that would abolish the municipality itself.

"Men who are elected to public office are the servants of the people, and they may not enter into a conspiracy corrupting the legislature or any other official body, even on the excuse that by doing so they have for the public good prevented corrupt action on the part of that body.

"Neither can we see any logic to the theory advanced that the horde of political workers that were put on the pay roll were put there in pursuance to some public necessity. If that could be condoned, then every public officer might honestly get himself into a frame of mind where he would believe that his retention in office would serve a public good, and thereby justify the expenditure of the public money in order to keep him in office.

No Party Necessity Found.

"Neither were we impressed with the suggestion urged by the defense that the padding of the pay rolls was due to a party plan or party scheme to carry out a public necessity. Political parties are necessary. We can hardly get along without them in view of our civilization. There is nothing in a political party per se that is corrupt. Men often benefit from the aid of political parties, become not only themselves corrupt, but through their corruption cast reflection upon the party.

"We do not believe that the action of Crowe or the action of Link was dominated by party necessity or party desire.

Four Are Found Guilty.

"We find nothing in the record that would in any way mitigate the enormity of the offense committed by those who have been elected to administer the affairs of the district. And so, having satisfied ourselves that a conspiracy has been proven, and Crowe, Link, John T. Miller, and Edelstein participated in it, our judgment is that they are guilty as charged in the indictment.

"It is always painful for courts to pass sentences which deprive men of their liberty. It is much more so when sentence is to be passed upon those whom the court happens to know and for whom it even at times entertained hopes of better things.

Officials Must Have Confidence.

"We live in a democracy. We can function only if the public officials have the confidence of the community. In our own city that confidence that the public officials should have in order to enable them property to function has not been so thoroughly enjoyed as it should.

"Often criticism hurled at public officials is resented by them, but when we find that those who carry the very name of trustee betray that trust, we cannot then complain very much if the community generally will look with suspicion upon other men holding public office.

"For the betrayal of their trust, for the corruption which they made possible, we feel that the penalty ought to be as severe as the law allows, and for that reason Timothy Crowe and Link will each be sentenced to the penitentiary to serve from one year to five."

TIRELESS EFFORT ROAD TO VICTORY IN CANAL INQUIRY

The investigation of the sanitary district was started in January, 1929, by Attorney Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, while he was a special state's attorney appointed to break up the alliance of crime and politics. The groundwork for the inquiry was laid in a series of articles by Oscar Hewitt of THE TRIBUNE, starting on Nov. 21, 1928. In these articles it was shown that the trustees were padding pay rolls and were attempting to hide the facts by suppressing pay rolls.

Mr. Loesch switched from his investigations of gangland murders to official corruption after a formal demand for an inquiry by the Citizens' association and the Chicago Bar association. The demand for an investigation was directed to the then newly elected state's attorney, John A. Swanson. Mr. Loesch started the ball rolling with his special grand jury and later Mr. Swanson took over the inquiry because of the lack of funds and limited resources of the special prosecuting staff.

Northup Takes Up Task.

Attorney John E. Northup, who at the time was first assistant to District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, was nominated to take over the job.

The exposures made by Mr. Hewitt showing that "all political factions feed at the sanitary bin" were nothing as compared with the revelations made by the investigators showing the squandering of millions of the taxpayers' money.

Soon after the special grand jury started its task it was revealed that sixty or more members of the legislature were among the pay rollers. They all collected fancy salaries, but few of them ever did any work. Some of the more prideful political leaders who did not wish to be pay rollers were placed on what later became known as the "statesman's ledger." These were paid by special vouchers.

Pay Checks for "Girl Friends."

Following the legislative pay roll disclosures came those of the women pay rollers. These were divided into three classes: Those who legitimately worked, those who were paid for political work, and those who were just "girl friends" of some political leader.

The next exposures showed that the trustees used the taxpayers' money to finance their pleasure jaunts. This evidence caused the label "whoopee" to be applied to the Crowe régime. The investigators discovered that the officials used the public money for trips to nearly every part of the country. The most memorable was the trip to a football game in New York, which was followed by an orgy at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York in December, 1927. The taxpayers paid $6,900 for railroad fare, whatever was used for the party, broken furniture, and smashed electric light bulbs.

Whoopee in all forms was discovered in a raid on the Central Auto Livery service, owned by John Saracino. The enormous taxicab bills, it was discovered, were for women entertainers, whisky, champagne, beer, powder puffs, and other articles for feminine use. The taxicab company kept a true record of what the $120,000 was spent for, but billed the district for straight automobile hire.

Inquiry on Contracts.

Then came the investigation into contracts and the evidence, investigators said, was even more startling than the whoopee parties. The first of these was the discovery that the trustees had spent $1,068,000 for a horseless cinder path adjoining the north shore channel road.

Mr. Loesch and his staff obtained indictments against the trustees and many minor officials. When Mr. Northup took charge he concentrated on what he called "the big graft" in the contracts. He later obtained a new set of indictments, leaving out the "small fry." The purpose, he explained, was to prevent the case from being so unwieldy as to make it impossible to ever get a jury, because the defense would have too many peremptory challenges.

Prosecutor Northup worked in secret for several months before he was ready to announce his indictments. Then the prosecutor started his fight for trial.

Battles to Obtain Trial.

For more than one year the indictment was buried in the office of the clerk of the Criminal court, and it was rumored that the case was to remain buried. However, Prosecutor Northup, who became known for his tireless work in the case, launched an offensive. There followed a number of clashes with judges and the case finally went to Judge Joseph David. The prosecutor during the interval of reassignment charged that political pressure was being exerted to prevent trial and to get the case before a "favorable judge."

Judge David heard motions to quash the indictments, and after four months of deliberations, in June, 1931, ruled that three of the nine counts were defective. Prosecutor Northup countered by dismissing the entire indictment and getting a new document. The new case went back to Judge David. After several stormy court sessions the case was sent to Judge Fisher, who had just been installed as chief justice of the Criminal court. This caused another storm of protest from Prosecutor Northup, who charged that he constantly had to fight against political influence. Judge Fisher decided to try the case himself.

Aviation Notes

Maintaining an average speed of 108 miles an hour for 2,030 miles, a United States Air lines tri-motor plane landed at Chicago airport yesterday before dawn from Los Angeles and San Francisco 2 hours and 15 minutes in advance of scheduled time. The plane made the trip in 17 hours 45 minutes, according to United officials. Piloted by Cliff Coppin and L. R. Schram from Omaha, the plane covered that stretch of 433 miles in 2 hours 23 minutes, beating the previous record by five minutes. Passengers who left the Pacific coast Thursday noon had breakfast in the loop.

Day and night express service to 171 cities and towns within 200 miles of the route of Transcontinental and Western Air Express lines will become effective next Monday through connections formed by the air line with Greyhound Bus lines, it was announced yesterday. Chicago will be one of the connecting cities.

FLYER IS KILLED IN MOCK BATTLE FOR FILM SCENE

Nomis was engaging in a "dog fight" at 1,500 feet in which he was supposed to be shot down and execute a "falling leaf." His plane did not come out of the maneuver and hit the ground nose first, the motor being buried eight feet in the earth. The tragedy happened at Metropolitan airport. He was flying a Travelair plane powered with a Wright 5-65 motor.

Nomis was 38 years old and was a United States army flying instructor during the war. He is survived by a 9 year old son in custody of his former wife. His wife is employed at the Fox film studio.

Scaramuzzo Gets Year on Defaced Gun Charge

Louis Scaramuzzo, alleged armorer for gangsters, was sentenced by Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday to a year in the Bridewell for possession of guns with the serial numbers filed off. He was also fined $300. A jury found Scaramuzzo guilty and Judge Green, before passing sentence, denied a new trial. An appeal will be taken. The guns were found in Scaramuzzo's shop at 604 Blue Island avenue.

LOSS FROM HANGAR BLAZE IS $175,000; CALLED AN ACCIDENT

Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan yesterday investigated the fire that consumed the hangar of Continental Airways, Inc., at 5028 West 63d street early yesterday morning and decided it had been accidental. The total loss was estimated at $175,000 by airport officials. Ten planes were destroyed by the fire, which menaced adjoining hangars at Chicago airport.

The planes destroyed included two Lockheed Orions, powered by Wasp motors, owned by Continental Airways; a Fairchild, Wright powered, and two Vervilles, Continental powered, owned by P. G. Lenz; a Lockheed Vega, Wasp powered, owned by the Navin Air Transport company; a Travelair, Wright powered, owned by Detroit Aircraft corporation; a Johann, powered by Le Bloude, owned by U. H. Johann, and a Waco and American Eagle, owned by Associated Aircraft.

Alfred N. Andersen, 1210 William street, River Forest, president of Continental Airways, said the hangar and his two planes were partly insured.

Flying Forecasts

GRAND JURORS QUIZ SHERIFF ON JAIL ESCAPE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Thomas J. Kennedy, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; George Ryan, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Frank Liekus, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Ray Kendricks and William Taft, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Edward Murphy, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Harry Bernstein, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory; Nicholas Barrett, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Timothy J. Crowe and Frank J. Link, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry Fisher.

William McClellan, Homer Douglas, and Henry Porter, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Carl Davis, murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Philip Sullivan.

The grand jury yesterday continued its investigation of the escape last Sunday from the county jail of Cornelius [Neil] Montague, alleged kidnaper.

Among those questioned were Sheriff William D. Meyering, Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Peters and two jail guards, John Morrisey and Vincent Gadacz. The sheriff and the chief deputy were reported to have been asked about the system of issuing passes to visitors and the guards about the pass on which Montague's brothers, Frank and Stanley, entered to see him. The prisoner escaped by switching identities with Stanley, who had dyed his hair in furtherance of the plot.

Other jail attaches, it was said, will be questioned by the grand jury on Monday.

TRAIN KILLS TWO WOMEN.

41 MIDSHIPMEN DROPPED; FAIL IN CLASS QUIZZES

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Dismissal of forty-one midshipmen from the naval academy because of deficiency in studies for the first half of the 1931-32 term was announced today by Commander George L. Weyler, aid to Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent.

All members of the first, or senior class, passed their examinations, but three second classmen, thirteen third class, and twenty-five fourth class members were required to resign.

TEN PLANES FAIL TO FIND FLYERS DOWN IN SAHARA

ALGIERS, Algeria, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Ten planes on a searching expedition had failed tonight to discover three French flyers, missing in the Sahara desert for four days, and the chances of success were believed to be growing slimmer.

The airmen, flying in the plane St. Didier, were attempting to establish a flight record between France and Madagascar when they were forced down. The region in which they are marooned has been located as 219 miles south of Insalah, the heart of the desert.

Fear Belgian Flyers Lost.

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Two Belgian flyers, Gilliaux and Dubois, were feared lost today en route from Belgium to Gao, French West Africa. They were due at Oran, Algeria, on Thursday, but early today had not appeared.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict stating that Mrs. Matilda Henchert, 36 years old, who was killed by a gas explosion in her home at 937 Oakdale avenue, committed suicide.

Cities Form Bureau to Aid Them in Utility Hearings

Organization of a bureau to enable Illinois municipalities to cope with utility companies in rate hearings and other questions of regulation were completed at a luncheon of a committee of the Illinois Municipal league at the Hotel La Salle yesterday. The bureau will be composed of specialists in utility law and accounting, who are expected to examine accounts of public service companies in proceedings before the Illinois commerce commission. Mayor James H. Andrews of Kewanee presided over the meeting.

Ford to Put 6 Horse Power Car on European Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—A new baby Ford car will be put on the European market in June. The engine will have four cylinders, but will generate only 6 horsepower instead of 24 horsepower, as standard Ford models do. The reason for launching the new Ford model is that European countries tax according to horsepower, thus making even the smallest American makes almost as expensive to operate as European de luxe models.

NEW YORK STILL MILLIONS SHORT IN BUDGET NEEDS

New Borrowing Power Is Not Enough.

New York, Feb. 5. — [Special — Even with the new borrowing power granted New York City by the legislature. The city will be unable by from $25,000,000 to $43,700,000 to meet its contract liabilities this year, Controller Charles W. Berry said today in a report on the city's financial position submitted to the board of estimate.

CHARLES W. BERRY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The controller, while he bade many recommendations for reductions in the cost of the municipal government, had no proposal for meeting this indicated deficiency. He left to the board the question of finding means of raising an additional forty or fifty million dollars to pay its contract obligations.

Must Refund Debts.

These obligations Mr. Berry estimated as $167,000,000. The city has already sold $100,000,000 of special corporation stock notes and it is authorized to sell an additional $100,000,000. But from the proceeds of the first sale it must take up $76,700,000 of one-year corporate stock notes issued last year, so that even if another $100,000,000 in stock notes is sold the balance to meet the contract obligations will be only $123,300,000.

"This then," the controller's report said, "would indicate a deficiency of $43,700,000 in the amount the city can borrow under the new law to meet the foregoing estimated requirements. No matter who may cavil at or question these estimates, the fact remains that even if the actual disbursements proved to be ten or fifteen million dollars less we still would be unable to liquidate the liabilities by anywhere from twenty-five to thirty-five million dollars. The controller does not hesitate to say that unless there is a deferring or postponing of the payment of awards for property these estimates will not be very far out of the way.

"The foregoing plain statement of the city liabilities and its partial provision for them by the issue of corporate stock notes raises the question of how the city can obtain an additional forty or fifty million dollars. The only way the controller may obtain any additional funds to finance corporate stock obligations over and above the two hundred million dollar limitation would be by an outright sale of corporate stock or serial bonds, or both. Present market conditions are not favorable for the sale of additional city securities."

The controller's report recommended that the city rescind immediately authorizations for improvements totaling $213,509,000 for which contracts have not been let; substitution of long term for short term financing of the new city built subways; adoption by the board of estimate of a policy which would prevent the award of additional contracts by city officials without the board's approval; limitation of local improvements in 1932 to $3,000,000; abolition of the personal property tax and the substitution of a tax on unincorporated business, and drastic cuts in the cost of the municipal government.

REPORTS ROBBERY

JANET READE.

The Hudson avenue police yesterday were seeking four men, who earlier in the day robbed Miss Janet Reade, 26 years old, a former "Follies" girl, of three rings valued at $1,900. Miss Reade was riding in a taxicab with her maid, Minnie Brown, when it was forced to the curb in Goethe street near Lake Shore drive by the bandit car. Miss Reade saved $500 in cash by sitting on her purse during the holdup. She was returning to the Hotel Ambassador from a loop theater when the robbery occurred.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HIS ROOM.

James McMaughan, 60 years old, a laborer, died suddenly, apparently, from a heart attack, in his room at 528 West 79th street yesterday.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. COOLIDGE.

Several years ago Calvin Coolidge, President, was finding a dozen occasions a month to say that what he thought the country needed was economy. His auditors smiled and let him have his way about, so far as conversation went. It was regarded as evident that Mr. Coolidge's economic ideas were prim and old fashioned and sprang from the rocky hillside of a New England farm where people made paper tapers to save matches, saved fats to make soap, knit their mittens and caps, and patched their clothing instead of throwing it away. Mr. Coolidge had not arrived at the new idea of the new era, which was spending and more spending.

If the country, it was then thought, were so misguided as to follow such advice, it would speedily smash its fine prosperity. All was well so long as Mr. Coolidge spoke to people who did not heed him, in government or elsewhere. The country moved on to new heights which had the peculiarity of incorporating no precipices. The extraordinary thing about them was that there were no down grades. There was nothing to fall off.

Mr. Coolidge got nowhere with his suggestions, much as he dwelt upon them and many times as he reiterated them. We think now that Mr. Coolidge was a clear sighted man. Even as President he could not check the extravagance which was carrying a crazy country to a catastrophe. Something in his New England instinct and temperament, in his innate regard for prudent courses and wise living, enabled him to see that there was ruin ahead if governments and the people as well did not curb themselves, stop dissipating their resources, cut costs and taxes, and have some respect for frugality. He was right, but he could not dramatize his counsel, and the influences all ran against him. There never could be more hard times; no more depressions; no more panics.

What Mr. Coolidge saw when the outer signs were against him, when there was only sunshine, music, flowers, and dancing, is not recognized now by the governments he cautioned, although it is by the people who pay up that governments may pay out. To recall Mr. Coolidge's common sense and his perception is to wish that the prospect was for his return from retirement. The undertaking could be one he might not choose to consider, but the understanding that he was available for the Republican nomination would cheer up many citizens of his party who see in the present leadership only the picture of a Republican President riding to the capitol to see his Democratic successor sworn in.

DEFACED WEAPONS.

Two juries have brought in convictions under the new statute penalizing the possession of firearms which have had marks of identification defaced or obliterated. It is to be hoped this law will be found to be enforceable, as it will be useful in preventing the destruction of important evidence and also in reaching the individuals who supply armament for criminals. Serial numbers on guns are often important clews in crime, and no law abiding person will destroy them. Defacement is full notice to a dealer or possessor that the weapon is intended for criminal use and should not be sold or kept for sale. The law is a sensible and just law and should be enforced and upheld.

ECONOMY IN VETERAN RELIEF.

The report of a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States studying government expenditures discloses conditions in veteran relief which urgently call for correction. Veteran relief now represents 24 per cent of all federal expenditures, and the committee estimates that the amount spent on war service and relief in the single year of 1931—$1,013,041,905—is one-ninth of the entire sum expended by the government for this purpose from 1790 to 1931.

This expenditure, therefore, has become a major problem of the nation, and it is of the utmost importance that if it includes improper items and administrative wastes they should not be protected by misinformed sentiment or by the self-seeking exploitation of political power. Thus the committee asserts that for the fiscal year 1930 administrative expenditures (including printing and binding) of the veterans' bureau were $41,739,295, or 9 per cent of the total expenditures, while in the same year the pension bureau disbursed $220,947,484—nearly all for civil and Spanish war pensions—at an administrative cost of only $1,272,203, or slightly more than half of one per cent.

There is here a condition obviously calling for correction for the benefit of the veterans as well as for that of the nation. In the first years of veteran relief, during the Harding administration, the stealing represented, we are tempted to say, pretty much all the funds intended for relief. Reforms have come, yet expenditures have piled up to an enormous figure, and government finance, rapidly approaching bankruptcy, cannot endure administrative wastes and ill-advised drafts upon its depleted resources. The recent trend, as the committee makes clear, is ruinous, and there will be a general support for the committee's suggestion for economies through "the simplification of the forms of benefit provided for world war veterans, thus reducing the overhead personnel and organization now used to administer the activities of the veterans' bureau."

WINSTON CHURCHILL IN CHICAGO.

The visit to Chicago of the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill is of exceptional interest, even at a time when the visits of notables from Great Britain and the continent are often and for rather obvious reasons especially significant. How influential Mr. Churchill's American inheritance may have been or may be in his personality and his career is a matter of speculation, but it is certainly influential in the American opinion of Mr. Churchill, in whose career we are disposed to see certain qualities it pleases us to regard as characteristically American, though even a hasty review of British history will compel us to admit that they are also very British. When the young Churchill, when a correspondent for an English newspaper, escaped from a Boer prison Americans said, "That is his American blood," while, no doubt, his countrymen were saying, "How truly British." And throughout his conspicuous public life Mr. Churchill's candor, a little brusque or impatient, and his readiness to charge any bastion of official authority have found, perhaps, an even more general sympathy with us than at home. In short, we have rather taken to Mr. Churchill in spite of the fact that he has never shown any great enthusiasm for American policies and peculiarities; indeed, perhaps, because of it, for on the whole we like to know where a man is willing to stand and have come to distrust a rhetoric of friendliness like that of Mr. MacDonald on his visit preceding the London conference, which was not very noticeably realized in subsequent events.

In Mr. Churchill, then, we hear a statesman concerned frankly to present his view of his country's needs and of those policies which he believes a similar or common interest ought to support in the United States. This, we think, is more conducive to a mutual understanding, which men of intelligence and good intent in both countries sincerely wish, than an ingratiating eloquence which is not much restrained by a candid acknowledgment of substantial differences. A reliable cooperation of the English speaking peoples must be founded not upon the subserviency and uncritical optimism which Americans of a familiar type unfortunately feel but upon a self-respecting search by both peoples for policies profitable to both.

We meet, therefore, in our visitor not only a forthright Briton but also a very distinguished individual, a man of action in war and peace, a student and publicist, a statesman seasoned by long experience in momentous affairs. What he has to say will profit us whether we are able to accept his conclusions or not. What he has to say ought also to remind us that we have no such emissaries presenting the American case to other peoples. Save a small minority, our people have no disposition to a weak conciliation of "the opinion of mankind," though we have respected it from the birth of the republic, as the Declaration reminds us. But we have received many unofficial ambassadors of foreign interest since 1914, and we are aware of the angry perversion of American rights and interests so conspicuously appearing in European opinion. To meet this self-respectingly and vigorously is certainly a service which Americans might undertake for their country. What Europe sees chiefly is the deceptive apology of a few who do not represent or reveal the real spirit or convictions of the American people. In this deception are persistent misunderstanding, recrimination, and the certain promise of conflict.

Editorial of the Day

MR. SEABURY'S REPORT.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

For a year now the citizens of New York City have been reading in their newspapers a necessarily disconnected, verbose and confusing chronicle of the Hofstadter committee's investigation. Revelation has followed revelation of the system of graft and political chicanery which disgraces the local government, but interspersed with these high lights of testimony have been detailed accounts of the committee's struggles with unwilling witnesses, of the wrangles among its members, of its pursuit of Sherwood and other fugitives. The opportunity to form a comprehensive, coherent conception of its activities, to see its program as a whole and to measure the progress it has made has been lacking. That opportunity is now supplied by Judge Seabury in his intermediate report summarizing and interpreting the vast accumulation of evidence which has rewarded his untiring labors.

It is impossible to read this report without being appalled anew by the shameless betrayal of public trust which pervades the Tammany administration of the city. But more important than this fresh shock to the civic conscience is the service the document renders in tying together the multitude of individual disclosures and presenting them in their proper perspective. One begins to see the forest beyond the tall trees in the foreground and to understand that in mopping it up the committee and its brilliant counsel have been proceeding methodically, for all the noise and dust that have obscured their plan of campaign.

Those who are familiar with Judge Seabury's indictment of Farley, from the latter's own testimony, in his request to the governor for the sheriff's removal, with his similar arraignment of Chief Clerk Perry in his letter to the chief justice of the City court, will not be surprised to find in his report that he has analyzed with the same penetration and force the testimony of every one of the major witnesses who appeared before him in open hearings.

Thus we see taking shape, though still far from completion, a panoramic picture of local government under a predatory organization. It is a monumental task that Judge Seabury has essayed, but there can be no question of its importance to the community. His own eloquence on this point is no more convincing than Tammany's, which from the very beginning of the inquiry has assumed the form of desperate resistance.

Judge Seabury very wisely postpones any discussion of the remedial legislation which he has in mind to recommend until he has filled in his canvas. One may guess from the hints he lets drop that at the moment he strongly favors scrapping the entire fabric of municipal government as at present constituted for one centralized in a city manager. But that is neither here nor there just now. Of immediate consequence is a united public support for the continuance of the committee and his labors. His report should guarantee this. It should make certain the enactment by the assembly of the bill, already passed by the state senate, to give another year of life to the investigation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

At the Disarmament Conference.

THE CHAIRMAN: The conference to outlaw war among the nations of the world and to enthrone peace forever will now come to order. It is a beautiful thing when men and women come together from all corners of the world with but one thought, eternal, lasting peace——

A CHINESE DELEGATE: I have just received a telegram that the Japanese are landing two armies at Shanghai and that the Chinese dead in last night's battle numbers——

THE CHAIRMAN: The gentleman is out of order. In opening this assembly, one of the greatest epochs in the history of the human race, I wish to introduce Miss Sobba Lott, who will read a poem dedicated to this conference. Members of the disarmament convention——

THE CHINESE DELEGATE: Mr. Chairman, a Japanese regiment of marines is now pouring machine gun fire into the Chapel section of Shanghai, where there are thousands of defenseless Chinese civilians and——

THE CHAIRMAN (breaking a gavel as he pounds for order): The gentleman will please sit down. I now take great pleasure in introducing the distinguished Pacifist Poetess of Sorrow, Miss Sobba Lott, who will read her inspirational poem entitled "Oh, Peace, Thou Blue Eyed Goddess with Soft and Curly Hair!"

THE CHINESE DELEGATE: And the Honorable Japanese are knocking hell out of Harbin right now. And they are firing six inch guns at the unoffending——

THE CHAIRMAN: The gentleman is out of order. Miss Sobba Lott will now read her poem.

THE CHINESE DELEGATE: If the world is going to disarm, when does it start?

MISS SOBBA LOTT:

Oh, Peace, how beautiful thou art,
Indeed, indeed, thou hast my heart.
War is such a horrid thing,
As it leaps with accursed spring,
Taking what we love so dear,
As we wipe away a tear.
Let us throw the guns away,
Trample them into the clay,
To a nation proud and haughty,
The world shall say, "Oh, naughty, naughty!"
We will bring war to its knees,
If we gently murmur "Please!"

THE CHINESE DELEGATE: Say "please" to the Japs.

THE CHAIRMAN: The gentleman from China is out of order.

A JAPANESE DELEGATE: We of Japan must protect our nationals in Shanghai. The Chinese keep pickin' on 'em——

THE CHAIRMAN: The delegate from Pogo Pogo has the floor.

THE DELEGATE FROM POGO POGO: I suggest that we all disarm at once. I move that all ships of war be immediately taken out to the middle of the ocean and sunk——

THE DELEGATE FROM CHINA: Send the Jap ships first.

THE CHAIRMAN: Order! Order! This is a disarmament conference!

ALL THE DELEGATES (in chorus): He hit me first!

"IS THERE NO LIMIT," asked Prosecutor John E. Northup in his closing argument in the drainage district whoopee trial, "to which any party, Democratic or Republican, can virtually loot the public treasury for its purposes and then explain: 'We thought we were doing the right thing'?" Oh, Mr. Northup, how innocent you are! Where have you been all these years? Since you seem absolutely sincere in your quest for information, we will take the time and trouble, Mr. Northup, to answer your question and tell you, no, there is no limit to which any party, Democratic or Republican, can virtually loot the public treasury for its own purpose and then explain: "We thought we were doing the right thing." Ask us another.

And another behind my own,
The breath of the wind grows colder,
All the ancient griefs we have known

Flock back like a rabble of devils,

We fain must submit to their revels,
Eschewing the pathway to peace.

Yet the wind will grow warm, and the shadows
Slink back to their shadow line,
Soon there'll be sun on the meadows,
And ever your hand in mine!

MORE TYPES OF ACIDOSIS.

IN the treatment of acidosis the use of bicarbonate of soda has only a very limited field, according to modern opinion. In all conditions due to this cause effort is made to find the type and cause, and treatment is based on those findings rather than on an effort to neutralize an acid.

One of the most serious forms of acidosis is that which results from carbon monoxide poisoning. Dr. V. E. Levine estimates the amount of this gas made by an average automobile, under average conditions, as about two cubic feet per minute, or enough to kill a man in a small, tight garage in two and a half minutes of operation on the part of the engine. A small Ford would require five minutes to do the job in similar circumstances. However, garage exposure is only one item in the list of industrial and household procedures in which there is danger of carbon monoxide poisoning. The immediate danger of asphyxiation by this gas is supplemented by the dangers of edema of the brain and pneumonia, not to mention chronic poisoning and its symptoms.

The approved treatment of all acute effects of carbonic monoxide is inhalation of a mixture of 95 parts oxygen and 5 parts carbonic acid gas.

It is thought the best treatment of morphine poisoning is inhalation of a mixture of 90 per cent oxygen and 10 per cent carbonic acid gas. This can be given with an inhalator or by means of a stream of the gas mixture flowing over the face.

Surgeons now combine carbonic acid gas with their anesthetic when they use ether. It lessens the amount of ether used, prevents waste, quickens anesthesia, and lessens the chance of gas pains, thrombus embolus, and pneumonia following operation.

The treatment of acidosis due to loss of too much fluid is injection into the peritoneal cavity, the veins, or sometimes into the tissues, of a solution of glucose and bicarbonate of soda. In this form of acidosis some good may follow taking soda by mouth.

In acute acidosis of acute Bright's disease, especially in uremic coma and convulsions, it is proper to give alkalis. Bicarbonate of soda is useful and so are the various forms of lime, such as the acetate. According to Dr. Levine, oxygen inhalations are helpful at times.

A more chronic manifestation of acidosis in more chronic forms of Bright's disease is met by the use of a vegetable and fruit diet and decreased use of acid-forming meats, eggs, breads, and cereals. Dr. Levine advises that exposure to sunlight and lamp therapy, and the use of heat in various forms, be added to our list of remedies used in the treatment of acidosis. Cod liver oil, viosterol, and radiated foods are of service in that they increase the alkalinity of the blood.

BLUE BABIES.

Mrs. J. O. R. writes:

1. What is a blue baby?
2. What are the chances?
3. Is there a cure?
4. My baby has blue marks on its back and across its nose.

REPLY.

1. One with a congenital defect of the heart.
2. Blue babies seldom reach adult life.
3. No.
4. These are not the signs of a blue baby.

BOILS IN THE NOSE.

S. J. H. writes: For the last year or so I have been bothered with what I suppose are boils on the inside and outside of my nose, which, when they come to a head, give off much pus. Is this a local condition or is there some other deep seated cause? Is it possible that there might be serious results if it were allowed to go on?

REPLY.

A boil is an infection with a pus germ. The nose is a dangerous location for a boil. Try to prevent these nose boils if possible. Do you keep the grease squeezed out of your grease glands?

CANCER AND DIETING.

H. B. W. writes: Having recently heard a discussion as to whether cancer could be caused by certain foods, I am anxious to know if this is true. If so, what are the foods which might bring on the disease?

REPLY.

Were you to believe all you hear about foods as the cause of cancer, and if you dicted accordingly, you would indulge in a perpetual and complete fast. In comparison, Dr. Tanner would be a glutton.

IGNORE HEAD NOISES.

J. J. G. writes: I am troubled with head noises. This affects my hearing slightly. What can I do for myself?

REPLY.

Averaging cases, the best thing to do for head noises is to ignore them. We train ourselves to ignore all other noises. Why not these?

MUST APPLY SEPARATELY.

Glen View, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—A is an American born young man, as were also his forefathers. He married a foreign born young lady Nov. 24, 1927, who at the time had her first papers. B was told that she would not have to secure her second papers because marrying an American citizen made her a citizen. Is this correct? G. S.

The law states that women who married citizens after Sept. 22, 1922, did not gain citizenship through such marriage, but must obtain citizenship themselves. She should fill out form A-2214 if she desires to apply for naturalization, or apply at room 776 postoffice building for information.

UNCOLLECTED JUDGMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—On July 8, 1929, I obtained a judgment [which remains uncollected] for $400 against a man who has since died a pauper. The judgment was recorded against two pieces of property which he owned at that time and lost to the banks. 1. Can this property be sold with this cloud on the title? 2. How can I get renewal of judgment recorded at the end of seven years? This was in the state of Indiana. C. McB.

1. If the trust deed under which the bank is taking the property over is older than your judgment, then a title can be made through the foreclosure proceedings clear of your judgment.
2. A court paper called sci. fa. will have to be served on the judgment defendant.

TOKIO.—Publication of the imperial urgency ordinances in the official gazette makes war more certain than at any time during the five months of negotiations at Tokio and St. Petersburg. The extraordinary appropriation of $50,000,000 for military purposes was made without waiting for the diet's approval. Admiral Ito is the nation's hero. Admiral Togo, the "Fighting Bob" of the Japanese navy, is waiting to fire the first shot.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Signs of the approaching war storm in the far east are discernible hourly in St. Petersburg. The most significant incident of the day is that the Japanese embassy is making evident preparations for departure. In military circles war is looked upon as inevitable and naturally there is elation in all army and navy clubs. It is noticeable that army officers are evincing a growing hostility to England. One of them declared that war with Japan is only the first move in the inevitable conflict with Great Britain.

LONDON.—The Times says editorially that there is reason to believe that all expectations of a peaceful settlement of the Russo-Japanese dispute must be abandoned. Dispatches from the far east report that twenty-six warships, cleared for action, were seen cruising off the Shantung promontory on Feb. 4. It is believed that these ships form a part of the Japanese naval force.

VLADIVOSTOK.—The Japanese are fleeing panic stricken and Japanese storekeepers have sacrificed all their possessions in their haste to escape to Japan.

CHICAGO. — Sensational charges that the Washington Park bank robbery was a frameup between the police and criminals to win credit for certain Chicago officials were made by Robert E. Cantwell as a prelude to the withdrawal of himself and partner, Garfield Smith, as counsel for the four men indicted for the crime. In a statement which accompanied his motion to be permitted to withdraw, Mr. Cantwell admitted a storm of adverse public opinion had driven him from the defense of the men who he admitted are guilty of the robbery, "though entrapped into the crime." He referred to an article in yesterday's TRIBUNE as a special reason for his action. This article included a letter from a lawyer denouncing the methods of attorneys to acquit criminals known to be guilty.

LONDON.— Reports received in London indicated the Germans are prepared and will strike soon at the allied lines in Belgium and France and at the allied positions at Saloniki. A Saloniki dispatch says a heavy artillery duel already is in progress between the British and Austrians near Doiran. It says a general German offensive has been inaugurated along the whole Greek border.

BOSTON, Mass. — Miss Geraldine Farrar, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, admitted that she is to marry Lou Tellegen, the French actor, in New York next Tuesday noon.

CHICAGO.—"They put me in a cell with a murderer, a burglar, a drunk, and a white slaver, and made me stand up for nine hours while they told me I was a liar." Bristling with indignation, Charles Strony, director of French opera, who was arrested at Windsor, Ont., on suspicion of being a German spy who fired the parliament buildings at Ottawa, arrived in Chicago. He was given an uproarious welcome when he reached the Auditorium theater.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

CHICAGO.—A terrific explosion in the basement of a meat shop at Archer avenue and Twenty-second street followed by three other explosions of escaping gas resulted in wide disaster in the form of death, injury, and fire. A whole neighborhood was thrown into a panic, the street was filled with flames, and the full cost of the wreckage is not yet certainly fixed. Eleven charred bodies had been taken from the ruins of the little shop at 2 a. m., and it is thought other victims may still be there among the embers. The primary explosion occurred beneath the meat shop of Otto Trostel. He, his wife, and four children, his nephew, a servant, and a young woman, friend of the family, were killed. In addition to the eleven dead, twenty-three injured persons were taken to hospitals.

LONDON.—The British pursuit of Gen. de Wet has been successful to the extent that his last gun has been captured and Commandant Wessels, one of his principal lieutenants, has been routed. Lord Kitchener sent the news in a dispatch from Pretoria.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Riat H. De Alba Stokes, the former wife of W. E. D. Stokes, and Capt. Philip M. Lydig were quietly married in Grace church chantry by the Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington.

CHICAGO.—The wedding of Miss Irene Marion McCutchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCutchen, to Charles Monroe St. Clair took place at 1083 Warren avenue. The Rev. Dr. Hopkins officiated.

AGAINST BRANCH BANKING.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Mr. Evan L. Reed, in a letter appearing in the Voice of the People Feb. 2, said he believed that in Canada, which permits branch banking, "there has been an almost entire absence of bank failures."

Permit me to direct attention to the failure a few years ago of the Home Bank of Canada with 78 branches and the forced absorption of the Merchants Bank of Canada with 400 branches. To forestall a national panic the dominion government subsidized the latter bank up to $25,000,000. This was prior to the time when we began to feel the pinch of depression. To these failures I might add that of a great bank in Denmark with numerous branches, the Banca di Sconto in Italy with its numerous branches, several great banks in Japan, and other branch banks.

It is my opinion that good banking is not a matter of size. A properly conducted small country bank can be as safe as a large city institution with many branches. I believe with Mr. Henry M. Dawes of Chicago, when he testified before the house committee on banking and currency in Washington May 28, 1930: "When an emergency call is made by a subsidiary (branch bank subsidiary) it will be at a time when the other subsidiaries are in the poorest position to support it and when the stock of the banks not directly involved is the least valuable as an asset."

Before the same committee Mr. Dawes, commenting on branch, chain, and group banking, said: "When banks are associated for the purpose of the exchange of securities it is not usually the prime securities that are under consideration, and while it must be conceded that a certain diversification of collateral is brought about no very important good is accomplished, as good collateral can always be used by correspondents or discounted at the federal reserve banks. The practical result, therefore, as a rule, is the rapid circulation of bad notes throughout the system." THOMAS A. CANTY.

RAILROAD ECONOMICS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—The writer wishes to express appreciation of your editorials of Feb. 1 and 2 on the question of railroad economics and the settlement of the wage question on the railroads.

Through our contact with the railroads we are in excellent position to realize the difficulties under which they are working due to the starvation policy with respect to rates which has existed for some time.

We also note with satisfaction your decision to remove from the masthead of your editorial columns the demand for immediate electrification of the railroads in Chicago, realizing that they would be unable at the present time to secure the capital necessary. We believe it would be in order to substitute for this one asking for a square deal for the railroads, whose welfare is so important to their great body of employés and also the many thousands of workmen in the steel and other industries which supply them. LEWIS THOMAS.

LICENSES IN MILWAUKEE.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Mr. Joseph B. Rogers is not familiar with the facts of the matter in Milwaukee when he says they have no liquor licenses there. Every good corner in Milwaukee has its saloon in which good Wisconsin beer is dispensed, and each saloon pays a license directly to the city, instead of to every officer who can shake them down, as is the case here in our city.

The city of Milwaukee collects no vehicle tax, and I would like to point out to Mr. Rogers that Milwaukee is a fine example of what can be done if the liquor business is made to benefit the people instead of a few grafters.

THE LEAGUE AND THE CRISES.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—THE TRIBUNE appears to take a fiendish delight in ridiculing every attempt of the league of nations to preserve peace. Would it not be better if the league did succeed? Does it not appear possible that the day may not be far off when we will sincerely regret that the league did not succeed?

Now, it is apparent that no one can prove just how successful the league would have been had America become an active member. But it is likewise impossible for THE TRIBUNE to maintain that it would have failed with American suport and leadership. For, due to the disinterested position of the United States in most international issues, as well as because of its power, its views would receive a respect and carry a weight far greater than that of any other nation.

Well, I was a soldier, and I am more opposed to war than THE TRIBUNE. But it seems quite certain that Japan broke its promises to us, disregarded international law and actual treaties with us, and made itself thoroughly deserving of our protests. The situation is a delightful one to THE TRIBUNE, which sees in it an end to disarmament talk and a reëstablishment of militarism. But to some of us, and we are not so few as chronic readers of THE TRIBUNE would be led to believe, there is a quite opposite and equally logical viewpoint. We do not desire war, nor do we desire national dishonor. We are sure that the world can, and should, settle its troubles by arbitration. We regret that the rest of the world had, with few exceptions, no aid from the United States in such efforts, and has had, instead, discouraging attack and ridicule.

We are not down hearted. We know that Hoover is of our mind. If we go back to Coolidge's speeches we find that he favored the general idea and went far in actual practice in working with the league—as far as a Republican leader dare. Even Roosevelt, though he opposed the "Wilson" league, wrote a book urging the same principles and a league not greatly different. S. C.

BOYCOTTS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—After a boycott can we shake hands with our enemy, forgive and love them like the Bible tells us to do? No, we cannot, as the disease of boycott eats out the heart and soul, which is the root of love and friendship. If we must war, let us war with trained men—trained and fit to fight, who will admire the enemy while fighting and become the best of friends when through. Let us keep our hearts and souls clean from this terrible disease, boycotting, and be real Americans. H. EWALT.

THE DEMOCRATIC SLATE.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Will some one please enlighten a poor benighted Democrat, who has temporarily lost his grip on the definition of democracy, why Tony Cermak should move heaven and earth to get Mr. John E. Conroy and Mr. John E. Traeger Jr. out of office and next day place both men on a ticket composed of the best men the Democratic party is supposed to have to offer? Surely Mr. Cermak is not conceding that Michael Igoe was right all along and that these men should not have been removed from office and is now trying to right a wrong. Personally, I have always considered Mr. John E. Conroy one of the best men in the Democratic party, and the voters of Cook county time and time again have proved to be of the same opinion, and young Traeger could not be a son of Honest John E. Traeger and be unfit for any office. T. V. T.

SUGGESTS CITY SAVE $72,000 ON BRIDGE CREWS

U.S. Engineer Offers Plan to Reduce Force.

A suggestion that the city could save $72,000 or more in its 1932 budget by requiring ship and barge captains to give five hours' notice of their intention to pass through little used bridges in the city was given yesterday to the harbors, wharves and bridges committee of the council by Col. W. G. Caples, war department engineer in Chicago.

By requiring five hours' notice from shipping for bridge openings, the city would be able to dispense with the services of six bridge tenders who work on such bridges. Permits for such operation of the bridges may be obtained from the war department on the proper showing that traffic through them is too light to justify keeping bridge tenders on duty. It was suggested that three bridges on the Calumet river, one on Bubbly creek, and one or more on the north branch of the Chicago river, north of North avenue, might be placed in this classification.

The fire department is opposed to the policy. Its officials hold that bridge tenders should be on duty at all hours, in case fireboats have to pass the bridges in question.

Subcommittee Is Appointed.

Col. Caples' suggestion was made at a meeting called by Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] to consider a uniform policy governing bridge clearances in the city. Ald. Rowan appointed a subcommittee which will hold meetings with representatives of the Chicago and regional plan commissions, the Chicago regional port commission, Illinois Waterways association, the surface lines, railroads and shippers.

Ald. Rowan called the meeting, he said, because of recent suggestions at hearings before war department engineers in Chicago that all fixed bridges across the sanitary canal, which is a unit of the lakes-to-gulf waterway, should clear the water by at least 25 feet.

He feared, he said, that the rule for such a 25 foot clearance might set a precedent which would be applied if Chicago tries in the future to have fixed bridges replace the movable bridges in the downtown district. It would demoralize loop building and street construction to build bridges there with 25 foot clearance, he said, because of the high approaches necessary.

Offers Port Commission's Aid.

E. M. Antrim offered the coöperation of the Chicago regional port commission in settling the problem. The commission recently suggested a plan at the war department hearings which would leave the way open for construction of fixed bridges in the loop district in the future.

Because of the present financial difficulties of the city, sanitary district, and other governmental bodies, the commission suggested that no changes in existing bridges be ordered. The present bridges over the sanitary canal have a 16½ foot clearance.

The port commission recommended that as fast as bridges have to be replaced either open bridges should be constructed, or fixed bridges with a clearance of 25 feet, on the sanitary canal and Chicago river as far north as the intersection of Halsted street and the south branch and on the Sag and Calumet river channels leading from the waterway to the proposed Lake Calumet harbor. North of the Halsted street bridge the bridges could be kept at their present clearance, the commission believes.

Col. Caples also suggested to the committee that congestion at the Michigan avenue bridge due to bridge openings might be lessened by signals showing motorists which way to proceed to detour over bridges through which the boat has already passed.

Gunmen Hold Up 3 Women and 7 Men in Forest Park

Four bandits invaded the offices of the Mallott Wholesale Grocery company, 7240 Franklin street, Forest Park, late yesterday. After holding up ten employés, including three women, they escaped in an automobile with $450. Miss Katherine Grall, 234 North Menard avenue, the switchboard operator, was the first to be confronted by the robbers. She was ordered to walk in front of them into the main offices. There the president, Albert C. Rule, and the members of the office force were driven into a back room while the gunmen ransacked the place.

MUNICIPAL COURT ADOPTS CODE TO CURB BAIL ABUSE

All Bondsmen Must Have Judicial O. K.

The judges of the Municipal court at a meeting yesterday adopted a set of rules to curb abuses of bail bonds in criminal and quasi-criminal cases. The rules were formulated by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby after more than a year of study with judges of other courts, attorneys, and representatives of civic organizations.

The code was adopted because of the doubt that the bail act passed by the last general session of the legislature applied to the Municipal court. Many attorneys held that a special act approved by the voters was necessary to effect changes. In passing the code the judges held that they have power of regulation.

Under the code any person or surety company which exacts compensation for signing a bond is to be classed as a professional bondsman. No professional bondsman is to be accepted as surety unless a court order authorizing him to act in this capacity is obtained.

Must Make Court Deposit.

An individual who wants to act as a bondsman must satisfy the court that he is a citizen of good reputation. He must also deposit $500 with the court clerk as security for his compliance with court orders, and when he executes a bond he must justify his financial condition just as he would be required to do were he not a professional bondsman.

The clerk of the court is required to keep an account of each individual or corporate professional bondsman, so that the number and amount of bonds provided by the individual or corporation may be readily determined.

Rules for Authorizing Bonds.

The rules provide that judges may authorize bonds only in open court, except on Sundays and holidays, when they may act if they deem it proper. For the accommodation of accused persons on week days a branch court is to be designated to approve bonds from 8 a. m. to midnight. The court is to be designated when the rules become effective on Feb. 29.

When bail is accepted on a Sunday or holiday the judges will not be allowed to accept bail in cash or securities. They can accept only a bond with a surety company, a professional bondsman, or a bondsman with proper property qualifications. The judges can, in quasi-criminal or in criminal cases, where the punishment is fixed by fine or imprisonment, allow an accused person released on his own recognizance when they are satisfied the accused will appear in court.

HOTEL OWNER'S SON ARRESTED AS HE LEAVES COURT

The courts and the police made it a busy day yesterday for Harry C. Moir Jr., 29 years old, son of the owner of the Morrison hotel.

Moir was arraigned before Judge Fardy in the Felony court on charges of adultery and larceny. It was alleged that he was living with Verda Weir, 19 years old, in a flat at 5805 Essex avenue, and that he stole a pistol that was found in the apartment.

After his bonds had been fixed at $3,000 the case was continued to Feb. 19. As Moir left the court he was again arrested, this time as an accessory to robbery. The police said that two youths, Wilfred Anderson and Alfred Ferdinandson, had confessed they obeyed Moir's orders in robbing filling stations at 7708 Exchange avenue and 71st street and Coles avenue. The pair asserted they turned over the proceeds, $40, to him when he pleaded that he needed capital to swing a new alcohol syndicate.

In return for the money, the youths said, they were allowed to live in the Essex avenue flat, and Verda cooked their meals. Anderson and Ferdinandson have been charged with robbery.

County Filing Today Will Open Way for Confabs.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

After the rush to get county slates filed this morning, the first day of filing for the April 12 primaries, the Democratic chieftains' purpose to continue their harmonizing efforts on the governorship. Michael L. Igoe, minority leader at Springfield and national committeeman who chucked his hat into the ring weeks ago, was invited yesterday by Patrick A. Nash, county chairman, to meet with Democrats from all over the state next week with a view of bringing back the bird of peace to the old dovecote.

Mayor A. J. Cermak and Mr. Igoe are expected to hold a conference today on the subject. Prevailing gossip in Democratic circles during the day was that the harmonizing process has greater prospects of success now that the battling in the special sessions at Springfield is approaching a finale.

Igoe Ready for Action.

Mr. Igoe's governorship petition is expected to be filed today, and reports yesterday were that he contemplates opening headquarters next Monday in the La Salle hotel, but these items, as many of the Democratic leaders viewed it, may not stand in the way of peace. To outsiders it still looks like a fight.

In framing the county slate, State Senator Thomas Courtney was put on for state's attorney, leaving the place of attorney general open, and overtures have been made in the last week to Mr. Igoe to withdraw for governor and run for this position instead.

County Clerk Sweitzer said that, as usual, petitions received in the morning mail today will be filed first. The Democratic county slate, which will probably head the ballot, is topped by Courtney.

Judge Michael Feinberg formally announced yesterday that he would be a candidate for state's attorney. He is on the Harding-Crowe ticket. State's Attorney John A. Swanson is slated by the Deneen group for renomination. Judge John H. Lyle and Judge Edgar A. Jonas are candidates. Word last night was that State Senator Arthur Adam Huebsch of Brookfield will file for attorney general in the Republican primaries.

New Governorship Gossip.

In headquarters gossip yesterday, Clayton F. Smith, county recorder, and Col. A. A. Sprague were prominently mentioned as governorship possibilities when the state slate makers get busy next week. Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court is still regarded as in the lead.

There is no rush on state candidates, as their names rotate on the ballot, thus avoiding the rush to get top place by filing first.

Senator Otis F. Glenn is expected to file at Springfield today. So is Newton Jenkins, who is running against him in the Republican primaries. The Democrats expect to file William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, congressman at large, for senator.

Republican candidates for governor expected to file today are: William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission; Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, Len Small and Omer N. Custer of Galesburg.

Lewis in Presidential Vote.

The name of Senator James Hamilton Lewis is to be filed in the Democratic preferential primaries. Word yesterday was that petitions were being circulated for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, but it was said they were not from the Roosevelt organization, which has announced a policy of keeping out of states with favorite son candidates, as is customary. To get on the ballot, a signed statement from the candidate must be filed.

On the Republican side petitions are to be filed for Joseph I. France, former senator from Maryland. Advisers of the Hoover administration have been counseling the administration not to file the President's name on the preferential ballot.

At least three slates of candidates for delegates to the Republican national convention are to be filed, and in addition a crop of go as you please anti-Hoover candidates is expected to appear before last day filing, Feb. 22. The Hoover candidates expect to run for the most part as uninstructed.

A carpet bagging issue arose yesterday at Democratic headquarters. Carter H. Harrison, five times mayor, who lives on the north side, declined to run on the slate for delegate to the Democratic national convention from the 5th district, on the west side. "I'm not a carpet bagger," said Mr. Harrison. The diplomats then talked of running him in his home district, the 9th, by getting Francis X. Busch to swap places and run in the 5th instead. "I'm not a carpet bagger," said Mr. Busch. So they speak of running the ex-mayor as delegate-at-large, a job that carries only half a vote in the convention but a full sized badge.

PADDEN ATTACKS MOTOR COP TRAPS ON BOULEVARDS

Municipal Judge Padden of the Traffic court shuffled through a stack of arrest slips yesterday and charged that motorcycle policemen are operating speed traps. He announced he would confer with Police Commissioner Allman.

"The motorcycle men," said the judge, "have evidently concentrated their attention on places where traffic moves fast because it's safe to travel fast. As shown by these slips, they are not patrolling the side streets where the occasional speeder is a real menace.

"I'll venture that only one per cent of the city's streets are patrolled by motorcycle men. They are staying on the broad thoroughfares where they have a chance to arrest motorists who are going more than 35 miles an hour.

"It's the automobile driver who dashes down narrow car line streets, or residential side streets with blind intersections—that's the speeder I want brought before me, the reckless and dangerous driver, not the fast, careful, and safe driver.

"A motorcycle policeman is placed on the street primarily to prevent reckless driving. He should ride and not hide."

BOOKS

John Erskine as Critic Tells of Two Books

With Sidelights on How to Read Them.

BY JOHN ERSKINE.

"The Literary Mind," by Max Eastman. [Scribner's.]

"Counter-Statement," by Kenneth Burke. [Harcourt-Brace.]

Happiness is enough for most of us, but a few men, even when they are happy, ask why they are. We call them philosophers.

JOHN ERSKINE.

If their life were uncomfortable, and they asked why it should be so, we should see nothing particularly philosophical in the protest, but when they insist upon an explanation of their good luck, we perceive that they are difficult people, hot footed after the secret of the universe.

For most of us it is enough to enjoy a good book, but some of us are critics—we must know why we enjoy it. We think that if we could state the reasons for our pleasure in one masterpiece we should be on intelligent terms of intimacy with all masterpieces. We believe that if we could analyze the pleasure derived from masterpieces we should be able to recognize a masterpiece when we see it.

I believe these two volumes by Mr. Eastman and Mr. Burke are among the most admirable, and potentially among the most important, which will appear this winter, but I also believe they will reach fewer readers than they deserve.

Both Mr. Eastman and Mr. Burke are as unacademic, as wide awake to what is going on about them, as any critics I know. In these new books of theirs you feel the pulse of our day. Yet Mr. Burke takes his illustrations chiefly from De Gourmont, Pater, Flaubert, Thomas Mann, Andre Gide—and when he gets nearer to books an American reader is likely to know—from Shakespeare, Milton, Swift, and other classics.

Mr. Eastman draws more heavily than Mr. Burke upon current examples, but, since he is frequently attacking some poet whom he does not completely admire, and since his prejudice is usually one with which the public agrees, quite a number of his pages are hard for the average reader to follow, and the impression conveyed is that it would not repay the puzzled reader to look up the illustrative material and learn what it was all about.

Critics, just because they read more deeply than most of us, are likely to develop a taste for certain satisfactions which belong to the craft, which have to do with books as such, not with books as a mirror or expression of life. It is quite logical, therefore, that Mr. Burke should address his critical communications to the American public in terms of De Gourmont instead of Edna Ferber or Willa Cather, but it is also unlucky for Mr. Burke's ideas. Perhaps he believes that De Gourmont is more important for us to know than Miss Ferber or Miss Cather. If he would demonstrate that point, with specific illustrations from the work of all three, we should be getting somewhere.

If the book which we like is a masterpiece, then shall we say that the book which the largest number of people like is necessarily the greatest masterpiece? Mr. Burke and Mr. Eastman do not believe this, and neither do I. But when you write of general principles of criticism the examples you cite are only so much language, employed to convey your meaning, and the example which most people can recognize will take your meaning furthest.

Aside from this one matter of their literary exclusiveness, I pay my tribute to the richness and the brilliance of these two books, and the unusually beautiful style in which they both are written. Some years ago Mr. Eastman gave us a volume called "The Enjoyment of Poetry," which still holds its own among the few books which have positively increased our pleasure in the poetic experiences of life and in our enjoyment of poetic verse and prose. Mr. Eastman is a poet; he is also a philosopher—a genuine and not simply a trained one; he is also a man of humor, who approaches the things he loves with a helpful sense of comedy.

This present volume of his attempts to define the relation of creative literature to science. To me, the attempt is less important than the brilliant comments upon specific books and authors which enrich every page. I wish that all readers might be familiar with those books and authors, in order to enjoy the brilliant comments—or else that Mr. Eastman had directed his comments toward books and authors we all knew.

Mr. Burke, too, is by temperament a philosopher, a stylist, an artist. For him the value of a book is to some degree the fact that it takes you out of life, removes you for a time to another world. Let us say that he admires the retreat to the ivory tower—I think he must, or he would not have written so exclusively of those who dwelt in that detached eminence. But he is interested in the impact of language upon the reader, in the technique of stimulating the reader's imagination, in the form of the reader's experience, molded by the writer's suggestion.

Rebuff for Shakespeare.

Mrs. Bell, daughter of Rufus Choate and one of the queens of Boston wit, in the biography of her, "Mrs. Bell," by Paulina C. Drown [Little-Brown] is reported to have said, "Shakespeare will do very well, but for a steady diet, give me Oppenheim."

Among the New Books

FICTION.

The Brontes Went to Woolworth's, by Rachel Ferguson [Dutton], tells of an idealized man who suddenly appears to put those ideals to the test.

A Dangerous Situation, by Louis Tracy [Clode], reveals the tragedy behind an Anglo-Indian marriage.

Miss Rollins in Love, by Garibaldi M. Lapolla [Vanguard], chronicles the lost romance of a school teacher in teeming "Little Italy."

Russia in the Name of God, by Vladimir Brenner [Appleton], concerns the martyrdom of the Russian church under soviet rule.

Folkhouse, by Ruth Sawyer [Appleton], presents charmingly the problems of two young people in love without money, but with a desire to make a home.

MYSTERY.

The Capital City Murder, by J. H. Wallis [Dutton], deals with the death of a wealthy congressman at his wife's supper party.

Rain on the Roof, by Kay Lipke [Dial Press], concerns a lonely young girl newspaper reporter who is accused of murder.

The Double Solution, by Cecil Freeman Gregg [Dial Press], reveals a tragedy that occurred on April Fool's day.

The "Moth" Murder, by Lynton Blow [Holt], concerns the supposed death of an airman who baffles Scotland Yard.

POETRY.

Limburger Lyrics by K. M. S. [Covici Friede] mixes humorously the broken German and English.

I Feel Better Now by Margaret Fishback [Dutton] contains deft, modern, and gay verses from the pen of a Maid of Manhattan.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Thunder Over France, by G. Forzano [Pegasus], presents the human side of Danton, a sensational man in a sensational era.

I Am a Fugitive from the Georgia Chain Gang, by Robert E. Burns [Vanguard], by an author still in hiding, reveals the horrors of the Georgia prison system.

The Double Heart, by Naomi Royde-Smith [Harpers], is a brilliant study of the beautiful Julie de Lespinasse of France.

ABOUT PLACES.

The Golden Isles of Georgia, by Caroline Couper Lovell [Little-Brown], chronicles the fascinating history and romance of those famous isles.

SHORT STORIES.

The Copper Mask, by Hugh Wiley [Knopf], concerns the Chinese of San Francisco in sinister and humorous aspects.

RARE BOOKS SHOWN AT ART INSTITUTE UNTIL 1ST OF MARCH

In the print galleries of the Art Institute from Feb. 1 to March 15 there is an exhibition of color plate books and original drawings of the 18th and 19th centuries from the fine collection of Mrs. James Ward Thorne. In Mrs. Thorne's collection are books of travel and scenery, English typography, sporting books, caricature and costume, the color plate books of Rowlandson and Cruikshank, Leech and "Phiz," and children's books with colored plates.

"The Coronation of George IV.," an excessively rare first edition by Whittaker, is supposed to be one of the most magnificent color plate books in existence. The original drawings by Stephanoff for this book are being shown. The series called "Oxford," "Cambridge," "The Public Schools," is in the exhibition with the original drawings for the illustrations by Pugin, Mackenzie, Westfall, and Nash. Alken's "National Sports" and Orme's rarely seen "British Field Sports" are supplemented with the original drawings by Alken, Leech, and "Phiz."

"The Microcosm of London: or London in Miniature," published in 1810 by Ackerman, another rare color plate book, has 104 illustrations by Pugin and Rowlandson. This book on exhibit is Pugin's own copy.

Branch Cabell Faces World as New Author

Albeit with Something of a Veteran's Swagger.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"These Restless Heads," by Branch Cabell. [McBride.] Published Feb. 4.

Do not be too disturbed by the name of the "new and rising author" which adorns the title page of "These Restless Heads." Branch Cabell is not the reincarnated James Branch Cabell, author of "Jurgen," "Figures of Earth," and sixteen other volumes, mostly concerned with the history of some branch of Dom Manuel's vast family tree. He is the truncated torso of that genial and highly figurative pen. That truncating was done "To distinguish as sharply as may be between those volumes which make up the Biography of the life of Manuel and such other publishings as under the dictates of chance I may or may not emit, and thus in some sort to emphasize still again the circumstance that the Biography is one single, one continuous, and one indivisible book," Branch Cabell writes in the introduction to this, his latest "publishing."

BRANCH CABELL. [Drawn by Karl S. Woerner.]

It was in October of the year 1929 that Mr. Cabell [Mr. James Branch Cabell] bade a formal and eternal farewell to creative writing in a volume called "The Way of Ecben." He had much to say about the springs of creative writing ceasing to gush after forty and practically drying at their source after fifty. That farewell was taken, I fear by many, as a farewell to literature on the part of Mr. Cabell, for such is his genius that all of his writing is, perforce, creative.

In "These Restless Heads" Branch Cabell has removed from his former self only a label, not an attitude of mind nor a twist of style. He is as much a creative artist in these pages as he was in the romances of Poictesme. He writes in exactly the same highly gilded and embroidered fashion that he wrote in the fictional Biography and he uses exactly the same romantic ideas and their concomitants. The only difference is that in the romances the words were put into the mouths of his characters, in "These Restless Heads" they flow from his own lips.

The volume is an oddly, romantically mosaicked pattern of short essays about life and thought and writing and living. Casual things like the visit of the postman, a box of matches, a flag fluttering in the breeze before his window, the breeze itself, a bust of a Greek goddess turn the thoughts of Branch Cabell into the highly enameled sentences which have made all of his other books works of art in manner no matter what they otherwise contained. The subject matter of "These Restless Heads" is the somewhat gentle, somewhat cynical wisdom of a man who has lived long enough to have perspective about life and the evanescent business of putting words to paper. He writes delightfully about writing. He makes the literary man not only more understandable but more than ever strangely different and at the same time strangely one with his fellow men. But literature and its pursuit as a vocation as well as a relaxation are only bright threads in the tapestry of the volume. It is about nothing, and about everything. Provided one likes that kind of thing, and provided one cares for Mr. Cabell's style, it is a joy. I say "provided that" because there manifestly are many who cannot abide charming essays about nothing and about everything. Doubtless, too, there are quite as many who will find themselves lost in the mazes of the Cabellian prose.

On Thursday, the publication day of "These Restless Heads," the Literary Guild, which chose Branch Cabell's volume as the February treasure book, had its fifth birthday party. There were present luminaries of vast candle power and voltage to pay tribute to the "new and rising author" [as they insist upon labeling him], among whom I was unfortunately prevented by geographical exigencies from being present.

Carl Van Doren was master of ceremonies, and he introduced Corey Ford, who called the guest of honor Mr. Parenthesis James Parenthesis Branch Cabell and pointed out that many of the guests had come as typographical signs, Joseph Hergesheimer with his commas, Theodore Dreiser in paragraphs, Fannie Hurst with jet black exclamation points in each ear, Eleanor Glyn with a glittering row of asterisks in her hair, and E. E. Cummings as a typographical error.

Mr. Ford was followed by Burton Rascoe, to whom "Jurgen" was dedicated, and who told how Mr. Cabell works, from nine to noon and from noon to late afternoon, composing all of his work on a typewriter and always facing either an open window or an open door. Hendrik Willem Van Loon, Joseph Wood Krutch, and W. E. Woodward said their pieces exactly as on long gone Friday afternoons at the country schoolhouse, as Mr. Woodward pointed out. A quatrain written by Selma Robinson was read. Mr. Cabell's message was delivered for him by Mr. Van Doren. That consisted of a graceful explanation of the truncation of his name.

The world may no longer be in doubt as to the pronunciation of Cabell (a matter which fills much of the author's mail, he says in "These Restless Heads"). Clearly and flatly and unanimously they call him neither Ca-bell' nor Cay'-bell, but as if the name were cab, with ell as a second thought.

Queen Bess' War in Erin Basis of Book

Katharine Adams Writes Novel "Blackthorn."

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

"Blackthorn," by Katharine Adams. [Macmillan.]

"White Leopard," by Inglis Fletcher. [Bobbs-Merrill.]

"Young Trajan," by Elizabeth C. Miller. [Doubleday-Doran.]

MYSTERY-ADVENTURE tales always are in demand by young readers of both sexes. When such an excellent one as Katharine Adams' "Blackthorn" comes to hand one cannot but consider it as an addition of note. Although this fascinating story has a historical background of Elizabethan England and is woven about the conflict between the great Irish chieftains and the queen its greatest interest for young readers will be in the story of the jolly 16 year old Irish heroine, Meredith, her adventures, and final reunion with the father she had believed long since dead.

There is good humor in the person of the uncouth horse boy, Chassy O'Dea, who is not so stupid as he looks and who emerges as the heroic rescuer of his beloved chief and his young mistress. Despite the fact that there are many coincidences which strain our sense of reality, and that the discovery and delivery of the captive chief by his faithful servitor seems a little too easily executed, the tale is an absorbingly interesting one, well told. While it is not by any means Katharine Adams' best book, it will without doubt be one of the most popular ones with girls of 'teen age group.

Another fine adventure story which will especially appeal to girls of this group is Elizabeth Miller's "Young Trajan." It is a story of Rumanian peasant life, presenting a realistic picture of the terrible living conditions of the people, of the burdens which were disintegrating the social and family life, and of a young enthusiast who arose from their midst to awaken the authorities to the impending catastrophe and win redress for his kinsmen. Frosina, a young peasant girl, also plays her part in the redemption of her people, and the romance between these two clear thinking and unselfish young leaders makes a happy culmination to the story. Girls who enjoyed Elizabeth Miller's very excellent story, "Pran of Albania," will find this one also much to their liking.

For the boy who likes vivid description, plenty of action, and a hero who takes his life in his hands daily in the doing of the duty he has undertaken, Inglis Fletcher's "White Leopard" will prove extremely good reading. It tells the story of young Stephen Murdoch, who goes out to represent the English government in a far away African province, and to pit his keenness of mind and resourcefulness against the treacherous scheming of the medicine men who work stealthily and incessantly to accomplish his undoing. The manner in which he outwits them in their own field of magic and miracles and wins the people in spite of them is told with a humorous touch which adds much to an exceptionally well written and intensely thrilling story of Africa and the white man who is both its conquered and conqueror.

Painter Also Writes of 42 Who Sat Before Him

"Drawn from Life," by S. J. Woolf [Whittlesby house] contains 42 sketches of famous men the world over, only a few of whom are dead.

The portraitist has selected the outstanding figures in music, literature, business, science, politics and painting. The author is a well known American painter. Besides the drawings there are short interpretative sketches of the posers.

Woolf says "there is no surerer way of getting to know a person than by drawing his picture." He adds that the artist has the man at an unfair advantage because the artist is busily working on his sketch and there is absolute silence in the room. "Nothing is so likely to make even a shy person talk as the quietness of a room in which someone else is working." Some of the conversations the painter has had with various famous men are very interesting reading.

"The Big Little Book"

It has helped thousands of disheartened men and women to take a new grip on life!

Let it help you

The man who wrote this book has been down to the bottom—and pulled himself up again. He was a failure—out of a job, in debt—before he discovered what was the matter with him, and set out to change it. Since then he has helped to set thousands on the road to success and happiness. In this book he tells how he has made others able to help themselves—and how you can help yourself. No bunk, no platitudes, no patent formulas—but a plan of life that works, as hundreds of letters from readers of the book prove. A small book—a small price—a value you can never measure. The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of the aged aunt he'd expected he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and before he leaves tells him so. Ricardo learns Web was right when Filomena receives a telegram from her home stating that her father is dead. He is furious and goes with Filomena to make sure she'll return to New York. They find that the telegram was a mistake and that Filomena's father is not dead, but seriously ill. They return to New York three days later.

INSTALLMENT XII.

WOUNDED VANITY.

Ricardo tried to plan a revenge that would fit the case exactly. It was difficult, since he had to admit that the deepest injury to his feelings lay in the fact that Web and the odious girl Eunice had both been so much more clever then he. They had been intelligent enough to see through this minx at a glance, while he, a fool to the end, had stoutly maintained her guilelessness to them. She had got away with murder.

Frances knew all about it. She had, of course, known from the beginning that he was being gulled. Filomena ought to be humiliated with Frances as a witness, with Frances to see her feeling as chagrined and utterly ashamed as he had been.

Late in the afternoon he went up to her room. He reminded himself that he must not forget their positions were now reversed. One had, of course, to feel angry and hurt and chagrined as he had the other night, to be ready to repay her in her own coin. The other evening he could have done almost anything. It was not quite so easy in cold blood.

"You could have been honest about it," said Ricardo.

"Hullo," she smiled up at him, coloring, as she did at times, a beautiful, delicate rose pink from her pointed chin up to the fringe of her burnished hair.

He stood looking down at her.

"Like some tea?"

"No, thanks. I want to—talk to you."

"O." Her color deepened. "I see. Well, here I am."

He turned and walked to the window and back. "You didn't try to run away," he remarked then.

"I'm more honest than you give me credit for," she replied.

"I don't intend to beat about the bush any longer. I've been thinking. How did you manage to take me in in the first place? And why?"

She carefully lit a fresh cigaret. "It just happened, that's all. You simply walked up to that wretched den where Fran and I were living, and I hadn't had a job in a month, and you told me I was your aunt."

"I didn't do any such thing. I told you you couldn't possibly be my aunt that first night. Why, I kept telling you——"

"Of course, you did want a little convincing. But a child could have done it. You wanted to believe I was your aunt as soon as you saw me."

He could not truthfully deny this. He remembered Filomena in her orange colored pajamas, and how he had kissed her for the first time in that tawdry studio with the half drunken crowd dancing all around them. He had not been completely sober himself, perhaps. But something had been different about life ever since that kiss.

"You've seen where I live, down on Cape Cod," said Filomena, breaking the silence. "You know what a deadly sort of place it is. I came to New York to study music, and they've hardly spoken to me since I left. I've been here now two years, and most of the time I've had to work. And I couldn't do much. Fran got me some jobs. She's been wonderful to me. We never had enough money even when we both worked. And when I didn't work, she helped, that's all. I suppose I must have thought that once I was here I'd get rich and be able to have all the things I'd never had at home."

"You could have been honest about it," said Ricardo, his voice hard again. "You could have sold yourself honestly. You took everything. You asked for everything. And you gave me——"

"But you were happy," she protested. "You know you were. We had a lot of good times before your pious friends came around."

"Only half way happy," he returned. "You must know that. You know I was crazy over you from the first minute. You know that's the only reason you could have made me quite such a fool. You did know it. You ought to know how hard it's been to have to—to keep my hands off you the whole time, to act as though——"

"You were my nephew," she finished.

"Didn't it ever occur to you," he asked, "that you were not only cheating me—cheating me two ways at once, too,—but you've been stealing at the same time what my real aunt should have had? You know, that side of it didn't come to me at first, either. But I thought of it last night. My real Aunt Filomena. What about her?"

"I suppose there is a real Aunt Filomena somewhere," she admitted, "but I'd never thought of it. It seems funny there should be somebody else in New York with the same name as mine."

"It was a surprise to me," he returned, "to find you weren't actually Molly O'Brien or Sally Jones. When I realized you'd lied in the first place——"

"Dicky, I didn't lie in the first place. You came and said you were looking for Filomena Stanley, and I was Filomena Stanley. I still am, for that matter. It was only after I realized you wanted to spend money on me—that next day, you know, when we talked. I thought first it was just a lark."

"I suppose you haven't got a weak heart, either? Here I've lain awake nights worrying about your heart, because you told me——"

"Well, I may have exaggerated a little, I'm afraid. But you led me on."

"You certainly got away with it very neatly," he said bitterly. "Yes, old girl, I was the boob from the western plains, wasn't I? I fell good and hard. You must have enjoyed that. But as I'm on to the racket now——"

"Well, don't I know it?" she demanded. "Must you go on talking about it. You're as fond of your own voice as a radio announcer."

"Now I've got to begin all over again and find Aunt Filomena," he said gloomily. "I'm right where I was when I got here three months ago."

"O, you're not right where you were! You've had a good time and you've seen a lot of things in New York. You know we've had a lot of fun. Why, if you'd hired me for a guide to see the bright lights and things——"

"Fun! Well, of course if fun is all you're going to get out of life——"

"You talk like Aunt Kay. Well, go ahead and be earnest about life for a while. Go find your old aunt. I don't know why you can't dig up another Filomena Stanley if you try hard enough. But you want to make sure of her this time. Make her show you her birthmark——"

She was laughing at him again. He turned toward her savagely. "You'll not find it so damned funny before you're through," he threatened. "You know I've got past the stage where you wind me round your finger."

She looked meek. "I know. I wouldn't try to—to cheat. Not again."

He was suspicious. She sounded almost too subservient. "I've got to find my aunt, you see," he explained. "I just wondered if you'd thought about her side of it. Suppose she's poor. She's old, probably, and can't get something for nothing as easily as—some people do. I've got to hurry up about it, if I'm going to be home for Christmas."

"That's three weeks from Thursday," remarked Filomena thoughtfully. The telephoned shrilled.

"Answer it, darling boy," she urged, just as she would have done a week or so ago.

He glowered at her.

"Suppose you answer it," he suggested, not two sweetly.

"Lazy." She strolled toward the instrument.

She turned a sweet smile toward Ricardo. "Fran and Pendleton and Emily are coming for tea," she announced.

Ricardo now scowled as well as glowered. "They downstairs?"

"Yes, they'll be right up."

He could so easily have answered that telephone himself and sent them away. The loathesome Pendleton and the horrible Emily and the utterly odious Frances.

"Come back here a minute," he commanded, feeling a thrill of power as she stopped in her search and obeyed him. A week ago she would not have done that.

"Come here," he repeated, as she drew nearer and paused. He reached out a hand and drew her to him, half resisting.

"I'm going out," he said. "You can have your tea party. I don't want to listen to those fools chattering." He pulled her to his knee with a thrill of something more potent than mere supremacy. She half struggled as he kissed her, a kiss with nothing at all nephewlike about it. It left her breathless.

"O, but Ricardo," she gasped, and he stopped her mouth again.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

We will, after a fashion, make Chinese holiday in the column this a. m. Because both pictures under discussion concern themselves with the doings of Chinese.

"The Hatchet Man" would have been better silent than in sound. The story, though rather ten twent' thirt', holds the interest. Sets, costumes, scenery, and photography gratify the eye—but the dialogue as delivered by whites made up as orientals is banal and falls flat. Of course, Edward Robinson as "the hatchet man," Loretta Young as his pretty wife, and Leslie Fenton as the gigolo who breaks up his home are supposed to be Americanized Chinese. Silent, they might have gone over. Talking—NO! Especially trying are Edmund Breese as a Chinaman of the old school, high in tong circles, and Tully Marshall as a Chinese fortune teller. These two work so hard on their lines that you long to pitch in and pull an oar for them.

A "hatchet man" is the son of innumerable hatchet men before him and, like his forbears, is supposed to have been called by Buddha to slice off heads of honorable enemies with hatchets. Wong Low Set is a believer in his august destiny until it falls to his lot to decapitate one who has been like a brother. He does the job, but determines that it shall be his last. He inherits his victim's flourishing silk business and, by express request of the decapitated, who realized that his beloved executioner's own hand was innocent, marries Toya, the deceased's fair daughter.

Soon after that his troubles start. The story builds up rather nicely and the finale is a cunningly conceived, gruesome—and pleasing—surprise.

Leslie Fenton does the most believable acting in the picture. Loretta Young is just Loretta Young with the corners of her eyes turned up. Edward Robinson acts his rôle tolerantly, good naturedly, but without an ounce of real feeling or, I thought, interest in the characterization.

When he enters a scene an orchestra plays "Poor Butterfly." Don't ask why, because I don't know.

"CHARLIE CHAN'S CHANCE."

Produced by Fox.
Directed by John Blystone.
Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST.

Charlie Chan	Warner Oland
John Douglas	Alexander Kirkland
Inspector Fife	H. B. Warner
Shirley Marlowe	Marian Nixon
Barry Kirk	Ralph Morgan
Inspector Flannery	James Kirkwood
Gloria Garland	Linda Watkins
Kenneth Dunwood	James Todd
Paradies	Charles McNaughton
Garrick Enderly	Herbert Bunston
Li Gung	Edward Peil Sr.
Kee Lin	Jimmy Wang

Again Mr. Warner Oland dons the sphinx face and astuteness of Earl Derr Biggers' famous Chinese detective from Honolulu. This time he comes to the aid of the New York police force AND Scotland Yard!

The trick is to discover who murdered a certain Scotland Yard official, who has been in New York working on a case.

Clew by clew, Charlie Chan stalks the elusive prey and, of course, at last penetrates the fog of mystery surrounding the passing on of one of the prides and joys of the organized London police.

Personally I'm fond of Charlie Chan and always get a thrill out of watching his wiry brain and thick fingers untangle matted skeins. In this movie I thought him especially clever.

Though the story seems a bit complicated, and to have appropriated considerable stuff from "Behind That Curtain," it keeps you guessing and you're better at the Button, Button game than I if you suspect the real culprit before author and director want you to.

Mr. Oland gives a masterly characterization of Chan, who, as he labors, delivers himself of gems of purest wisdom. Thus:

"Man is not incurably drowned if he knows he is all wet." Etc.

He has a fine supporting cast—with lovely little Marian Nixon tearing at your hearts as the maiden in distress.

APOLLO CLUB

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THE Apollo Musical club, appearing at Orchestra hall last night under the auspices of the Lutheran Woman's league, divided its program into two parts. The first consisted of songs by the chorus and solos by the eminent violinist, Richard Czerwonky. The second was a performance of Rossini's "Stabat Mater."

The choruses of the first part were Wesley's anthem, "When Israel Came Out of Egypt," and Deems Taylor's "The Chambered Nautilus." Mr. Czerwonky played Handel's Sonata in D and a group of shorter works, including his own Valse Lente, and was highly successful because of his excellent tone and brilliant performance.

In the second part approval ran still higher. The chorus displayed its best form and training under the baton of Edgar Nelson. There were solos of the highest excellence by Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano, and Margaret Gent, contralto. Watt Webber, tenor, sang the "Cujus Animam" and did something that many other tenors have failed to do, which was to take a high D flat at full voice freely and with first class tone. Edward Davies, basso, was heard in a highly intelligent and musical performance of the "Pro Peccatis." The instrumental score was played by Lester Groom and Stanley Martin at two pianos and Robert Birch at the organ.

That startling Spanish dancer, Vicente Escudero, and his two brilliant associates, Carmita and Carmela, appeared again at the Studebaker last night. With but little change of program, it was still something to marvel over. Escudero's brisk but unhurried litheness, his ability to be on the right spot at the right instant is a constant source of joy. He can be more accurate with less apparent trouble than almost any one within memory. And some one ought to translate the dialogue exchanged between the dancers' castanets. Speaking rhythms, they almost speak words. They were extraordinarily popular, and the demand for repetitions of dances made the program considerably longer than it would otherwise have been.

Railway Business Women Meet at Medinah Today

The Railway Business Women's Association of Chicago, composed of women in the transportation field, celebrates its sixth birthday with a dinner dance today at the Medinah Athletic club. Mr. Robert V. Fletcher, vice president and general counsel, Illinois Central system, will speak. Miss Grace Tugwell of the Chicago and North Western railway has arranged the program, which includes vocal numbers by the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited quartet. Members of the Railway Business Woman's Association of the Twin Cities, Cincinnati and Cleveland are expected to attend. The annual bowling tournament will be held on Sunday, Feb. 7, 11 a. m., at Mussey's bowling alleys.

Pupils at Sunday Schools Will Help the Hungry Students

When Chicago's thousands of Sunday school children go to their church for religious instruction tomorrow morning they will bring nickels, dimes and other coins to add to the Hungry School Children's fund.

Last week the Chicago Council of Religious Education issued an appeal for this coöperation. Already some of the Sunday schools have made substantial returns to the fund, although the date set for the offering had been for tomorrow. Had it not been for the action of the council of religious education the fund would have been exhausted some time this month.

While the fund looked forward to the generosity of Sunday school children, contributions were rushed in by TRIBUNE readers yesterday. These are acknowledged as follows:

$35—Bertha T. Beathy, Mrs. Edgar Stanton.
$10—Edward E. Shinnick, Louise Landesco.
$5—Mrs. T. R. Llewellyn, N. Willett, Mrs. T. W. Heermans, Sara Barlow, Anonymous, J. Heller.
$4—Girls of the Sophomore class, First Methodist Episcopal church, Oak Park.
$3—Mrs. Willis H. Hutson, Addie Treichel.
50 cents—Anonymous.

Total	$ 149.13
Previous acknowledged	34,892.27
Grand total	$35,041.40

Mrs. Sabin Hits at Talk About South.

Local headquarters of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform have been requested by Mrs. Charles Sabin of New York, founder and president of the group, to issue her challenge to the dry forces in reply to a charge she declares has been made repeatedly by the proponents of the eighteenth amendment. The charge made was:

"Exposure of the fact that there is enough of a wet slush fund to permit the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform to offer one woman a quarter of a million dollars for the work of undermining the constitution in a single southern state."

Mrs. Sabin in her retort says:

"I must ask, in the spirit of fair play, that the person who wrote this statement be good enough to answer these questions: Who is the woman who was offered a quarter of a million dollars by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform? What single southern state does she refer to? Who was her informant?

"The statement is both untrue and unfair. It is difficult to understand how women who claim to be supporting the cause of temperance can continually make such intemperate statements. I must insist that the writer either substantiate her statements or retract them."

Miss Hoge is a senior at Northwestern university and a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Sadtler is a graduate of Susquehanna university, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and has done post-graduate work at Vanderbilt and the University of Pennsylvania. They will reside in Washington, D. C.

Cooks of Ponti Work in Big Way for Festival

PONTI, Italy, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Ten portly, white clad cooks fried 1,200 eggs and mixed 1,100 pounds of cornmeal in the principal plaza of Ponti today for the annual public feast.

Festive crowds surrounded the platform where the steaming "polntone" was being made of the meal and other ingredients and partook at public expense of the region's typical wine from barrels set up in the park.

Ruling by Pope Makes Stricter Wedding Rules

Children's Religious Training Crux of Policy.

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A tightened restriction on mixed marriages was announced by the Vatican today in the form of a ruling that all children of such unions must actually be reared within the church.

The penalty of annulment and illegality in the eyes of the church was provided in the drastic measure, which was handed down by the congregation of the sacred office and approved by the pope.

The decision amounted to a withdrawal of dispensation from a marriage between a Catholic and a person of other faith when the parties involved violate their promise to bring up their children as Catholics.

Vatican City authorities announced later that the new ruling, which is a decree, does not affect marriages already contracted, but will apply to all mixed marriages henceforth. The widest publication has been given the ruling to serve as a warning, officials said, adding that excommunication from the church "could result in some cases of violation."

The ruling of the sacred congregation was inspired by a belief that parties to mixed marriages often have disregarded promises to the church that children would be reared within it.

It was decided, therefore, that henceforth those who obtaine the dispensation of the church must take their promises seriously.

The plea that civil laws of certain countries prevent the proper Catholic education of children will no longer be accepted as valid. The congregation decided that parties to a mixed marriage who have violated the church law as to rearing of children must refrain from going to countries where they would be unable to keep their pledge to the church.

The text of the decree said the step was taken to "conform with the encyclical casti connubi." In that encyclical the pope dealt with laxity in mixed marriages. The decree also was quoted as applying to "Catholics and non-Catholics, baptized and unbaptized."

Vatican officials explained that the status of a marriage after dispensation has been withdrawn hinges on the state of mind of the parties when matrimony was contracted.

If, after their promise is violated, it is proved that they made it without serious intention of fulfillment, it was explained, then the church will consider the marriage nonexistent and they will be eligible to marry again.

If they made the promise seriously and violation resulted from a later determination, it was added, then while the dispensation will be withdrawn the church will consider that the marriage was sincerely contracted, they will have no right to marry again.

In cases where the promise is violated and dispensation is withdrawn, it was said, the Catholic member of the union will be considered guilty of a grave sin and will not be entitled to participate thereafter in church activities.

Hence he will not be eligible for a church funeral unless he first declares his repentance and does everything possible to make the children Catholics. In some cases where notoriety is involved or circumstances attending the violation cause a scandal punishment might take the form of public excommunication, according to the ruling.

Chase House Auxiliary Will Meet on Feb. 11

The regular monthly meeting of Chase House auxiliary will be held at Chase house, 215 South Ashland boulevard, on Thursday, Feb. 11, at 11 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 and at 2 o'clock the annual meeting and election of officers for the coming year will take place, followed by a silver tea for all members and friends of Chase house. Bishop George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago and president of the board of Chase house, will preside at the afternoon meeting.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Through a typographical error, the Swastika Players of the Lilah Older Bell studios were not credited with a donation of $50 to the Hungry School Children's fund which they raised on Jan. 16 by a performance of Mrs. Bell's play, "The Man in the Iron Collar," at Kimball hall. In yesterday's edition it was made to appear that the gift came from E. A. Lancaster. Mr. Lancaster contributed a separate $50 check.

Red Feathers Feature Long Coat of Gray

That Touch Is Part of Parisian Secret.

Tones of the same color are very popular at this house. Cardinal red, deep Burgundy, and pink are prominent, as well as combinations of pink and Burgundy.

A new composition resembling paper is used by Schiaparelli for woven belts. Other accessories are double necklaces of large wood beads rimmed with metal, and crinkly ribbon scarfs for sports and evening wear.

Prints appear in numbers—printed crêpe for evening dresses and crêpe fashioned into a tie for dresses of other materials.

Metal fasteners in gold and silver are sponsored by Schiaparelli, some in triangular shapes. Angles are also featured in the pointed shawl capes, worn in evening and afternoon.

Linen has a place among the dresses, in white and in colors. Linen pajamas are in vogue, and also linen blouses.

Blouses with long sleeves are made also of wool crêpe, pin striped crêpe, and crêpesse. Beige wool coat suits are displayed, but Schiaparelli is replacing woolen dresses with marocain and crêpesse models.

For daytime and sports wear tweeds are stressed, as well as jersey and materials in loose open weaves. Many wool suits are being shown, with semi-fitted jackets.

U. OF C. SERVICE FOR ROSENWALD TO BE TOMORROW

Memorial services will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow for Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and merchant, in the University of Chicago chapel at Woodlawn avenue and 59th street.

President Robert M. Hutchins will read one of Mr. Rosenwald's favorite hymns and Kipling's poem "If." The Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University chapel, will deliver the address. A special program composed of elements of Christian and Jewish music and liturgy will be presented.

The service is one of two such services which are to be held. This is in accordance with the wish of the Rosenwald family. The memorial tomorrow is in recognition of Mr. Rosenwald's civic and social interests. The other service, to be arranged by the Chicago Association of Comerce, will commemorate his commercial achievements. Mr. Rosenwald was deeply interested in the university. He served as a trustee since 1912. His gifts to the institution exceeded $4,600,000.

France Will Take Part in Washington Celebration

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The French government will join with private organizations in observing Washington's second centenary this year, it was announced today. Particular importance will be given to the manifestation now being prepared by the University of Paris and the Comite France-Amerique, which will take place in the Sorbonne amphitheater on Feb. 21. President Doumer and Premier Laval have accepted invitations to take part in the program honoring the memory of Washington and celebrate the friendly relations he maintained with France.

Every Third Man Is Willing to Lend a Hand with the Dishes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A discovery was made recently by certain department store investigators which may or may not affect the after dinner serenity of some of our husbands. It was found in the 20,000 homes investigated that a little more than 39 per cent of the husbands aren't above giving the little wife a hand with the dishes.

Certain wives, it is rumored, are using the discovery as a reproach to those certain husbands brought up in the belief that their is the inalienable right to read while the good wife wipes.

All wives are not affected by the news. Some of the women are just as set in their belief as are the men that washing dishes is no job for the lord of the manor. Some we know, in fact, express themselves as unwilling to give house room to a man who'd be caught with a dish towel in his hand. And in some homes the picture of a wife reproaching her husband tearfully for his failure to share her household burdens would be nothing short of ludicrous. We refer, of course, to the wife with light household duties and with all day in which do do them.

However, we do think that there is a group of wives who might be fully privileged to call the male half of the partnership out and present him with a dish towel. With a floor mop, too, for Saturday afternoon or Sunday cooperation. We refer to the woman who is an earner, of necessity, which, it may be added, a very high percentage of our wage earning wives are.

Statistics prove beyond shadow of doubt that the great majority of women work outside of the home not for pin money but from pure economic pressure. This means for the working woman that in working outside the home she is helping the husband in what heretofore has been assumed to be his rôle. So, turn about is only fair play. We speak of dishwashing, but it is only one feature of household labor that could be lightened with four hands.

The great barrier to congeniality of arrangement in so many of the working wife cases is the extra heavy burden put on the woman. She becomes a two job woman. The husband remains a one job person, the partnership, in turn, assuming anything but the perfect fifty-fifty arrangement.

Community Child Care.

"Some Aspects of Community Care for Troublesome Children" will be discussed by Harrison Dobbs, associate professor of social economy at the University of Chicago, at the monthly meeting of the Central Council of Childhood Education at 11 o'clock this morning in the Eleanor clubrooms at 16 North Wabash avenue. Teachers in Chicago and vicinity have been invited to attend the meeting.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Questionable Friends.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl whose only fault is her bad companionship. Would a change in environment make her forget her old friends?

"MORRIS."

Inspire the girl with her superior worthiness and wean her away from such friends.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A decade or so ago the modern child movement had little use for parents except as necessary evils for the production of what is needed—children. The new schools and many psychologists felt that if parents would only turn over their offspring to them, keep in the background and drop all responsibility in the matter, all would be well!

But it wasn't. The school could do many things for the child's good, and did, but it eventually came to the realization that its work could be nullified and the child undone if the parents had not oriented themselves to the child.

The swing of the pendulum is now the other way. The home is recognized as the core of the child's life and if that is not sound and sweet all the work of the most progressive nursery school, the kindergarten and the grade school can be greatly impeded, if not gone for naught. Most mothers in their hearts always felt the truth of this even if they could not be articulate about it or think up telling arguments. Now it must be a special satisfaction to them to have their own feeling vindicated.

Of course, this does not belittle in any way the really remarkable work that the nursery schools do, the adjusting and the developing and the enriching that they can do for the children. But they can only supplement, not supplant. And if at home the child's intrinsic needs are not understood, the best school in the world cannot make up to him for what he does not get.

It is well that the recognition of the centering of the child in the home has come, for it has put the burden of the child's growth in all its phases, physical, spiritual and moral, back on the father and mother. And this burden has been also their reward.

Journalistic Sorority.

Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary professional journalistic sorority, will give a tea for Miss Mildred Whitcomb, national president, tomorrow afternoon at the Chicago chapter house at 50 East Cedar street.

Avoid These Foods If You'd Get Rid of Your Excess Pounds

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Could you give me a brief list of the foods to avoid and the foods one may eat on a weight losing program?" Mrs. F. asks.

The following foods are the ones to avoid:

Rich salad dressing, such as mayonnaise, Russian, cream, etc.; rich cakes, rich pies; rich gravies; fat fish, such as salmon, shad, herring, mackerel; fat meats, such as pork, duck or goose. Chocolate milk shakes and drinks are to avoided. So are marmalades, nuts, cream, fried foods, cream soups and gravies.

Too much bread and butter should be avoided.

You can eat:

Cottage cheese prepared from skim milk.

Eggs prepared in any way except fried.

Drinks: Buttermilk, skim milk, orange juice, lemonade, tea and black coffee or half milk and coffee.

Fish: Cod, flounder, haddock, clams and lobster (without rich dressing).

Of meats you may eat: Beef, lean (boiled, broiled or roasted), chicken, turkey, lamb, hamburg steak, lean ham, lean bacon.

Of potatoes you should eat sparingly.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A. O.: ANEMIA, OF COURSE, would retard development. I think you could help yourself a great deal if you would go in for outdoor sports such as skating or hiking, and also it might be well to join up with a good gym.

Society Turns to Marriage in East Today

Potter Palmer III. Will Marry Rose Movius.

THERE is plenty going on socially in town today and tomorrow to keep the most blasé person interested and amused, but Chicago society feels a bit cheated, nevertheless, because it cannot attend en masse the wedding of Potter Palmer III., which is taking place today in Boston, or rather just outside Boston in its most fashionable suburb, Chestnut Hill.

Chicagoans missed the marriage of the former Bertha Palmer and Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, which took place in Bar Harbor, Me., last summer, and so it is doubly sorry not to be present at the marriage of young Potter Palmer and the charming and aristocratic young Bostonian, Miss Rose Saltonstall Movius, who is to become his bride today at 12:30 o'clock at the First Unitarian church. The service will be read by the Rev. Dr. William G. Thayer, former head master of St. Mark's school, Southborough, assisted by the Rev. Dan Huntington Fenn. The bridegroom and the bride's brother, George, both attended St. Mark's, and Gordon Palmer, who is to serve as his brother's best man, is a student there now. A reception will be held at 1 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Richard Middlecott Saltonstall. Miss Movius, who is the daughter of Mrs. Alice L. West Movius and Hallam L. Movius, both of Boston, will have her cousin, Miss Dorothy West, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Oakleigh T. Lewis, Miss Agnes Boardman, Miss Dorothea Frothingham, Miss Margaret Leland, Miss Nany Olney, Miss Laetitia Orlandini, Mrs. Evelyn Royce, and Miss Edith Wolcott, all of Boston. Ushering will be Hallam L. Movius Jr. and George West Movius, the bride's brothers; Oakleigh T. Lewis, Roger Shepard of St. Louis, Mr. Palmer's cousin, Charles Francis Adams Jr. of Boston; A. Holmes Crimmins, Amos Eno Desmond Fitzgerald, and Peter M. Whitman, all of New York. The bridegroom is giving up his studies at Harvard, we understand, and, although we have not heard the destination of the wedding trip, we were told that it would be autumn before the bride and groom would reach Chicago.

Among the Chicagoans in Boston for the wedding, in addition to those in the bridal party, are the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer; his youngest sister, Pauline; his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Honoré Palmer; Mrs. Barrett Wendell and Miss Barbara Wendell, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Shepard of St. Paul also are there, Mrs. Shepard being a sister of Mrs. Palmer.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank Gives Debutante Supper.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank is giving what promises to be one of the most original and entertaining parties of the winter for the debutante set tonight—a buffet supper at her residence, 1244 North State street, followed by a roller skating party at a rink on the north side.

The party is for Mrs. Fairbank's niece, Miss Janet Ayer, and there will be about 40 guests, debutantes of the winter and their beaux. We heard early in the winter that the "young marrieds" were keen on roller skating and often got up parties to go to one of the rinks, but we had a start the other night about 10 o'clock when we saw a large party of young people on roller skates skating in the streets of Oak Park, apparently having a grand time and perfectly oblivious to the dangers which beset them constantly.

The largest affair tomorrow, and one of the most interesting of the winter, will be the lecture that Winston Churchill will give at Orchestra hall at 3 o'clock. It would be easier to say who will not be there than who will, for the list of ticket holders reads like a list of "Who's Who in Chicago." The subject of the lecture, the last of the Town Hall series, will be "The Pathway of the English Speaking Peoples."

Mr. Churchill will be the house guest of Col. and Mrs. Robert R. McCormick during his day stay; they are not planning much in the way of entertainment, except a small dinner tonight, for Mr. Churchill still is feeling the shock and bad effects of the accident he suffered in New York when he first landed in December. The dinner will be at the McCormicks' town house at 1519 Astor street instead of at their country house in Wheaton as first planned.

Tomorrow night the Arts club will have one of its most pretentious parties of the season, a supper, followed by a dance recital by Vicente Escudero. There are as many reservations as can be taken for a club affair and it is entirely safe to predict that it will be one of the outstanding social-artistic successes of the season.

Renaissance Society Gives Party Tomorrow.

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago also will have one of its most important affairs of the winter tomorrow night, when a special program will be given in Ida Noyes hall to celebrate the opening of the fifth annual exhibition of modern French painting. A buffet supper will be served at 7 o'clock and the program will begin at 8:30 o'clock in the library. Harry A. Bigelow, dean of the law school, will tell of his recent trip to Africa, and Moduke Paris will give a group of native tribal songs.

Excerpts from "Jack and the Beanstalk," by John Erskine and Louis Gruenberg, which had its world premier in the New York Juilliard Musical Foundation recently, and which has been the subject of much press comment in the New York newspapers and magazines, will be given this afternoon at an open meeting of the American Opera society at 3 o'clock at the Fortnightly. Members of the Chicago Philharmonic Singers and Willard Rhodes, narrator-pianist, will give the program. Miss Emily Larned is president of the society and the other officers are Mrs. Rockefeller-McCormick, Mrs. John H. Coulter, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, Mrs. Harold E. Leopold, and Mrs. Walter J. Jarratt.

The Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will have a half-priced sale next Tuesday from 10 to 5 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Meta Dewes Burgweger, 232 East Walton place. Mrs. Knowlton L. Ames, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. William Drake, Mrs. Henry Murphy and Mrs. Paul Juergens Jr., will be among those who will assist in selling.

The Association of Arts and Industries and the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects are combining to give a dinner next Tuesday in the Administration building, Century of Progress, at which Alfred Granger will give an illustrated talk on "The Housing Problem in Vienna."

Miss Mary Glenn and her mother, Mrs. John M. Glenn, were to sail from New York last night for a South American cruise of two months on the Carinthia.

John J. Borland, who is attending Harvard, spent last week-end with his mother, Mrs. John J. Borland, in New York. Mrs. Borland is expected to return early next week.

Mrs. Edward Hasler and Daughter Going West.

Friends of Mrs. Howard Gillette who've been unable to reach her on the telephone this week can locate her now at the Passavant hospital, where she's getting along nicely after a rush operation for appendicitis.

Miss Paula Uihlein, who left last week for her father's ranch in Wyoming, will return on the 22d to serve as a bridesmaid at the wedding in Milwaukee of her cousin, Miss Eleanor Trostel, to Frederick E. Weicker.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was the guest of honor this afternoon at the cavalry drill at Fort Myer. She had as guests Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Munn, Mrs. Hallowell and her gandchildren, the Misses Brooks, and Col. Hodges, military aid to the president.

Former Gov. James P. Goodrich of Indiana and Mrs. Goodrich, who have been guests at the White House since Tuesday afternoon, left today to return home. They came for the dinner to the speaker given by President and Mrs. Hoover, Tuesday night.

Vice President Curtis was entertained at dinner tonight by the secretary of the navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams.

Women Recall Early Days of Athletic Club

When Project Started in September, 1898.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

THIRTY-FOUR years ago Paulina Harlette Lyon invited a thousand Chicago society women to a meeting at the Auditorium. Thirteen came to hear her explain an idea for "a handsome club where the gentle sex might devote itself to the preserving art of physical culture."

More than one of the city's fashionable leaders who took advantage of the "open house" at the Woman's Athletic club yesterday afternoon was reminded of the importance of that event and the generous gifts of several prominent Chicagoans—two factors that made possible the founding of the club Sept. 13, 1898. And as the guests turned explorers through the quarters at Ontario street and Michigan avenue, they gayly compared the modern appointments with the cane bottomed chairs, the great mahogany davenports, and the Flemish oak trimmings that lent luxury to the earlier home at the other end of the boulevard.

For the benefit of recent members and those of long standing who have never seen the "inner workings" of the kitchens, or the layout of the "personal service" floor and the small parlors, the board of directors has voted to have an "at home" every Friday afternoon for a period of several weeks. Yesterday was the first, and Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, this year's president, has already voted it an excellent idea.

Original Idea Largely Modified.

With all of the stress laid on "physical culture" in that original idea, comparatively little time is devoted to athletics as such by this select group of women, who represent in most instances the second and third generations of prominent Chicago families. Instead they have established the club as a rendezvous for social intercourse, luxurious ease, and an occasional dip in the beautiful swimming pool on the lower floor.

"The pool and this gymnasium are really the two excuses for our name," commented Mrs. Dudley yesterday as she personally escorted a group through the big room equipped with a rowing machine and several more devices guaranteed to remove an extra pound or two. "But I must admit few of us take our gymnastics very seriously."

In fact three years ago on the eve of the club's removal from the Harvester building to the near north side, a group of the younger members who believed that "athletic" should only be applied to the strenuous program of sports offered in the modern college curriculum, drew up a petition for a change of name. To the delight of the older members, however, the proposition was voted down by a generous majority. Indeed, it would have been sad for the club to give up its name since it boasted a pool and a "gym" in the days when they were distinctions and furthermore because the club when organized in 1898 was the only athletic club for women on this continent or on any other continent for that matter.

Personal Service Big Feature.

A trip through the "personal service" rooms gives plenty of evidence that the members today depend more on Turkish baths and massages than on calisthenics to "keep fit." This department, said to be the first in town, and it must be, contributes as much as any feature to the reputation of the club. There is everything your heart could desire from a complete cosmetic shop to the last word in equipment for manicures, shampoos, and permanent waves. For the patron who desires lunch before finishing her treatment, there is the little "chanticleer" dining room to which she may retire for a sandwich or a lemonade.

All of these modern appointments are in such interesting contrast to the "hairdressing parlor" that was one of THE features of the club's former home. The news columns 25 years ago said of it, "There are two stands at which the members may have their hair washed. The stands are of special design made of marble, the front being rounded so that the neck and head fits well and comfortably. This enables the head to be thrown back instead of the neck-breaking, nerve-racking old fashioned manner of throwing the head forward, thereby allowing the water to trickle merrily down the back and into the eyes, to say nothing of the numerous other unpleasantries. In this way the hair falls naturally into the bowl high above which is the shower tube."

Next to the "personal service" floor there's nothing in the present club more interesting than the kitchens where the famous cocoanut cake is made. In fact no dish comes out of this immaculate "cuisine" that would not delight the most fastidious epicure.

"One of our cooks does nothing but make cocoanut cakes, four a day 365 days in the year," commented Mrs. Dudley, "and she's done it for at least ten years. One of the best parts of the cake is the fresh cocoanut. Every bit of it is shredded right here in the club kitchen."

Home Made Bread Pride of the Club.

Another pride of the club is the "home made" bread turned out of the big ovens every day. Then there are the chicken croquettes with mushroom sauce and a special dessert three stories high with cake, ice cream, and a luscious butterscotch sauce to top it off.

The kitchen and the adjoining pantries provide daily service for 200 guests and on special occasions there are linen, silver, and dishes for 200 additional guests. All of the china and linen for the main dining room was carefully chosen to match the peach and green decorations of the dining room. For small private parties the stunning silver dining room on the fourth floor, the only modernistic room in the club, is used.

On the club's directorate this year with Mrs. Dudley are Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. William C. Pullman, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, Mrs. Frank P. Graves, Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Harry B. Clow, Mrs. Joseph S. Watkins, Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. William F. Petersen and Mrs. George L. Cragg.

Bright Display of Paintings at the Arts Club

Color and Vivid Work Mark the Show.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club opened yesterday two exhibitions both interesting and charming. Maurice Sterne has been seen here before and always with pleasure. These drawings and paintings at the Arts club now are sufficient proof of the progress he has made and is continuing to make in his craft. Given just the little pencil sketch of "Girl Seated with Flower" and you have before you material enough for an hour's rhapsody, so pliant and flexible is that young form under its sheltering cloak. This is the epitome of drawing.

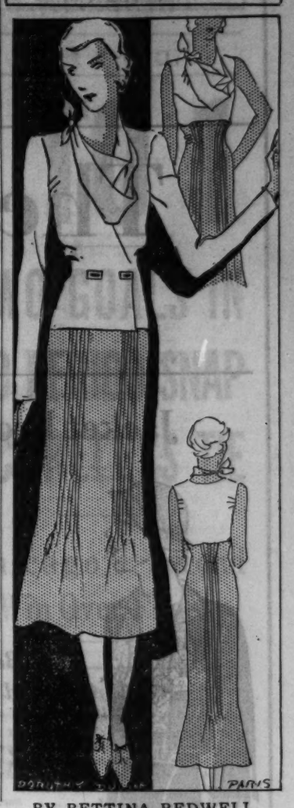
But it is not merely upon the merits of his drawing that Maurice Sterne wins you. His use of color is magnificent and intelligent. His work is fresh, very alive and vivid. There is a radiant still life arrangement of pears and grapes and succulent crimson plums in a bowl of blue and white that is fascinating. Other paintings of fruit fade before it. In imagination you may conjure up countless modernists, French and otherwise, and not one has accomplished with as simple material as sound and glittering an effect.

The Bali paintings and drawings of Mr. Sterne are curious and pungent. Again and again his drawing gives life to these figures. "Benares" is a slice of native life, a pageantry, a crowded moment that as you examine it grows the more intriguing. Mr. Sterne's exhibit is a magic gateway through which to enter the romantic Renoir-like exhibit of Georges D'Espagnat in the further gallery of the Arts club. It is of Renoir again and again that you think as your eye travels slowly over the walls hung with landscapes and figure pieces and still life by D'Espagnat. "Baigneuses" is perhaps the most Renoirish and the least effective canvas.

Two really brilliant still life paintings of fruits and flowers catch your attention and hold it. They are large canvases filled with beauty; a glow of reds predominates. Very lovely is the landscape "Orrouy, Oise, hiver" and the scene in "Rentrée des Pecheurs, le Lavandon," fishermen pulling up a fishing smack through water of gleaming blue, is picturesque and gleaming. Renoir steps out of the scene in all of these. Another charming canvas is the "Cheval de Bois," two little children in a wood playing with a toy horse. "Le Parc Monceau" is gay. The Renoir influence is by no means a drawback to the loveliness of M. D'Espagnat's painting.

The Chicago Alumni Association of Indiana university will observe a special day at the Hoosier salon today with a luncheon in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field's at 12:30 p. m. followed by a tour of the galleries. Mr. Walter J. Matthews is president of the association.

SIMPLICITY



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The suit illustrated today, girls, is the most popular suit that came out of the Paris midseason fashion shows. It's what is known in buyers' parlance as a "runner" and you are going to see copies of it around in conspicuous places when springtime comes.

When Madame Schiaparelli created this suit she thought she was merely making a neat little garment that would be suitable to wear under a fur coat, and that could appear in Palm Beach without said coat. Schiaparelli thinks that way when she makes clothes—in terms of how useful they can be to women. However, the hard boiled professional buyers leaped upon it and made it their own in hundreds of different copies, so it's famous without losing its creator's original purpose of usefulness to smart women.

In making this suit Schiaparelli recreated the high topped skirt she made several years ago—the skirt with an almost empire line, as you can see in the small sketch at the top. This skirt is made of brown jersey, which looks just like rough tweed, and it is tucked in clusters from its extra high waistline to the knees at the two sides of the front and down the center back. The release of these tucks makes a ruffle effect at the hem.

The collarless jacket is made of orangy-red cashmere and fastened with two rectangular clips instead of buttons.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

Perhaps my acquaintance is too limited, but I know no one who does not prefer a ten dollar bill to a fifty cent piece. Yet twenty fifty cent pieces are quite as nice as one ten dollar bill. And then, too, they have a pleasant jingle.

Few people have much trouble figuring out these perplexing problems when it comes to financial affairs. However, in a game of cards it is a peculiar thing that the same type of reasoning is not used. We admit, for instance, that a major suit is, on the whole, preferable to a minor, but five of a minor make game just as well as five of a major and, once the bid gets as high as five, it certainly makes no difference what suit be played, provided we have an equally good holding in both. Again, with a partial score of, let us say, 60, it is certainly as good to play two diamonds as two spades. Either one gives us the game.

Yesterday's play-a-problem can undoubtedly explain this better than I can. This was the hand:

NORTH
♠—10,9,8,6
♥—K,5,4,3
♦—J,7,6,5
♣—2

WEST
♠—4,3
♥—J,10,9,8,7,6
♦—4

EAST
♠—5,2
♣—K,Q,J,10,9,8,7

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A,K,Q,J,7
♥—Q,2
♦—K,Q,10,9,8
♣—A

South dealt and opened with an Official forcing bid of three, bidding three spades. West passed. North responded with four spades. And East put in a defensive bid of five clubs. East's hand was practically worthless for defense and yet would probably not be set more than one or two at five clubs. Moreover, it had a hundred honors to compensate this bid. South now overcalled with five diamonds. West passed and North passed. East passed.

Now, many Norths, having four cards in both spades and diamonds, even though the diamond holding is slightly better than the spade holding, the J being better than the 10-9, would have switched back to the major suit on the basis that their holding is practically the same in each and that majors are better than minors. Unless North had a slam in mind, and North certainly should not with his holding, there is no possible reason for him to switch back to spades. No reason—unless you call pernicious habit reason.

West opened the ♣ 3, dummy played the 2, East the 7, and South the A. Dealer then led the ♦ K, which East captured with the A, leading back the ♠ 5, which declarer took with the J. Declarer then took in the ♦ Q and followed by leading the ♦ 10 to dummy's J, clearing the trump suit. Dummy led the ♥ 3, which East took with the A. East led back the ♣ K, which dummy trumped with the ♦ 7, South discarding the ♠ 7. Next dummy led the ♠ 10, which declarer captured with the ♠ Q. Declarer then took the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth tricks with the ♠ A. ♠ K, the ♦ 9, and the ♦ 8, taking the thirteenth trick by leading the ♥ Q to dummy's ♥ K for five-odd and the game.

This hand was given me by E. J. Tobin, one of Chicago's best known players. It was played at seven tables in a duplicate game and only one pair made game on the hand. Mr. Tobin was one of the players who made the game.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS.

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 2, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Food Talk.

The use of eggs for garnishing is not a new invention. The idea, in fact, is centuries old. [We will limit ourselves to the value of eggs as a garnish in today's column because the subject of eggs as a food can consume volumes of space. We can only touch upon it part by part.] There are, however, clever new ways for the decorative use of eggs often evolved by imaginative minds. Just as long as there are clever cooks in the kitchen there will be clever original food combinations resulting from their work.

The idea of slicing, quartering, or halving hard cooked eggs is not a new one, but that is no reason why it isn't a good one. A little simple garnish is better than none. Sometimes we may not have the time for more elaborate decoration. Just the contrasting colors, the white and gold, lend attractiveness to what otherwise might be an uninteresting dish. Keep it in mind.

For vegetable dishes, sprinkle the yolks of hard cooked eggs, which have been pressed through a sieve, over the top.

Put hard cooked egg yolks through a sieve, combine with a little mayonnaise or cream, add a little bit of grated horseradish, and press mixture through a pastry tube to make rosettes on salads or vegetables.

To make an appetizer, fill the whites of hard cooked eggs with caviar. With a pastry tube, pipe a little ring of the yolk, which has been mixed to a paste with finely chopped onions and a little lemon juice, around the edge.

Cut regular egg custard when baked and cooled into cubes or fancy shapes to use as a garnish in soups or on green salads.

Press hard cooked egg whites through a sieve and combine with mayonnaise to a smooth paste. Pipe round the edge of canapés.

Season egg whites with salt and pepper. Whip until light and drop by spoonfuls onto hot broth just before serving. Grated cheese may be folded into the egg whites before cooking.

Beat the whole egg until the white and yolk are thoroughly blended but not fluffy. Season with salt and white pepper. Brush a warm skillet with melted butter. Pour the egg into the skillet in a paper thin layer. Cook only until egg is set. Remove from pan carefully, roll jelly roll fashion and cut into narrow strips to be used as garnish for rice, hominy and similar dishes.

EGG THREADS [FOR CONSOMME.]

Beat 4 eggs thoroughly, add 3 tablespoonsful grated cheese and 1 tablespoonful flour. Mix all ingredients thoroughly and put through the smallest opening of the pastry tube into boiling salted water or simmering soup.

EGG SLICES IN PEPPER RINGS.

2 hard cooked eggs
1 tbsp. gelatin
¾ cup tomato juice
½ tsp. minced onion
½ tsp. salt
2 large green peppers
½ tbsp. cold water
½ tbsp. vinegar
1 bay leaf
½ tsp. sugar

Soak the gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Boil the tomato juice, onion, vinegar, sugar and seasoning. Strain. Add to the gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Remove the tips and seeds from peppers. Place a cold, shelled egg inside each pepper and fill space around egg with cooled tomato mixture. When thoroughly chilled, cut ¼ inch slices across pepper.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Black crêpe, trimmed in lace, would be an ideal choice for this design. The neckline is a becoming one, and the modified puffed sleeves are smart. The curved hip seaming of the skirt is slimming, and the paneled front and back of the skirt lend height to the figure.

The pattern, 2553, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

JACK SHEA WINS 2ND OLYMPIC SKATING TITLE

Scandinavians File Rules Protest.

Order Races Rerun

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The two trial heats in the Olympic 10,000 meter speed skating championships were tonight declared "no races" after hours of angry debate over disqualifications of two Canadians, one American, and a Japanese. The heats will be raced over again at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 5.—An outraged and bitterly disappointed delegation of Swedes, Norwegian and Finns on the second day of the Olympic winter games today set up that angry hullabaloo without which no Olympic competition may be deemed official, claiming that the Canadians and the members of the United States team were not doing right by their young men in the skating races.

Most of the Scandinavians are, or were, until these games began, important champions at various distances on the ice and their failure in the three races decided thus far naturally has done their pride no good. The Japanese, who have no champions and are merely participating in the races as patient, observant study boys involved in the development of a national five year or ten year athletic plan, joined the Scandinavians in a protest against a set of conditions of racing which all concerned agreed to without reservation before the athletes ever sailed for the United States.

Meet in Town Hall.

A modified league of nations meeting was therefore called in the Lake Placid town hall at which the squawking was unconfined and the cause of international amity was set back half the distance to the goal.

The American skaters had won all three races, the 500 meters, the 5,000 meters and 1,500 meters, before the Scandinavians' dissatisfaction with the racing customs of the United States became acute.

The complete absence of any of their men in the final of the 1,500 added humiliation to the other disturbing emotions of the visiting sportsmen, and at noon their feelings were expressed in a polite but vigorous state paper. The Americans and Canadians were accused of stalling in the distance events—an old Yankee trick—and thereby compelling or inducing their guileless guests from Europe and Japan to make the pace and break the resistance of the wind until the final lap, at which time the American style calls for a sprint to the finish.

It is the practice under the system followed in the United States and Canada to form an Indian file, the skaters swinging their legs in slow, rhythmic unison, lap after lap, the pack suggesting some odd, graceful bug with many legs, gliding around the rim of a plate. Going into the last lap the bug breaks into its various parts like a glass snake and a helter-skelter ensues.

Officials Revive Old Rule.

After the noon recess the American officials decided to revive and enforce a forgotten rule requiring each man in any field to make the pace for the pack at least two laps in a heat. They had already reminded themselves of the other neglected rule compelling the skaters to make a definite minimum rate of going and it was the hope of the boys that these reforms would appease the Scandinavians.

The point score, arrived at by the unofficial but generally accepted system of computation was then, United States, 43; Canada, 25, and Norway, 8. The Swedes, Finns and Japanese thus far had not scored at all and Jack Shea, the Lake Placid youth and Dartmouth college student, in delivering two victories for the United States, in the 500 meters and the 1,500 meters, had made himself historic and heroic.

The Europeans speak little or no English, but the squawk is of the universal language and the American officials in charge had begun to suspect that their guests were less than pleased with the way of things. Therefore, as a conciliatory stroke in the second heat of the 1,500 meter race, they flagged down the field under an American rule, quite forgotten up to that time, which requires the pack to maintain a certain minimum rate of speed per lap. Falling behind this schedule, the skaters in the second heat of the 1,500 were called back to the starting point after they had covered a little less than four laps and sent away again with a warning to step on it.

Scandinavians Out of It.

Nevertheless, Ray Murray of the United States and Alex Hurd of Canada finished first and second and such eminent Scandinavian skaters as Carl Lindberg of Sweden and Michael Staksrud of Norway failed to qualify for the final.

In the first heat, Taylor, the American, and Stack, the Canadian, had won the two qualifying positions to the exclusion of three other celebrated Norsemen, Bloomquist of Sweden and Evensen and Engnestangen, both of Norway.

Soon afterward, however, in the first heat of the 10,000 meter race, Alex Hurd of Canada, the winner; Eddie Wedge of the United States, and Shozo Ishiwara of Japan were

BY FRENCH LANE.

The scramble for the world's three cushion billiard championship almost reached the hysterical stage at Mussey's amphitheater last night when Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago beat the world's champion, Art Thurnblad, 50 to 33, in 40 innings.

Earlier in the day Otto Reiselt, the leader, had been thoroughly whipped by Gus Copulos, 50 to 29, in 42 innings. Thus Kieckhefer gained a full game on Reiselt and tied him for first place.

This morning the billiard fans of the country will discover that Reiselt and Kieckhefer each has won 7 games while losing 2. Both square away against strong foes today. Reiselt meets Thurnblad this afternoon. Kieckhefer plays Johnny Layton tonight.

It's Reiselt Against Augie.

But, regardless of what happens, they will clash for the world's crown. For if one of the leaders is beaten today he still can tie the other in the final game of the tournament on Monday night and demand a playoff. If both lose or if both win, they will begin their struggle on Monday night in a deadlock, just where they were at the end of last night's combat.

The Thurnblad-Kieckhefer match was a sprint right from the break shot. Kieckhefer came back with 8. Thurnblad made 1, then tied the count with a run of 6 in the third. Kieckhefer counted 7 in the next three innings to Thurnblad's 2 and at the end of six innings Kieckhefer showed the way by 15 to 10.

Kieckhefer was stopped for the next five innings, his longest period of inactivity during the evening. In that stretch Thurnblad cut Augie's advantage to 15 to 14. In the 12th Thurnblad was overanxious and fouled, losing a point. Before he recovered from the shock Kieckhefer opened a new scoring offensive and in the next 16 innings tallied 22 points to Thurnblad's 11.

Kieckhefer's Brilliant Shot.

Thurnblad's final spurts were 8 in the 20th and 4 in the 33d. When Augie opened his half of the 33d, he was leading, 42 to 31, and was faced with a difficult shot.

Kieckhefer's cue ball rested at the foot of the table, half way between the side rails. The red ball was about two feet from the upper end rail and six inches from the side rail. The Dreyfuss, 66, Pirate Owner, Dies in N. Y.

New York, Feb. 5. — [Special.] — Barney Dreyfuss, the last grenadier of baseball's old guard, died today at Mount Sinai hospital where he had been a patient since Dec. 14. Pneumonia that came as the aftermath of a grave operation was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, failed to rally after the operation of Jan. 6; then, after listless, losing weeks, he contracted pneumonia.

Burial in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Dreyfuss, who came here with him in December, and their daughter, Mrs. W. E. Benswanger, were at the bedside when he succumbed. Mr. Dreyfuss was 66 years old.

He came here in December to attend the meeting of the club owners. He became ill a few days later, and the operation followed.

Mr. Benswanger, the son-in-law, who is also treasurer of the Pittsburgh club, announced the body would be taken home tonight and that burial would be Sunday or Monday.

Mr. Dreyfuss had been in baseball for forty-eight years. He was the third major league club owner to die within a few months. Charles Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox, succumbed last October, and William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, died a few days ago.

Win Six Pennants.

Mr. Dreyfuss was born in Freiburg, Germany, in 1865, of German-Jewish parents, and emigrated to America in the early '80s. He first settled in Paducah, Ky. Later he moved to Louisville, where he was identified with a distillery through which he became president and leading stockholder of the Louisville American association team, in which the distillery was interested.

In 1899 he purchased the Pittsburgh club from Col. William Kerr. Bringing his young playing manager, Fred Clarke, along with players Hans Wagner, Tommy Leach, and Deacon Phillipi, to Pittsburgh, Dreyfuss merged them with the strongest players of the Pirates. The team won the National league championships in 1901, 1902, and 1903.

Pittsburgh teams, under the Dreyfuss ownership, also won National league pennants in 1909, 1925, and 1927, winning the world's championship in 1909 and 1925.

Chicago Girls Win

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The Illinois Women's Athletic club defeated the Detroit Yacht club, 30 to 25, in a dual swimming meet last night at the I. W. A. C. pool. This was the second meet the I. W. A. C. has won from Detroit this season.

Evelyn Kennedy of the I. W. A. C., a candidate for the Olympic games, won the low board diving event. Ruth Fauntz, a teammate who is rapidly progressing in the footsteps of her sister, Jane, took second place.

Marjorie Canavan, C. A. A. U. champion in the senior women's back stroke swim, won this event by a yard, besting her teammate, Marian Stanton, on the turn and takeoff.

The Detroit team took three first places, but lost in the diving and 160 yard relay. Summaries:

160 yard free style relay. Won by Illinois Women's Athletic club team composed of Emma Shemaitis, Mary Ella Stark, Marian Dose and Marlys Lapin, with the Detroit club, composed of Sue Wittwer, Kathlyn Johnson, Ellen Smith, and Astrid Johannsen, second. Time 1:31.7.

100 yard back stroke. Won by Marjorie Canavan, I. W. A. C.; Marian Stanton, I. W. A. C., second; Astrid Johannsen, Detroit Yacht club, third. Time 1:17.7.

100 yard free style. Won by Winifred Smith, Detroit Yacht club; Marlys Lapin, I. W. A. C., second; Marian Dose, I. W. A. C., third. Time 1:06.2.

100 yard breast stroke. Won by Jean Cadwell, Detroit Yacht club; Ardis Gibson, Detroit Yacht club, second; Emma Shemaitis, I. W. A. C., third. Time 1:22.9.

Low board diving. Won by Evelyn Kennedy, I. W. A. C.; Ruth Faunts, I. W. A. C., second; Borghild Johannsen, Detroit Yacht club, third.

50 yard free style. Won by Winifred Smith, Detroit Yacht club; Marian Dose, I. W. A. C., second; Mary Ellen Stark, I. W. A. C., third. Time :29.8.

120 yard medley relay. Won by the Detroit Yacht club; I. W. A. C., second. Time 1:19.1.

Races Speedboat Under Perfect Conditions.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Gar Wood, veteran Detroit sportsman, today brought the world's speed boat record to the United States by racing down the placid waters of Indian creek at the rate of 111.712 miles an hour with his Miss America IX.

Wood, who believed he had broken the mark of 110.223 miles an hour set by Kaye Don of England two weeks ago, drove 112.434 miles an hour on the southbound course and later raced 110.989 on the northward run.

As checked by the electrical timing equipment, Wood made the first run in 36.87 seconds and the northbound run in 37.35 seconds. The speed was 1.489 miles an hour better than the record made by Don last year at Lake Garda, Italy.

Conditions Were Perfect.

The time on Wood's runs now will be checked by the Yachtman's association and the International association. These bodies recently turned down Wood's claim of a new record when he drove 110.785 miles an hour.

"It was the greatest thrill of my life," said the veteran speed boat driver as he climbed out of his craft with Orlin Johnson, his riding mechanic. "It was the smoothest ride I ever had at high speed."

"The conditions couldn't have been better. The water was smooth and the air was ideal. I am exceedingly happy to bring the world's record to America."

Hull Changes Help.

Wood, who was told he failed to establish a new record two weeks ago by less than half a nautical mile an hour, said at that time he would make another attempt after he had lowered the hull of the Miss America IX.

The changes in the hull and the installation of superchargers on the 1,200 horsepower motors, which function at the rate of 2,500 revolutions a minute, increased the speed of the craft, according to Wood.

Asked today if he planned to make another attempt, Wood declared he had no plans for the future. He said he would leave Sunday for a cruise to the Yucatan with C. F. Kettering of Detroit.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

The Sino-Japanese unpleasantness can have the headlines as far as Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, is concerned. He doesn't plan to run a counter war of his own.

BOB TRAPP.

Reports of a row between the National and American leagues growing out of the Blackhawks' attempt to sign two American league players were laughed off by the major yesterday.

"There is no hockey war and won't be any," Mr. McLaughlin explained. "We have called off negotiations for Burr Williams of St. Louis because we have been convinced that he is at least morally bound to the club for which he now plays. We had been told that his contract had been invalidated by nonpayment of salary. When he made known this morning that he had signed another agreement with St. Louis less than two weeks ago we decided to have no further dealing with him.

"Williams claims his club owes him $2,700 back salary. He is going to demand payment. If he gets it I think perhaps we will have done him a good turn as a collection agency. If he doesn't we shall be glad to take him on provided our attorneys assure us his new contract no longer can be enforced.

"In other words," Mr. McLaughlin continued, "we pass up no opportunity to improve the player strength of our squad. At the same time, we want only men who can honestly be ours. The Blackhawks are up and above board in all their business dealings and we are not going to deviate from that policy."

Reviewing the history of the case involving Bob Trapp of Tulsa, who was reported in news dispatches to have jumped the Oilers for a place with the Blackhawks, the Hawks' chief said:

"Trapp came to see me about a month ago. He said he was not receiving his salary and needed money to support his family. Through no fault of his he was traded into a league which later was 'outlawed' by the National. He came to me because he was a member of the original Blackhawks. He said he felt that I indirectly was responsible for his plight. I was inclined to agree with him. For that reason we are taking him back. I don't know what we will do with him because he is of no value to us as a player. I shall try to find him a place with a minor league club, but whether I am successful or not we will keep him the rest of the year."

Although attendance has been below last year's figures, Maj. McLaughlin is not discouraged with the hockey situation in Chicago. All other teams in the National league except Detroit are making more money than in 1931, he said. The average attendance, including Chicago and Detroit, exceeds last year's figures.

"If we get into the Stanley Cup playoffs we will finish out of the red," he predicted. "If we don't, our loss will be about $15,000."

It costs $11,000 a game to operate the Blackhawks, according to the club owner. Next to salaries the major expense is $4,500 rental for the Stadium. The time is not far away, Mr. McLaughlin said, when the Blackhawks will have a home of their own. Under present conditions the Hawks have little or no opportunity to practice. They get their training for hockey in a gymnasium. This obviously places them at a disadvantage against Canadian teams, which work out on ice every day.

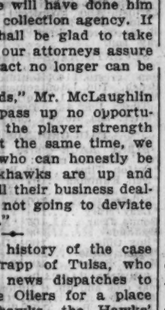
Mr. McLaughlin is about convinced of the practicability of establishing a farm system. Every club in the league except the Blackhawks now has a definite source of material. While the Chicago team has been fortunate in obtaining players who measure up to National league standard, its system has been a hit and miss affair.

The Blackhawk leader doesn't think there is a chance of the National league accepting the challenge of the American for a post-season series for the Stanley cup, the emblem of hockey supremacy. Trustees of the cup recently acted favorably upon the American league's challenge.

"Tradition means more in Canada than it does in the United States," Mr. McLaughlin explained. "The Stanley cup is rich in tradition. I can't conceive of the trustees of the trophy permitting it to go by default to Tulsa or Kansas City, for instance."

Tribune to Hold Second Ski Jump for Boys Tomorrow

Chicago's first snowfall of the winter, at least the most lasting snowfall, has given opportunity for all the youthful ski jumpers to get out their storemade staves and take a few spills. Until this week skiing in Chicago has been done on imported snow, which didn't last much longer than the time required for the meet.



FRANK KALTEUX.

However, tomorrow the boys of Chicago will have opportunity to contest for the 12 individual prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE in its second annual ski tournament. The meet will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at Riis park, Fullerton and Mead avenues.

Field to Number 133.

Contestants who filed entries for the tournament, which was originally scheduled for Jan. 3, are eligible. One hundred and thirty-three boys will compete in four age divisions. Gold, silver, and bronze medals are the awards in each class.

All contestants must report for their numbers at the Riis park fieldhouse between 12 and 1 o'clock. The names and numbers of contestants will be printed in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

Here Are the Officials.

Officials of the Northwest Park district, who are cooperating with THE TRIBUNE in holding the annual tournament, have prepared the Riis park slide. With freezing weather to make the surface fast, jumps of 50 feet probably will be made, although the slide is only 70 feet high.

Referee—Frank Brunn.
Judges—A. C. Rothnerby and Christ Steiner.
Scorers—Therleif Narup and Olaf Thomassen.
Starter—Gust Anderson.
Hill committee—Oscar Hansen, Osborne Knapp, Gunnar Oman, Carl Johnson, John Ohs, and Thomas Lee.
Announcers—Frank Kalteux and Pep Kerwin.

Schaaf Scores Technical Knockout Over Ruggirello

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After a slow start the Chicago Shamrocks revived in time to achieve a 2 to 1 triumph over their nemesis from St. Louis in an American league hockey game at the Stadium last night. It marked the Rocks' second victory in six attempts against the Fliers this season.

Until all but about 10 minutes of the one hour struggle had elapsed there was a total lack of scores and also of what might be termed artful hockey. The Chicagoans seemingly had the edge all this time, but their passing was wild and short drives at the net were poorly aimed.

Surprise! Surprise! Rocks Score.

Then when the customers were about ready to resign themselves to an extra period of play, the watchman in the Fliers' goal was caught in a moment of weakness and two Chicago points were registered. With this lead the victors refused to display any excitement over St. Louis' point, which slipped into the coveted spot just before hostilities ceased.

Just so they wouldn't tire out too soon, the boys worked gently in the first period. So much so in fact that some of the customers remarked the practice should be about over. The Shamrocks provided a slight tremor after about three minutes of play when Byrdson and McFadyen indulged in a series of snappy rushes against the St. Louis coop. They, however, accomplished nothing. During these jousts Loucks of the Fliers was given a two minute rest for tripping Buswell. It was the lone penalty of the period.

Except for these few items, the twenty minutes of play was made up mainly of the now popular long distance shots.

Nothing But Threats.

The principals continued their exhibition of fancy skating for about the first ten minutes of the second period. Then they began to warm up a bit. A fight was in the offing when, with the St. Louis goalie flat on the ice trying to keep the puck safely concealed, Riley and a few other ambitious Shamrocks insisted on chopping at him with their sticks. This steamed up Bouchard, late of Buffalo, to such extent that he was ousted a moment later for charging Riley into the boards. As soon as Bouchard had completed his sentence Scott was banished for tripping Brydson behind the St. Louis kennel.

With the Fliers lacking the services of one man, the Chicagoans staged a convention around the visitors' net, but the action ceased when Buswell, getting one of the rebounds out on the blue line, took a random shot. The rubber hit the right post. That was about the closest thing to a score produced in this session.

The Scoring Starts.

The Shamrocks started the last period by overlooking two wide openings. Then at the half way point Mulligan was banished for tripping Riley and the Chicagoans immediately concentrated on the matter of scoring. They engaged in a series of close up thrusts and finally drew Goalie Christello away from his front door. Riley shoved across the initial point in 11:40 after Headley hammered the puck against Christello, who in slapping it away left the net unguarded. There was nobody around to deny Riley a free easy shot.

The second goal in 15:39 was started by Brydson. He took the puck from the Shamrock end and at the blue line aimed for Christello's shins. He hit it squarely and the disc bounced straight out to McFadyen, who rammed it back into the cage.

The St. Louis Fliers' only point at 18:50 was the outcome of a lengthy mêlée around the Rock's net. Goalie Karakas knocked the rubber to one side, but before he could recover his position, Bouchard slipped it into the coop.

SHADE TO BOX DEMPSEY TODAY IN FIRPO DRILL

Middleweights Clash on Monday at White City.

Dave Shade, New York middleweight, will box with Jack Dempsey this afternoon at the Arcade gymnasium in preparation for his ten round windup match against Henry Firpo at White City Monday night. Shade will box two rounds with the former heavyweight champion, who arrives in town from Salt Lake City at 9:15 this morning at North Western station.

Firpo Takes It Easy.

Firpo, who has worked hard for the past week, will not box today, indulging in only loosening up exercises.

Promoter Mique Malloy last night announced the complete supporting card for the Firpo-Shade bout. Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., 152 pound boxer, and Johnny Baima, Lawndale middleweight, meet in the six round semi-final combat at 155 pounds. Four bouts at four rounds bring together Jud Judkins and Sonny Rickman, middleweights; Charley Zanley and Johnny Lullo, lightweights; Jack Ripp and Mike Triolo, welterweights, and Servina Fabia and Andy Urban, featherweights.

To Go to Philadelphia.

Following his four round exhibition match with King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 18, Jack Dempsey will go to Philadelphia, where he is slated to fight four days later. He will leave Chicago tomorrow for Milwaukee to combat Jack Roper and Buck Everett Monday.

Loyola Five Ends Carroll String, 26-19

Loyola university last night broke Carroll college's basketball victory streak of seven straight by defeating the Wisconsin quintet, 26 to 19, at Loyola gymnasium. Vander Meulen, center, was the only Carroll player to score with any consistency. He made three field goals and five charity tosses. The first half ended with Loyola leading, 15 to 8.

Loyola jumped into the lead on a free throw by Wagner in the first 20 seconds and ran the score to 6 to 0 before Carroll counted a point. Baskets by Johnson, Vander Meulen, and Jensen tied it up when the first period was half over. Then another free throw by Wagner gave Loyola a lead which it never relinquished.

After the start of the second period the Loyola lead mounted steadily on baskets by Wagner, Butzen, Schumann, and Connelly until Carroll trailed by 15 points. With seven minutes remaining, Coach Sachs of Loyola inserted his entire second team and Carroll drew up to within seven points of a tie before the final gun. Score:

Three Teams Undefeated in C. Y. O. Girls' Tourney

Three girls' teams remain undefeated in the west section of the Catholic Youth organization basketball tournament after last night's play at the Victorian A. C. Sienans kept its slate clean by beating Help of Christian, 22 to 6. Lady of Sorrows whipped Holy Rosary, 31 to 8, and the other team, Lady of Sorrows No. 2, drew a bye.

Marek Outpoints Hedman in Merry Garden Windup

MOON MULLINS—THE OLD STRATEGIST

Reiselt Tied by Kieckhefer for Cue Lead

other object ball was in a difficult spot about two feet from the upper end and upper side rails.

Here it was that Kieckhefer made the greatest shot of the night. It was a cushion first, reverse english, cross table swing shot, the cue ball swinging to miss a kiss on the second object ball. The cue ball swung sharply, doubled the corner, and made the count on the second object ball. There was no angle for this shot and it was necessary for Kieckhefer to make the angle by putting the swing on the cue ball.

Coupulos overtook Reiselt, 15 to 14, in the 11th inning and never again was headed in his match with the Philadelphian.

15 Teams Off Tomorrow in Six Day Race

Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium, will fire the starting gun in Chicago's twenty-seventh six-day bicycle race, which gets under way at 9 o'clock tomorrow night with 15 teams competing.

New riders are Jean Pijnenburg and Cor Wals of Holland, Max Bulla of Australia, Fritz Schenk of Germany, Adolph Van Nevele of Belgium, and Arturo Bresciani of Italy. There will be fifteen American riders, four Italians, two Belgians, two French men, two Canadians, two Germans, an Australian, and two Dutchmen.

MAROONS CLASH ON 3 ATHLETIC FRONTS TODAY

University of Chicago track and wrestling teams will provide the home competition today while the basketball team is seeking its first conference victory at Iowa.

The track squad engages Loyola in the field house at 2 o'clock in the opening meet of the season. The wrestlers start their Big Ten schedule with a meet against Minnesota in Bartlett gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

JACK SHEA WINS SECOND OLYMPIC SKATING TITLE

disqualified for declining to lead the file in their turns. Of the three Scandinavians who skated in this heat only one man, Ivan Ballangrud of Norway, had qualified and he had barely done so, finishing fourth in the field. But the disqualifications moved up Val Bialis of the United States to first and Ballangrud to second, and admitted Staksrud and Bloomquist to the final.

At the disqualification of Hurd and Wedge the squawking took on the old, familiar North American accent. One tabulation of the laps, unofficial, but apparently trustworthy, credited Hurd with the required number of laps in front and Wedge claimed he had led for three laps and was a victim of a mistake in identity.

Edwin Becomes Bert.

Wedge said the patrol judge who warned him to take his turn in the lead was calling him Bert, probably mistaking him for Best Taylor, who was not skating in this race. His own first name is Edwin and he said his work in making the pace probably had been accredited to the account of a man who wasn't even present.

The confusion was growing more confused. Wedge stood under the grandstand, which was swept by an arctic wind and very sparsely peopled with customers, holding his skates under his wing and growling in full enjoyment of a grievance, which seems to be one of the delights of Olympic competition. The Canadian officials, who are quite numerous and emphatic, whooped their indignation into the wind, and the Scandinavians, their ruddy faces made more ruddy by the rise of their temper, argued with them in comic supplement dialect.

The difference between the European and North American systems of racing on the ice is that in Europe only two men race, each in his own lane, and each therefore breaking the wind resistance for himself. In a field of twenty skaters there will be ten heats and the racers with the best time win. Thus jockeying is eliminated and there is no jostling on the turns.

However, the American system was thoroughly explained to the Europeans and they agreed to race the American way if only because assent to the unfamiliar conditions would afford the officials a cruise to the United States and back, first class, at no expense to themselves.

The summaries:

ONE POLICEMAN, 399 BOYS ENTER GOLDEN GLOVES

List Swells as Deadline Draws Near.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Only three days remain in which amateur boxers will be permitted to enter the west section qualifying trials of the fifth annual Golden Gloves tournament. After midnight Monday the lists will be closed for the bouts at Ashland Boulevard auditorium on Feb. 15 and 16.

As the opening of the Chicago tournaments near, interest naturally increases. More than 400 boys already have signed for the eliminations and with the influx of team entries the lists are expected to pass last year's.

Coulon Enters Strong Team.

Johnny Coulon, a former champion himself who knows a boxer when he sees one, is confident he will have several boys in the finals on March 9 at the Chicago stadium. Last year Scotty Sylvano and George Keenan won championships for the Coulon gymnasium. Coulon is one of the strongest boosters of amateur boxing. He was an amateur champion when 14 years old and three years later he won the bantamweight professional championship of the world. Coulon writes of his team:

"We have two heavyweight who will make them all sit up. Tom Glynn, of Ireland, who has been here less than two years, has had twelve bouts and has won ten of them by knockouts. He weighs 190 pounds. Glynn is a graduate of the Dublin High school. He is just 22 years old and resembles Jack Dempsey.

"The other heavyweight entry is Cecil Storey, who now attends the University of Chicago. Storey comes from California and is a graduate of the Long Beach High school. He goes in for the four major sports, he says, and most of all for amateur boxing. He has a fine left hand."

While the west section tournament holds the spot light, entries also are coming in for the north side meet at Loyola university on Feb. 18 and 19 and the south side meet at White City on Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

Policeman Enters.

Ray has been fighting for only three months, but has shown remarkable progress. He has had six fights, winning five of them by knockouts and dropping a decision to Tony Sutton recently. He evened the Sutton defeat by handing Tony a licking Thursday night.

Phil Heinz, 21 year old featherweight, has entered the north side elimination bouts. Heinz, a machine operator during the day, has been boxing two years and has a fine record. He has dropped only two decisions in 19 starts. He won the north side championship two weeks ago at the Belle Plaine A. C.

OLD CHAMP ENTERS

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The return of another former champion and the increase of entrants to 65 today drew attention of amateur fighters to the third annual South Bend Golden Gloves tourney, which will be held for three days, starting Feb. 16, to qualify boxers for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's tournament of champions.

Jack Milan, who won the lightweight title in 1930 but lost it last year to Joe Veney, is back for another attempt. He is the fifth former champion to enter.

Seven cities, including South Bend, Mishawaka, Plymouth, and Nappanee, Ind., and Niles, Buchanan and Benton Harbor, Mich., now have representatives entered.

St. Mel, defending heavyweight basketball champion, went into a three way tie for the lead in the north section of the Chicago Catholic High School league last night by defeating St. Patrick, 38 to 22. The victory put St. Mel in a deadlock with St. Patrick and De Paul academy with five victories and one defeat.

Eddie Cain and Frank Allen led the champions in handing St. Patrick its first league defeat. Cain sank four baskets and five free throws, while Allen collected four field goals and one free throw. St. Mel led, 14 to 8, at the half.

De Paul, lightweight leader in the north division, dropped its first league contest, losing at St. Michael, 31 to 22. De Paul held an 18 to 5 advantage at the half.

The loss of two regulars failed to stop New Trier in its march to the Suburban league heavyweight championship. Playing without Capt. Finlayson and Quinlan, who is the league's leading scorer, New Trier defeated Oak Park, 26 to 14, at Winnetka.

A penalty throw in the final minute gave Lake View a 28 to 27 victory over Lane in a heavyweight game in the north section of the Chicago Public High School league at Lane's gymnasium. It was Lake View's third consecutive league victory.

Roosevelt and Senn were victors in two other north division heavyweight games. Roosevelt, led by Weinhouse, defeated Waller, 35 to 23, on the Roosevelt court, and Senn triumphed over Schurz, 34 to 17, on Senn's floor.

Meet the Borgia of Birdland, Sir: Lil' Mr. Sparrow

BY BOB BECKER.

The sparrow war has been resumed with the arrival of a number of letters from indignant bird fans ready to argue the little Britisher's killer instincts. Samuel Harper's defense of the English sparrow, poblished recently, was the signal for a deluge of mail. Several fans offer proof of the sparrow's bad character by submitting reports of actual observation involving attacks against native birds.

The sparrow is a vandal, writes Eva B. Ferguson, 6510 Olphant avenue, Chicago. She elaborates:

"I put up a bluebird house in my yard. In due season a pair came and made it their home. All seemed to be going well until one Sunday we saw a parent bird sitting on top of the house. Soon we saw a sparrow emerge from the house and then other sparrows went in and out of the box.

"We thought the bluebird would assert its rights, so we paid no further attention to the incident. Several hours later I saw something blue on the ground just a few feet from the bird house.

"A closer inspection showed it to be a dead baby blue bird with its eyes gouged out. We did not see the parent birds again that day. The next morning we took down the house, opened it and found a sparrow's nest built over the bodies of four other little bluebirds, all with their eyes destroyed.

"The vandals evidently had found it too much work to drag their victims out of the bird house through the small opening, so just made their nest over them. I have not put up my bluebird house since that experience."

AUTO SHOW ENDS TONIGHT; 20 PCT. SALES INCREASE

Upturn in Car Trade Seen for 1932.

BY HAL FOUST.

The 32d national automobile show will close tonight. Sales during the week indicate a 20 per cent increase over business of the 1931 exhibition, or a total of between $1,750,000 and $2,000,000.

Adverse weather conditions reduced the attendance to slightly lower than that for 1931. The show opened a week ago with near zero temperatures and it is closing tonight with snow on the pavements, discouraging automobile owners from driving to the Coliseum.

"If the show business is an accurate barometer of 1932 motor car buying," said S. A. Miles, manager of the show, "it means that 400,000 more automobiles will be sold this year than last. It means that about $320,000,000 more will be spent this year for automobiles, and that about 200,000 or 250,000 more men will be employed in the car plants and associated industries."

Many New Models This Year.

In normal times, the Chicago automobile show is generally accepted as a barometer of the year's business. However, this year there were more new models than at previous shows, which may account for some of the growth in sales.

Nevertheless, even the more conservative leaders of the automobile industry are convinced that the motor car companies will be among the first to feel any upturn in general business conditions, since there are seven million obsolete models on the streets and highways with owners eager to replace them with new cars.

The salon of custom built domestic and foreign models at the Drake hotel will also close tonight. Sales of the expensive models also have increased over the 1931 figures.

Sees Great Changes in Cars.

G. M. Williams, president of Marmon, in an address at the Engineers' club yesterday, declared that the future will probably see as many changes in automobile design as has the last quarter of a century with its transition from the horseless buggy.

"It's not unreasonable," he said, "for us to imagine that in twenty-five years the gas motor will be a thing of the past and automobiles will be receiving their power by radio from public utilities on a metered service basis."

CAPITAL POLICE WIDEN HUNT FOR MANIAC GUNMEN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Washington police today augmented patrols in the northwest section of the city as a precaution against further attacks on citizens by the two gunmen who last night wounded two young girls and a man. The men drove past their victims in a black sedan and fired several times.

Decision to increase the police patrols was reached following an announcement by Lieut. John Fowler, ballistics expert, that the bullets which struck the girls and those which felled the man were of the same caliber and fired from the same style gun.

Gordon Backus, a department of agriculture employé, one of the victims of the gunmen, was reported in a serious condition today. The two girls were not seriously hurt.

POLICE AND BAR TO SEEK CURB ON KIDNAPINGS

General crime problems will be discussed today at a joint meeting of committees from the International Police Chiefs' association and the American Bar association at the Stevens hotel.

One of the major subjects to be taken up will be kidnaping. Many members of both organizations favor a federal statute making abduction for ransom a capital offense. They agree that kidnaping has grown in recent years to be a principal concern of law agencies. Another phase of the conference will be the speeding up of justice.

Hugh Harper, chief of police of Colorado Springs, Colo., and president of the International association, will be one of the speakers today. He said

Pola Negri to Wed Chicago Man; Keeps Name a Secret

Pola Negri, who is appearing on the stage of a loop theater, said yesterday that she is engaged to a Chicagoan, but refused to reveal his name. She said that she might be married in July or August.

"His name must be a secret for the present," the actress said. "He is wintering at his estate in Montecito, Cal. My next husband is going to be some one whom every one looks up to and admires."

Miss Negri has been twice married to European nobility. She was once engaged to the late Rudolph Valentino.

France's Jobless Total Rises 15,633 in Week

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Unemployment in France for the week ending Jan. 30 showed an increase of 15,633, it was announced today. The total receiving government aid at that time reached 241,487. The total receiving aid Jan. 30, 1931, was only 28,536.

CIVICS STUDENTS WIN IN DISPUTE WITH REGULARS

Classroom theories of political science clashed with the rough and ready variety nurtured in precinct affairs yesterday in the Evanston city hall, and the classroom theories won.

The occasion was the filing of petitions for the Evanston aldermanic election on April 5. All Thursday night a group of Northwestern university students had stood in line outside the door of City Clerk Edward W. Bell bearing the petition of Edwin B. Jourdain Jr., for alderman of the Fifth ward. By filing it first they sought the top position on the ballot.

Jourdain, a Negro and a Harvard graduate, was elected alderman a year ago. Last Monday night the city council unseated him in a contest. Jourdain announced immediately that he would run on April 5 against Ald. Peter N. Jans.

Prof. A. R. Hatton, head of the political science department at Northwestern, and other faculty members came out in support of Jourdain. It was their support which attracted the Jourdain delegation.

City Clerk Bell opened his door at 8 a. m. George Burchan, 1940 Sherman avenue, a graduate student, had the Jourdain petition. He stepped inside with other Jourdain supporters. At that moment Samuel Bataglia and Jacob Steinbuck, precinct workers for Jans arrived. There was a fracas in which both petitions were tossed at Clerk Bell, and several blows were struck.

But when the excitement died down, Bell declared that Jourdain would get first place on the ballot.

MRS. DORA COWIN, PIONEER, IS DEAD AT THE AGE OF 90

Mrs. Dora H. Cowin, 90 years old, pioneer Chicagoan, and great-granddaughter of Innit Hollister, who served with Washington at Valley Forge, died yesterday at her home at 4645 North Paulina street.

She was born in Vermont. When 2 years old she was brought west by her parents, the long journey being made by rail, canal and covered wagon. The family settled in Barrington. Seventy-five years ago Mrs. Cowin moved to Chicago. She sat up all night watching the great fire of 1871. Mrs. Cowin recalled frequently her memories of earlier Chicago, and how a wagon trip to and from Barrington often required two weeks.

Mrs. Cowin was the widow of Thomas Cowin, building contractor. She was the last surviving charter member of the Jackson Boulevard Christian church. Surviving her are two children, Louis Cowin and Mrs. Dora C. Berkshire. Funeral services will be held in her home at 11 o'clock this morning. Burial will be at Barrington.

$5,000 IS OFFERED FOR RETURN OF M'DIVANI GEMS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—A reward of £1,000 [about $5,000 at par] was offered today for the return of a pair of pearl earrings worth about $50,000 which the American Princess Alexis M'Divani lost while shopping in the west end.

Princess M'Divani, who is living in Paris, is visiting in London. She carried the earrings in her handbag, which she believed she dropped in the street or left in a taxicab.

The princess is the former Miss Louise Astor Van Alen of New York. Her husband is one of the sons of Gen. M'Divani, an aide de camp of the late Russian czar and a brother of Prince Serge M'Divani, former husband of Pola Negri, and Prince David, husband of Mae Murray.

CITY LACKS CASH TO SHOVEL SNOW; WASH IT AWAY

With no emergency funds available to hire special workers to clear the snow from the streets, the city yesterday tried the experiment of letting firemen flush the snow with streams of water.

At several loop crossings details of firemen, under orders of Acting Fire Commissioner Daniel J. Carmody, dug sewers open and then turned on the water. The experiment was regarded as successful, although it can be used only when the temperature is comparatively high. With low temperatures a sheet of ice might form on the streets.

The weather bureau forecast fair skies and moderate temperatures for Chicago today. The maximum temperature yesterday was 34.

ADMITS TURNING OVER $6,679,485 TO JAKE FACTOR

Partner Denies He Fled Arrest.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Arthur J. Klein of New York admitted on the stand today that $6,679,485 passed through his account for John [Jake the Barber] Factor [former Chicago barber] during their three years' association. He denied, however, that he knew any of this money was "dirty" or that he fled to the United States when the Broad Street Press, Inc., financial bubble burst.

JOHN FACTOR.

Klein is accused of receiving $1,250,000 in alleged bucket shop operations. He swore that he was hired by Factor to negotiate stock deals and that all his money came from legitimate dealings which Factor had in the market.

According to Klein's testimony, Factor's account was kept in the name of Harry Wise and into this Klein paid $2,315,000 in 1928, $1,595,000 in 1929, and $2,769,485 in 1930. With the exception of $125,000 his entire account was paid into the account Factor kept under the name of Wise, he testified.

He also held the power of attorney for Factor's account and told how he frequently drew on this to send money to Factor's relatives in the United States and Paris and to his wife in Chicago. He ceased to be employed by Factor in March, 1930. Klein added there was no reason to believe that his money was obtained by fraud through the Broad Street Press, Inc.

As soon as he heard of rumors of action against the company he went to the United States to see Factor. He was arrested in New York, fought extradition in the courts, and then decided to return to face the charges.

PIES AND CAKES FLY IN EVANSTON AUTO SMASHUP

French pastry, pies and half a dozen assortments of cakes were scattered over the pavement at Greenleaf street and Asbury avenue, Evanston, yesterday when the automobile of Mrs. Myra Colburn, 52 years old, wife of Fred F. Colburn, president of the Pure Carbonic company, collided with a pie truck. The driver, Andrew Sellaf, 2855 West Ohio street, charged Mrs. Colburn, who lives at 1012 Lake Shore drive in the suburb, with reckless driving. She will be arraigned before a police magistrate today.

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday and the toll for the year remained at 115.

Mrs. Myrtle Masterson of Bald Mound, Ill., was killed and two other women were injured when their automobile crashed into the side of a Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul railroad train near there.

Bullet Fired by Sergeant in Chase Kills Negro Bandit

Harold McGarry, 19 years old, a Negro bandit, of 322 North Fairfield avenue, died last night in the Bridewell hospital of a bullet wound received Tuesday night. He and a companion were interrupted in a holdup at Lake street and Western avenue by Sergt. John H. Scherping of the state's attorney's office.

DAUGHTERS START FIGHT TO SHARE IN WENTWORTH ESTATE

The opening move in what attorneys say is to be a court struggle over the $700,000 estate of the late Edward C. Wentworth, partner in the real estate concern of Whiteside & Wentworth, who died on last Nov. 21, was begun yesterday. Letters testamentary were issued to his two daughters, Mrs. Corolyn W. Parker, 200 Linden avenue, Winnetka, and Mrs. Hester Crawford, 817 Chestnut court in the same suburb.

Mr. Wentworth died without leaving a will and his widow, Mrs. Edward C. Wentworth of 1403 Jarvis avenue, his second wife, has failed to appear in the Probate court to seek administratorship. The 75 day limit subsequent to the death during which only the widow is eligible as administratrix expired yesterday and the daughters appeared.

Attorney John Vennema, representing the sisters, told Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, that Mrs. Wentworth, who did not appear, had refused to communicate with her stepdaughters. The attorney asserted that Mrs. Wentworth had refused to admit callers to her home or make any move to submit her late husband's estate to probate. His clients, he said, are seeking to protect their rights to two-thirds of the estate, which consists largely of stocks and bonds.

Mr. Caplan appointed the Northern Trust company administrator and ordered an inventory of the property prepared.

WILLIAM ELLIOTT, ACTOR AND FILM PRODUCER, DIES

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—William Elliott, actor and theatrical producer, who was at one time associated with the late David Belasco and later was a partner of Morris Gest and F. Ray Comstock, died suddenly this afternoon at the Lambs club. Death was probably caused by heart disease. Mr. Elliott had suffered from cardiac asthma.

Mr. Elliott was listed in theatrical records as 47 years old, although associates at the Lambs declared yesterday that he was older than that.

Mr. Elliott was a son-in-law of Mr. Belasco, having married Augusta Belasco, his second daughter, in 1911. She died of pneumonia less than five months after her marriage. Several years later he married Mlle. Louise La Grange, actress of the Comedie Francaise, with whom he fell in love while in France and Algiers taking scenes for a spectacular photoplay. She is now said to be in Paris with his two children.

Woman Turns on Radio Then Shoots Self to Death

After turning on the radio, Mrs. Helen Shepard, 26 years old, of 71 West 71st street, shot and killed herself last night in the room of Glen Severns, a taxi driver, in the Waltlu hotel, 835 East 63d place. When Severns returned home he found her dead. A lively dance number was playing from the radio. Mrs. Shepard left two notes, neither of which was opened. Police believed she committed suicide while despondent. She was a divorcée.

Miss Maren Michelet, 62, Noted in Minnesota, Dies

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 5.—Miss Maren Michelet, 62, decorated by the Norwegian king in 1925 for furthering Norwegian-American culture, died today after a brief illness. Public school teaching associates said the Norwegian language course she was instrumental in establishing here in 1910 was the first in any American high school. She had taught here since 1893.

ORDERS PERJURY INQUIRY AFTER ALIMONY TRIAL

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday took drastic action against a father and a witness who appeared in his court to contest a motion that support money for the former's 11 year old daughter be increased. The father was Dr. Meyer J. Chapman, 3326 North Clark street, and the witness was Attorney Aaron Rothstein, 2714 Logan boulevard.

The physician was ordered to stay away from his daughter for six months and was enjoined from speaking of his wife. In addition Judge Trude ordered that the transcript of the physician's testimony be placed in the hands of the state's attorney for possible perjury charges. The judge also dictated from the bench a letter to the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association ordering that an alleged fraud in a federal bankruptcy case which Attorney Rothstein, it is charged, had countenanced, be investigated.

To Dr. Chapman the judge said: "I believe from your testimony before this court that you are concealing your assets and that Attorney Rothstein is guilty of participating in a fraud upon the federal court."

According to the testimony, Dr. Chapman had gone through bankruptcy proceedings in 1928 while retaining possession of 100 shares of stock then worth $22,000. His attorney had been Rothstein.

The motion for the alimony increase was made by Dr. Chapman's former wife, Esther, 5200 Sheridan road, who divorced him in 1928 and was granted custody of their daughter, Maxine. Support money for the child had been set at $15 a week and subsequently reduced to $10. Judge Trude increased the payments to $12 a week.

SELLING WEARS DOWN UTILITY TRUST PRICES

Insull Issues in Center of Liquidation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Selling fire against the securities of the utility investment trusts continued yesterday on the Chicago exchange and prices retreated without showing much resistance. In the center of the trading activity and hardest hit by the selling were the securities of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Company of Chicago.

The liquidation was based, according to brokers, on expectation that the annual statement of the two concerns which will be made public in a few days will make unfavorable showings. Basing their calculations on the value of the assets of the two trusts at the end of 1930, the latest figures available, statisticians in La Salle street estimate that the equities of the common and preferred stockholders have been completely wiped out by the terrific slump in security prices over the last twelve months.

Cite Prior Obligations.

Assuming that the firms made further commitments in market last year, which is generally accepted, it is figured that the position of funded obligations of the corporations has also been impaired. Bank loans contracted in carrying out their trading programs are the prior obligations of the companies.

The levels at which the securities of the two firms were quoted yesterday indicates that these developments are generally recognized in financial circles. Corporation Securities preferred stock fell to $1 a share on moderate liquidation. The decline represented a drop in the quoted market value of 75 per cent for the day. The common sold as low as 50 cents a share and closed the day at $1.

The heaviest selling appeared in Insull Utility debentures and common stock. The former issue tumbled about 4 points on transactions representing notes of a par value of $172,000. These debentures are general obligations of the trust and are not secured. On a turnover exceeding 13,000 shares the common stock receded to 1⅞ and closed only slightly above that figure. The preferred, on lighter transactions, retreated from 4¾ to 3.

Expect Dividend Omission.

Omission of the dividend on the preferred, which is expected when directors meet next week, would have an adverse effect on the earnings of Corporation Securities. At the end of 1930 the company held 91,814 shares of Insull Utility preferred, which yielded approximately $550,900 yearly in dividends. As Corporation Securities directors have already omitted the dividend on their preferred, Insull Utility has lost a potential yearly income of $2,191,530 from dividends on its holdings of 365,255 shares of the trust's preferred held at the end of 1930.

Stocks of the Insull operating companies and Middle West Utilities, holding firm for the far flung operating companies in the smaller communities, were sympathetically affected by the declines in the investment trust shares. The losses were moderate, however, and the selling lacked the insistent character which marked liquidation in the trust shares. Commonwealth Edison dropped to 110½ from its previous price above 114. Middle West lost a fraction to 4½.

BUYING FLURRY RISES IN GOTHAM SILVER MARKET

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—A brief flurry of buying swept over the New York silver market today, which is now second only to London as the trading place for that metal, since the closing of the Shanghai and Bombay exchanges.

In the National Metal exchange the July delivery sold up .20 of a cent to 30.95 cents an ounce, but later fell back to 30.83, and other options were barely changed at the finish. Some 500,000 ounces were traded. Bar silver for immediate delivery was quoted at one-eighth of a cent higher at 29¾.

Trading in the New York market for this metal, so important in Mexico and the far east, where it is used as a currency base, has been watched more closely lately, since the Nationalist resistance campaign in India resulted in closing the Bombay exchange, and trading was suspended in Shanghai following the recent disorders there.

Trading in silver futures was begun in New York about one year ago, when the National Metal exchange of this city admitted silver to the trading group. Since then there has been an orderly growth in buying and selling transactions and, with the steadily increasing accumulation of silver metal in this city, activity in silver options has gained.

Today's gold transactions involved a net decrease of $1,798,700 in the country's monetary stock, the New York Federal Reserve bank statement disclosed. There was an export of $1,900,500 to France. No imports were reported, but there was a decrease of $101,800 in the stock of gold under earmark for foreign account.

RAILROADS SEEN WORKING HARD FOR RECOVERY

BY O. A. MATHER.

There was accumulating evidence yesterday that the American railroads are disposed to do as much as they reasonably can to bring about a turn in trade and industry. Several of the largest carriers announced projects that call for employment of many thousands of men and many millions of dollars.

Railroad managements, having been given the benfit of lower wages voluntarily by their employés and being assured financial aid from the government, recognize that it is good policy to reciprocate. It is not to be expected that all roads will immediately plunge into programs of vast expenditures, as their financial situation is still too uncertain to permit such a course. However, it is likely they will go as far as they can in alleviating unemployment in their own industry.

The Pennsylvania railroad still has nearly half of its 175 million dollar electrification program to be completed, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president, has announced that the road will apply to the new government Reconstruction Finance corporation for a "reasonable" loan. This will enable the Pennsylvania to carry on its program, which calls for an outlay of approximately $5,000,000 a month. About 20,000 additional men would be employed.

Helping Employment.

"Every penny requested will be utilized for the purpose of giving employment and ordering materials from various industries," Gen. Atterbury said. "The company will make its own arrangements to meet maturities and any other obligations that may arise during the year."

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe this year plans to expend nearly $13,000,000 on additions and betterments, according to an announcement by President W. B. Storey. The work will include continuance of building the new line from Boise City, Okla., to Las Animas, Colo. It is understood this piece of work will employ about 1,000 additional men and require about $4,000,000. Other work planned will require more than 2,000 additional men.

Southern Pacific to Buy Rails.

Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific, announced that his road will place orders this week for 20,000 tons of rails and also will buy a substantial amount of ties. The New York Central will open its locomotive works at Indianapolis within the next ten days with a full force of 1,200 men. This is the first activity since a temporary five day week in December.

Outside of the railroad industry, American Steel Foundries announced that 600 employés will return to work next Monday when operations at the Alliance, O., plant are resumed. The Associated Gas and Electric system spent more than $13,000,000 for new construction last year and plans a large program this year.

Other Good Signs.

There were hints in yesterday's news of some improvement in the construction industry. The Engineering News-Record estimates heavy engineering contracts at $24,341,000 for the last week, compared with $22,573,000 in the preceding week. The current total, however, is far short of the $57,866,000 for the week ended Feb. 5, 1931.

A gradual upward line on the nation's building chart should be registered during the next six months, says a survey by the Indiana Limestone company.

"Signs indicate the bottom has been touched in the three year building slump," President A. E. Dickinson said. "Basic factors point to a slow rise with the movement gaining momentum as the year progresses.

"The long period of inactivity has created a backlog of what should prove to be a surprising amount of building in certain types. In latest reports from various sections, a shortage of home building is indicated. It is believed January may have established the low building point of the depression, the outlook for the next sixty days being considerably better."

May Department Stores Pays 45 Cents on Common

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—May Department Stores declared a dividend of 45 cents a share on its common stock. Previously 62½ cents had been paid quarterly.

Crown Cork and Seal company declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, halving the 60 cent rate previously paid.

BUSINESS NOTES

Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, has gone to California for a short vacation to recover from an attack of influenza.

Arrangements were completed for the purchase of a membership on the Chicago Stock exchange at $5,800, down $700.

Plans to Cure Slump Call on Public Cash

BY SCRUTATOR.

Judging by the letters coming to this column and the telephone calls and personal visits from self-appointed saviors of the nation, about one person in every ten has some plan for solving the depression and putting the United States back on the high road to prosperity.

There is one respect in which the panaceas submitted to this writer have been strikingly similar. Almost without exception they have something to sell to the government.

Sometimes the inventor of the plan is a person of high standing in the business and financial world. Sometimes he cannot spell correctly. But they nearly all seem to have one idea —that Uncle Sam can, if he will, borrow some more money, sell some more bonds, and back a scheme to stabilize all business and agriculture, rehire the unemployed, and start profits rolling in.

Everything Circulates.

"I have a plan to keep U. S. A. in circulation, keep manufacturers busy, keep retailers busy, keep city in circulation," writes one reader. "This is a real plan," he adds in a postscript, "much better than Mr. Rorty's."

The plan proposed by Col. M. C. Rorty, former president of the National Bureau of Economic Research, was explained in this column without comment. It stirred the ire of other plan inventors. "Tommyrot!" writes one reader. "Don't you think you have been an easy mark?"

"The trouble is," he insisted, "we have not been planning our economic structure. These severe fluctuations could be overcome if only we would adopt a definite plan." After a hurried interview he departed, saying that he must catch a train back, because he had a family of ten children to look after.

These incidents are mentioned only because they seem to shed light on the widespread popular demand for planned recovery as well as the schemes advanced by politicians for the expenditure of public money on depression cures.

Forget Farm Board Failure.

Apparently the fact that the nation has emerged from other depressions not through a plan of government spending, but by hard work, enforced economies, and painful readjustment of values, does not penetrate. Neither does the failure of the government financed farm board.

Despite the two billion dollar deficit confronting the federal government bills introduced in congress since the opening of the present session for assistance to agriculture alone total close to two billions.

Senator Brookhart asks an even billion to amend the agricultural marketing act. In the house of representatives a bill has been introduced calling for a half billion dollars to provide a system of loans on farm products. Another quarter billion is asked in Senator Bankhead's bill to encourage development of agricultural resources and the building of rural homes.

Other miscellaneous bills include one calling for two million dollars to reimburse states for the expenses of combating grasshoppers.

Reports Big Loss.

Last year the farm board reported a loss of $110,000,000 on stabilization wheat and $115,000,000 on stabilization cotton in addition to $15,000,000 losses on coöperative loans.

To ascertain the results of these past attempts to engineer the return of prosperity by spending huge sums of public money one has only to examine the present market prices of the commodities that the farm board has tried to help and the present market prices of United States government bonds, particularly the latter, giving, as they do, a fair index of the nation's credit.

Any grandiose plan calling for the expenditure of billions by the government is based on the assumption that it would be able to borrow the amount needed for the purposes stated. It is easily to devise plans for spending other people's money, especially that of the taxpayers.

DIP IN JANUARY MONEY RATE LAID TO CREDIT DROP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The decline in January in money rates may be attributed partly to the continued reduction in member-bank credit and partly to the retirement of currency from circulation, which, however, was less rapid than usual for the time of year, according to the monthly review of credit and business conditions by the New York federal reserve bank.

"Call money, after advancing to 3½ per cent at the year end, declined on Jan. 7 to 2½ per cent, the rate which had prevailed from the middle of October to around the middle of December," the review says. "Yields on short term government securities also declined markedly.

"On Jan. 12 the federal reserve bank's buying rates for acceptances, which had been ¼ per cent or more above the market offering rates for indorsed bills for some time previous, were reduced ⅛ to ¼ per cent, as practically no bills were offered to replace the heavy maturities from reserve bank holdings, and the amount of federal reserve credit outstanding through bills purchased was declining rapidly.

Fireman's Fund Insurance Reports $34,992,929 Assets

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 5.—[Special.]—The Fireman's Fund Insurance company, dealing in all types of insurance except life, reported total assets of $34,992,929, a policy holders' surplus of $17,060,768, and an unearned premium reserve of $13,327,592 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931, according to the annual statement of J. B. Levison, president.

REPORT BENDIX GROUP ACQUIRES CONTROL OF PEERLESS MOTOR

New York, Feb. 5.—[Special.]—Vincent Bendix, president of the Bendix Aviation corporation, and a group of his associates have acquired control o fthe Peerless Motor Car corporation of Cleveland, O., it was reported today.

The Bendix interests, it is believed, plan to use the Peerless facilities for manufacturing purposes outside the field of Bendix Aviation. No direct connection was seen between Bendix Aviation and the entry of Bendix interests into Peerless.

Caleb Bragg, a director of Bendix Aviation, and David Beecroft, an executive of the Bendix subsidiaries, were elected to the board of the Peerless company last month.

J. A. Bohannon, president of the Peerless Motor Car corporation, recently said that Peerless, while planning to continue in the automobile business, was considering acquisition of new products to utilize its facilities more fully. The company has offered to buy back its stock from shareholders at $3.50 a share.

Peerless has been producing automobiles for more than thirty-one years and is rated as the oldest passenger car manufacturer still in business. In 1929 it reorganized its manufacturing operations and facilities to improve its competitive position in the industry.

SQUEEZE SHORTS IN JAPANESE YEN, BANK AGENT SAYS

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Speculators in foreign exchange who sold the Japanese yen short on Japan's suspension of gold shipments and because of her difficulties in China, were severely "squeezed" by the Yokohama Specia bank, it became known today.

How the bank, the actual controller of Japan's currency, fooled the speculators throughout the world and made a profit estimated at nearly $1,000,000 besides, was related by S. Sonoda, agent of the bank.

"In the few weeks preceding Japan's prohibition of gold shipments thousands of persons thought the nation was headed for war," he said. "They tried to sell Japanese bonds short, but found that the government was supporting the market.

"Then they turned to the Japanese yen, in which the Yokohama Specie bank is practically the only buyer. The speculators sold into a bag, and a few days before Japan dropped gold shipments the bank called all contracts and forced the short sellers to deliver yen at the standard price of 49.50 to 49.80 cents. Many of the sellers in their short operations had contracted to deliver yen at prices far below the standard price.

"The yen is now selling at about 35 cents, but short sellers are afraid, and they have good reason to be."

WALGREEN COMPANY SALES IN JANUARY PUT AT $4,217,260

Walgreen company reports January sales of $4,217,260, compared with $4,451,343 in the comparable period last year. This was a decline of 5.2 per cent. At the close of January the drug chain had 468 units in operation, it was reported.

National Bellas Hess company's gross cash receipts last month totaled $2,045,779, down 19½ per cent, compared with the $2,542,227 reported for January, 1931.

G. C. Murphy company's sales for January were off 9 per cent compared with the same 1931 month, the figures being $1,110,793 and $1,221,813, respectively.

Sales of J. J. Newberry for January were $1,838,959, compared with $1,769,392 in the same month last year, an increase of 3.9 per cent.

January sales of the first ten chain stores to report show a decrease of 4.8 per cent compared with a year ago. Their aggregate sales last month were $39,732,125, against $41,760,371 in January, 1931. Mail order and restaurant chains are not included in the compilation.

New York Curb Seat Sells for $38,000, a Recession

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Reflection of the quiet market on the curb was found today in the announcement that arrangements had been made for the transfer of a seat for $38,000, which is $3,000 below the price paid for the last membership.

U. S. Regains Fall-Doheny Oil Leases

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 5.—(AP)—More than $12,000,000 worth of oil leases in the Elk Hills reserve of California were won back by the federal government today by a court decision that again placed the brand of fraud on naval oil leasing transactions between Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny.

Judge William E. Sawtelle of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled against the Pan-American Petroleum company in its fight to retain the leases. Judges A. F. St. Sure and Jeremiah Neterer also sat in the case.

The court held illegal the award of the leases to the Doheny concern by Fall, former secretary of the interior, now serving a prison term on conviction of accepting a bribe from the oil magnate. A decision of United States District Judge Frank H. Corcross on Nov. 19, 1930, in favor of the company was reversed.

Deals Termed Conspiracy.

Judge Sawtelle referred to the activities of Fall and Doheny as "the Fall-Doheny conspiracy," and said "this fraud and conspiracy constituted a wrongful act from which more than one cause of action might flow." As secretary of the interior, Mr. Fall leased to the Pan-American Petroleum company 37,000 or more acres of Elk Hills oil land, for which he allegedly received a bribe of $100,000 from Doheny.

The oil company contended the lands involved in the suit should have been included in a previous lease cancellation suit won by the government. Judge Sawtelle held that "each lease represented a separate and distinct violation of the government's primary right to have its contracts made public by a public officer who was not faithless."

Wilbur Favors Oil Tariff.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The long awaited attitude of Secretary Wilbur on an oil tariff was expressed by himself today as favorable, but his approval was conditional on a number of parallel steps to bring order in the disturbed industry.

In a letter to the senate commerce committee, the secretary of the interior said he favored a pending bill by Senator Shortridge [Rep., Cal.], which would place a duty of $1 a barrel on imported crude oil, but Mr. Wilbur emphasized he believed the tariff would help only if conservation measures in this country were taken and other safeguards surrounded the levy.

At the interior department it was said the secretary felt an oil tariff might be made the initial step in a legislative program to end chaos in the industry, but in his letter the secretary made no mention of this. One thing stressed by the secretary was that he felt the oil producing states should be allowed to enter into a compact to regulate their production.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 5.—Folks of the financial district were feeling sorry for the railroads of the country today—and selling stocks to show it. The move by the Pennsylvania to obtain a loan of some $5,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and rumors that other roads might be forced to follow suit or shut up shop doused the hopes raised in behalf of the carriers by the recent wage settlement and laid them open to fresh liquidation on a heavy scale.

No Favors Shown.

Pennsylvania was sent tumbling for nearly a point and losses in other active issues of the group ranged as high as six points, the extreme being set by Delaware and Lackawanna. In the afternoon a report went the rounds that Union Pacific directors were preparing to slash the $10 dividend of that road and this added fresh fuel to the selling fever.

There was no favor shown in the selling, every issue of the section being knocked down without mercy. The close found the group as a whole showing considerably more than half the gain it scored on its wage cut prospects sacrificed to the new turn in public sentiment. Outstanding among the day's losses were Delaware and Hudson off 5⅝ points, Norfolk and Western off 3½, Union Pacific, 2⅞; Southern Pacific, 2; Rock Island, 2½; New York Central, 2, and New Haven, 2⅛ points.

Industrials Sell Off.

Industrial and public utility shares were close seconds to the rails in the decline and losses of 2 to 5 points were numerous in both these divisions. United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, and Coca Cola and a long list of other speculative favorites had to stand and pay the piper in turn and together.

General Electric was pounded to a new bear market low on a loss of nearly a point on reports of a slump

BY AL CHASE.

In every one of the nine geographical sections of the United States the money supply for real estate mortgage loans is insufficient for the demand, according to a country-wide survey just completed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, of which Lawrence T. Stevenson of Pittsburgh is president. In 70 per cent of the cities loans are seeking capital; in 22 per cent there is a balanced situation as between supply and demand; in only 8% of the cities is there a condition where capital is seeking investment.

LAWRENCE T. STEVENSON.

The east north central and the west south central sections show greatest prevalence of loans seeking capital. Most pronounced shortage of mortgage money is shown in cities of under 200,000 population. Of the smaller cities only 2% show capital seeking loans. But in cities of the largest population bracket, 60% report loans seeking capital, only 20% having capital seeking outlet.

Interest rates are rising in 21% of the cities reporting; steady in 75% and falling in only 4%. Financing costs as well as money supply shows a decided change from conditions of six months ago, when only 53% of the cities reported a dearth of mortgage funds. In the survey of a year ago 40% of the cities stated that loans were seeking capital.

Many Boards Optomistic.

"Many real estate boards report a general feeling, quite apart from statistical proof, that a turn to a better situation is under way," the survey states.

"Selling prices reflect general business abnormality and are lower than they were a year ago in 85% of the cities reporting. While 31% of the cities report market activity approximately the same as a year ago, 57% report a less active market, and 12% a more active situation.

"In recording the nation-wide downward movement in rents which has accompanied general cost reductions, some reporting cities indicate that the bottom seems to have been reached. Apartment rents, however, are the only group showing any indication toward rising rates.

"Business property rents show the most pronounced effect of present uncertainties. Office building space is indicated as being in a somewhat more stabilized condition both in regard to rent levels and occupancy than is apartment space."

Winderemere Hotel Bonds.

Holders of the Windermere hotel 6½% first mortgage bonds have been mailed a letter by the S. W. Straus & Co. bondholders' committee which states that cash on hand and in banks on Nov. 30, 1931, was $99,699. Cash receipts from the time the trustee took possession in June, 1931, until Nov. 30 were $618,853, with disbursements of $527,622.

In view of the foreclosure and acceleration of the bond issue, by which all bonds and coupons have been declared due and payable, at this time no funds can be made available for distribution to bondholders, but will continue to accumulate in the hands of the trustee for the future use of the bondholders, the secretary states.

The committee states that reorganization is contingent on procuring a new first mortgage which is now being sought. In order partially to defray the committee expenses a $16,000 bank credit has been arranged for, it is announced. Bonds deposited now total 89 per cent of the issue. The original issue was $3,600,000, which was reduced to $3,198,000. Principal defaulted on June 15, 1931, and interest on Dec. 15, 1931.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET IS WEAK; U. S. LIENS GAIN

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Outside of a few special issues, the bond market displayed a wan appearance today. While the domestic list sagged, United States government obligations turned upward moderately. The heaviest trading in this category was in Liberty first and fourth 4¼s and treasury 3¼s.

Railway mortgages gave a relatively poor account of themselves, while the industrials and utilities maintained about the same levels as in the preceding session. Pennsylvania liens advanced at one time, but finally relinquished their gains.

There was a demand for Allegheny 5s of 1950 following announcement from Cleveland that the Van Sweringen interests had rearranged their securities to substitute certain income producing securities for nonproducers under the corporation's three collateral trust indentures. These bonds gained 1⅝ points and the 5s of 1949 were up ½.

BEARISH NEWS WEAKENS WHEAT MARKET PRICES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders were more impressed with the weakness in the stock market and higher temperatures throughout the west and southwest yesterday than by war developments in the orient. Prices dropped 1@1⅛c from Thursday's finish with the May delivery touching 58c or 2½c under the high of the previous day.

The decline brought in fairly active support at times with holders of bids and commission houses taking hold on the way down. May wheat was wanted early at 58½c on resting orders and again at 58c, houses that have recently been on the selling side being the leading buyers.

Closing trades were at net losses of ¾@1c with March wheat finishing at 55½c, while May was 58⅛@58¼c, and July, 58⅛@58⅝c. Selling of futures here against purchases at Winnipeg widened the spread between the two markets, the latter closing ¼@⅝c lower with May at 62⅝c in Canadian funds which were quoted around 12¾ per cent discount.

British Tariff Hits U. S.

A heavy blow to American export business in Canadian wheat which has been milled in bond at Buffalo was struck by the new British tariff which is scheduled to go into effect on March 1, according to a cable to the Modern Miller. The report said a tax of 10 per cent will be levied against this flour, although empire milled will be admitted duty free. According to Nat C. Murray around one-eighth of the total American exports of wheat to England have been in the form of flour during the last 4 years. Imports of wheat, as grain, are expected to be regulated by a quota system.

The cold wave which has prevailed over the winter wheat belt for several days seems to have been dissipated, and the forecast was for generally fair and warmer weather. No complaints of crop deterioration of consequence was received. H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan expert who has returned from a trip in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, was inclined to feel the cold weather had been beneficial as it would check growth.

There was only a moderate export business in North American wheats with sales of around 400,000 bu, largely Manitobas, but included some hard winter at the gulf to Greece. Liverpool closed ⅞@1⅛c per bu lower with May at 55⅝c. Weakness there was due to lack of demand for cash grain and to the new tariff. Buenos Aires was off ¼c at the last with March at 42¾c.

Southern hemisphere exports of wheat for the week aggregated 8,878,000 bu, compared with 8,207,000 bu the previous week, and 8,123,000 bu last year.

Corn Receives Support.

Corn traders continue to act with considerable caution in taking the selling side of the May delivery below 40c, although there was a dip of ½c early to 39⅛c. A house with eastern connections was a good buyer at 39¼c and there was also support from holders of bids, checking the decline. The weakness in the stock market and in wheat had some effect on local sentiment, and a leading professional was credited with selling toward the last. Closing trades were about the bottom with March at 36⅝c; May at 39⅛@39¼c, and July, 41⅜c. New low levels since Jan. 15 were established during the day.

Demand for cash corn was again inactive with shipping sales of 11,000 bu, while the country sold 21,000 bu to arrive and 100,000 bu were sold to go to store. Broomhall's Argentine agent expects that the increase in corn acreage in that country will offset the recent dry weather and heat damage and that the yield will be about as large as last season. Buenos Aires closed unchanged with March at 27⅝c.

Foreigners are showing little interest in North American oats and rye and with a lack of incentive for operators to take the buying or selling side freely, both grains drifted lower in sympathy with wheat. Oats were ¼@⅜c lower, with May, 25¼c, and July, 24⅝c, while rye lost ¾@⅞c, May being 45¼c and July, 46⅜c.

MARCH SUGAR FUTURES UNDER CENT A POUND

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Sugar prices in both the spot and futures market again dropped to the lowest levels in the history of trading in that commodity today.

A sale of spot sugar at 2.93 cents a pound was confirmed and in futures the March contract sold at 0.91 of a cent, or 3 points below the previous low level.

Brokers reported heavy general selling based on the continuing uncertainty of Java's plans with regard to the 1932-'33 season, with nervousness intensified by unconfirmed rumors that President Machado of Cuba was about to issue a decree calling for a crop for the coming season of 3,261,000 tons, or considerably more than the trade has been expecting.

Southwestern Roads Ask Cotton Rate Reduction

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—Southwestern railroads, seeking to meet barge and truck competition, today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to reduce rates on cotton from Memphis, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and southern Missouri points to New Orleans and Texas seaports.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS.

Foreign demand for North American cash wheat was again disappointing, with sales in all positions estimated at 400,000 bu, largely Manitobas via Vancouver, but included some hard winter via the gulf. Greece was said to have taken the latter. Barley sales via Vancouver were placed at 150,000 bu.

Chicago handlers sold 8,000 bu wheat, 11,000 bu corn, 14,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu barley to the domestic trade, with 21,000 bu corn and 4,000 bu oats booked to arrive. Sales of 100,000 bu corn were made to go to store.

Shipping demand for cash corn remains relatively light. A good part of the receipts were applied on to arrive contracts. Basis was steady to ¼c lower. Discounts as compared with May follow: No. 2 mixed and yellow, 2½c; white, 1½c; No. 3 mixed, 4½@5c; yellow, 4@5c; white, 3½@4c; No. 4 mixed, 5½@6c; yellow, 4¾@5½c; white, 4½@5c.

Offerings of cash oats continue fairly good, with the basis steady. No. 2 white brought May price to ½c under, and No. 3 white, ⅜@1⅝c under May. No. 2 rye was 1c under to 4c over May.

SNOW COVERING LIGHT

The official snow may up to the evening of Feb. 1 shows that the only portion of the winter wheat area with snow covering was in Nebraska and the west two-thirds of Kansas, with the balance of the important area entirely bare, with the exception of a trace of snow in the south central Indiana and a little along the southern edge of the great lakes. It is pointed out that the severe cold weather of last week found the greater part of wheat crop entirely without protection.

Logan & Bryan's crop expert says only slight damage resulted in Kentucky from the recent cold wave with the lowest temperatures there 15 above, and believes that the cold snap may prove more beneficial there than harmful because of checking abnormal winter growth. However, the crop in these sections still remains in danger from damage that would come from another warm spell followed by a sudden drop to near zero, also damage from frost heaving that usually comes in March in this territory.

The Modern Miller says that, despite two cold waves over the winter wheat belt, there have been no serious complaints of damage, but that growing weather is necessary to determine the loss.

COTTON MARKETS DULL; JAPAN BUYING LAGS

Cotton markets were practically at a standstill, with futures at the close in domestic markets 2 points lower to 2 points higher. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1 point up. Private estimates are for a cut of 10@20 per cent in acreage. Japanese buying, which has been the sustaining factor of late, has practically ceased, due, it is said, to the sharp rise in insurance rates, large cotton stocks at Osaka, and the boycott of Japanese goods in China.

It is estimated by an international cotton house that a cotton crop of 3,843,000 bales of 400 lbs each will be raised in India this year, as compared with a preliminary estimate of 5,700,000 bales and a crop of 6,250,000 bales two seasons ago. This shortage, it is believed, combined with the near failure of the Chinese crop, will result in American cotton displacing these growths this season at exceeding 2,000,000 bales.

Spot prices were unchanged: New York, 6.65c; New Orleans and Galveston, 6.55c, and Houston 6.60c. Prices follow:

BUTTER PRICES DECLINE

Selling pressure sent butter and egg futures off sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, declines of ¾c being recorded in most deliveries, while April fresh butter was unchanged. Storage news in butter again was slightly improved but buyers were cautious. Covering appeared on each decline and new buying was present but sentiment appears to be rather heavily bearish for the time being. The four markets reported 140,000 lbs out but this supply was 82,000 lbs less than last year. Continued light egg receipts did not encourage material support of February fresh firsts and selling carried the market down. Storage news continued bearish but was rather disregarded. LARD MARKET NARROW

Firmness was on in the lard market for a time in the early trading yesterday, which gave way later in sympathy with weakness in grains. The close was unchanged on the near deliveries and 2½c lower on July, and 2½c higher on September. May bellies were off 20c, with light trade. Hogs were higher, with receipts lighter than a week and a year ago. Cash trade was only fair. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d higher, the latter on spot. Export clearances were 154,000 lbs. Cash lard 4.72½c, loose, 4.12½c; leaf, 3.87½c. Short ribs and bellies, 5.75. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES

Outside interest in futures on the New York Hide exchange has shown considerable improvement since the deadlock which existed for many weeks between packers and tanners has been broken. Total sales yesterday were 2,480,000 lbs, with prices 15 to 30 points lower. Estimated sales of hides to tanners in the last few days is estimated around 300,000. Prices follow:

ILLINOIS ACTS TO BAR INCREASE IN SWITCH RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—Striving to keep its jurisdiction over intrastate freight rates within the Chicago switching district, the Illinois commerce commission today took steps opposing any action by the interstate commerce commission toward increasing such rates.

The Illinois commerce commission on Aug. 26 last entered an order in which jurisdiction was taken over rates on intrastate traffic in the Chicago switching district and finding that railroads operating in the district had not justified by evidence presented any increase in switching rates in the district. The carriers later sought to counteract the order by filing a petition with the interstate commission asking it to exercise jurisdiction over rates on intrastate traffic in the district, this action to be under section 13 of the interstate commerce commission act.

To combat this effort of the carriers the Illinois commerce commission today filed with the interstate commerce commission a motion telling the interstate commission that it should not exercise its authority under section 13 and thus override and nullify the decision of the Illinois commission, at least on the facts now contained in the record of the case.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Heavy selling of wheat by several of the large commission houses was said to be unloading for a few tired and disappointed longs owing to the failure of the market to respond to the war news and to the belief that crop damage so far has not been serious. Indisposition on the part of the general public to participate freely on the buying side has also been a factor in causing local professionals to refuse to take the buying side in a way that would advance prices sharply. It was believed at the last that the trade was more nearly evened up and in a position to follow the news.

Corn traders remain bearish owing to increased receipts and expectations are that there will be a better run of corn from the country for the next few weeks with an inadequate shipping demand. It was said that unless the latter improved prospects are that prices may work somewhat lower and that speculators will have to take hold more freely to offset the effect of the poor consumptive trade.

The last sale of a Board of Trade membership was at $7,500 net to the buyer.

James E. Bennett & Co.'s Kansas City office wires that receipts of corn on Thursday were 24 cars and none shipped out, and stated that it would take very little increased movement to more than supply the industries who are practically the only buyers.

Reports from Vancouver say that ships in port loading and to load will take 1,055,733 bu of wheat and for the remainder of the month bookings are estimated at 2,634,827 bu. March bookings so far this month are light, 244,267 bu, all for the United Kingdom.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

An assortment of rumors were current in conection with the heavy selltended its decline abruptly, falling back for a further loss of some 7 points at the low levels. The selling in the issue was not particularly widespread in its origin, but rather came very largely from several special sources. Most of the rumors abroad were discounted, with the belief prevailing in usually well posted circles that the January registration figures, which should be forthcoming early next week, will provide ample explanation for the weakness.

Bearish Tendencies.

Professional speculators, particularly floor traders, were reported to have turned quite bearish in consequence of the disappointing action of the market yesterday. This element, so the story goes, proceeded to hammer away at stocks in the hope of bringing the market out of its trading range on the downside. That the market was perhaps subject to something of a "bear drive" would seem to be indicated from the fact that up to noon out of turnover of 600,000 shares approximately 233,000 shares, or 40 per cent, was accounted for by trading in the fourteen most active issues.

Odd Lot Buying.

Curious as it may seem, considering the apparent lack of incentive for such accusation, odd lot buying is still said to be cutting quite a figure in the daily trade on the stock exchange. Demand from the public for broken lots, according to one of the leading firms doing such business, is relatively larger than at any time in recent years.
